Senate Okays Gubernatorial Campaign Fund Bill

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — In the face of a veto threat, the state Senate has passed legislation to provide partial public funding of gubernatorial election races. The bill, embroiled in a dispute between Gov. William Milliken and the Democratic-controlled legislature, was approved 21-12 Wednesday. Milliken has threatened to veto it unless another measure regulating campaign financing is changed to meet Republican objections.

The public funding bill would employ a $2 check-off on personal income tax forms to divert tax revenues into a special fund for gubernatorial campaigns. The intent is to reduce the political influence of large contributors by letting candidates share an estimated $3 million a year in public money. The bill returns to the House for agreement in Senate changes after a near-straight party line vote. Only one Democrat — Sen. Thomas Guastello, D-Sterling Heights — opposed the bill, along with 11 Republicans. All "yes" votes were Democratic.

The other bill regulating campaign financing for other offices is in a House committee. Milliken said the two bills are linked and cannot be enacted separately. The governor claims the campaign reform measure treats business unfairly, lets too many donations go unreported, and permits unions to shuffle campaign money among their local units.

"We need a mechanism for disclosure of the source and amounts of non-public matching funds in gubernatorial elections, as well as for contributions in other elections," Milliken said Wednesday. "The public funding bill does not provide for sufficient public disclosure. There should be no doubt about my intention. As it stands alone, I would veto it." Democrats angrily called Milliken's approach to the two bills "outrageous, shameful, and blackmail," and said they will not bow to such pressure. They declined to meet with the governor to discuss their differences over the campaign funding measure.

Both bills are part of the sweeping 1975 political regulations law which was overturned by the state Supreme Court on grounds it included too many issues in one measure. The Democratic-controlled legislature has begun consideration of the individual topics separately. The gubernatorial financing bill allows a "major" party candidate for governor to qualify for up to $550,000 in public money for the primary election campaign and an additional $750,000 for the general election. "Minority" or smaller parties will also be able to qualify for partial funding.

Only Republicans and Democrats qualify for majority party status in Michigan currently, based on their proportion of the vote in the gubernatorial elections. Candidates requesting partial public funding could spend a maximum of $1 million in each of the primary and general election campaigns.

Carter's Given Edge In Surprising Debate

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
AP Political Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — President Ford and Jimmy Carter have set off shock waves among politicians and diplomats with their second campaign debate. Among voters, the audience that really counts, an Associated Press poll today gave Carter a narrow edge.

Ford's pronouncements on Eastern Europe and the Arab boycott, and a hard line by Democrat Carter on the Panama Canal Zone, stirred instant controversy. At the same time, the debate thrust foreign and defense policy to the forefront in the presidential campaign.

The 90-minute debate was livelier than the first encounter between the Republican President and his challenger. Both were more aggressive this time. Each attacked his opponent more freely, dropping much of the restraint and studied politeness that had marked their first confrontation.

The AP telephone survey of 1,071 registered voters was conducted immediately after the debate Wednesday night. It showed 38.2 per cent thought Carter had won, 34.6 per cent rated Ford the victor, and the rest called it a tie or said they didn't know who won.

The theoretical margin of error for a sample of this size is about 2.9 per cent in either direction if the results are projected to reflect the reaction of the entire debate audience.

So neither man was a clearcut winner. By similar margins, Ford gained the advantage in an identical survey after the first debate, two weeks ago.

While Carter's margin over Ford was statistically small, the scores in his favor were consistent throughout the varied questions asked in the survey, which reinforces the poll's basic finding.

The poll also showed that Carter had slightly increased his lead over Ford in the presidential preferences of those who watched the televised debate. Before the debate, Carter led Ford 45.8 per cent to 43 per cent. Afterward, Carter's margin had increased, and stood at 48.5 to 44.8.

The AP poll was conducted by Chilton Research Services of Radnor, Pa.

Highlighted by sharp differences on details but broad agreement on the objectives of foreign and defense policy, the debate no sooner had ended than both candidates said they thought they had done well.

"I think I won and I'm sure he feels the same way," Carter said as he left the ornate Palace of Fine Arts, site of the nationally televised debate. Carter said he had rated the first debate a tie "but I feel better about this one."

"I think we did all right," said Ford.

Both men had the same reaction after their first encounter two weeks ago in Philadelphia.

The third and final debate between the two presidential candidates is scheduled for Oct. 22, in Williamsburg, Va. On Oct. 15, their vice presidential running mates, Sens. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., and Bob Dole, R-Kans., will debate, most Officers of the Berrien Metro Crime and Drug Enforcement unit said a Benton Harbor couple was arrested late Wednesday during a drug raid at their home.

Booked at the Berrien county jail on charges of possession of heroin with intent to deliver were Carl Edwin Cobb, Jr., 25, and Carolyn Joyce Cobb, 23, both of 861 Schulz court on the south side of the city.

Metro officers said they were assisted by Benton Harbor police in executing a search warrant at 861 Schulz about 11:30 p.m. Seized were suspected heroin and marijuana with a street value estimated at between $300 and $400, officers reported.

Wholesale Price Index Goes Up One Per Cent

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices soared nine-tenths of 1 per cent in September, the sharpest increase in 11 months, due primarily to higher costs for farm products and a broad range of industrial goods, the government reported today.

The Labor Department report indicated strong inflationary pressure in the economy, and was certain to provide Democrat Jimmy Carter and other administration critics with fresh ammunition in the presidential campaign.

President Ford's economic advisers were concerned that today's statistics, as well as some yet to come before the Nov. 2 election, would increase public anxiety and put their man on the defensive.

The September increase was the largest since wholesale prices rose 1.1 per cent last October. It followed a decline of one-tenth of 1 per cent in August, and increases which averaged three-tenths of 1 per cent in the three preceding months.

The new surge in prices is likely to mean higher costs ahead for consumers, since changes at the wholesale level are generally followed at the retail level.

The increases probably will be reflected first at supermarket counters.

Elkhart Man Is Accused Of Raping Cass Girl, 6

VANDALIA — A 50-year-old Elkhart, Ind., man was arrested last night for the alleged rape of a six-year-old girl he had lured to his cottage after she got off the school bus, according to Cass Sheriff's deputies.

Detectives from the sheriff's metro crime unit said Frank A. Jennings of Elkhart was arrested about 8 p.m. on a charge of first degree sexual conduct.

Detectives said that the girl apparently was let off the bus south of Vandalia sometime prior to 4 p.m., and went to the cottage of a man who had helped pick up books she had dropped.

Later, detectives said they were told, the sobbing child met her mother on her way to the bus stop point to pick up the child and the child related she had been assaulted.

The arrest at the cottage came after the child was treated and examined at a hospital, detectives added.

Jennings was being held today pending arraignment on the charge in Fourth District court in Cassopolis.

Following the arrest, Cass Sheriff James Northrup issued a warning to parents to advise their children not to accept rides or gratuities from strangers.

Thou Shalt Not Steal, Mother Insists

CASSOPOLIS — A Chicago man who allegedly attempted to rob a woman in a church parking lot near here last night was arrested minutes later inside the church where he went seeking a cup of coffee, according to the Cass county sheriff's department.

Deputies said the man was arrested by sheriff's Capt. Paul Parrish, head of the sheriff's detective unit. Parrish teaches a class at the Pleasant View Church of Christ at Crooked Creek road and M-69.

Arrested on a charge of attempted armed robbery was a man detectives identified as Vincent Townsend, 22, of Chicago. He was to be arraigned in Fourth District court today.

Deputies gave this account:

Mrs. Beverly Cox of Cassopolis was sitting in her car in the church parking lot, waiting for her daughter, when a man approached her car about 9:15 p.m. The man told Mrs. Cox he had a gun and demanded money. Mrs. Cox refused and drove away.

The man entered the church where he asked Capt. Parrish, who was in street clothes, for a cup of coffee.

In the meantime, Mrs. Cox returned to the church to report the attempted holdup to Parrish.

She pointed out the man who was placed under arrest by Parrish.

Budget Director Cautions Business Tax Task Force

By SUSAN AGER
Associated Press Writer

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — While admitting the state's Single Business Tax needs changing, state budget director Gerald Miller cautioned a task force to tinker tenderly with the tax or risk nullifying its advantages.

"You must look at the single business tax in terms of what was there before," he told a blue-ribbon panel appointed by Gov. William Milliken to recommend changes in the tax.

"Any reasonable person," he said, would conclude that an eight-pronged method used to tax businesses from 1967 to 1975 "was a disaster."

Many small and labor-intensive businesses have concluded the same thing about the SBT, some citing tax payments that have jumped by 1,000 per cent since the new plan was approved last year.

But Miller said even that is better than the old system that failed to stimulate jobs or deter periodic tax increases — two goals he said the state and its businesses agree on.

It failed, he said, because the old system relied too heavily on taxing profits, which tend to drop during recessions and force tax rates up.

He told the task force, headed by Lt. Gov. James Damman, that any changes they suggest should have four goals in mind, the same goals which the SET was written to accomplish:

—Job development. "Maybe we can do more" by revising the tax, Miller told the group.

—Stability, to smooth out the state's traditional "roller-coaster" economy.

—Simplicity in calculating and paying the tax.

—Minimal increased burdens on various business sectors.

State officials touted the new scheme, which levies a flat 2.35 per cent tax on a business's profits, payroll, interest and depreciation, as a way to erase inequities in the old system.

They also claimed it would encourage capital development and increase jobs in Michigan, partly by allowing firms to write off 100 per cent of their capital investments. Healthy capital-intensive industries, like the auto makers and utilities, are "generally what makes a community survive," Miller said.

But early results of a task force survey of Michigan businesses show 62 per cent disagreed with the whole concept. 80 per cent thought it inequitable, and 64 per cent said it was no simpler than old laws.

So far, however, only about 12 per cent of the 4,000 businesses questioned have responded to the survey. The task force will pay $10,000 to $15,000 to repeat its plea for comments, saying it cannot suggest changes until it has enough data on what is wrong.

Miller told business experts on the panel that problems he sees with the SBT are that it is not as simple as it should be; it leans more heavily on small businesses than intended; and its directions for estimating annual tax payments needs revision.

But task force staff accountants told the panel Wednesday that most proposed changes in the tax, aimed at assuaging angry labor-intensive businesses, would force the basic 2.35 per cent rate higher, possibly to 2.9 per cent, to guarantee the state the same amount of revenue.

Board Asks Moratorium On New State Law Schools

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state Board of Education, saying Michigan has more than enough lawyers, has called for a five-year moratorium on establishing any new state-supported law schools. The board said Wednesday the state won't need any new law schools for at least that long because plenty of lawyers are graduating from existing schools to meet state needs. In a 46-page report to Gov. William G. Milliken, the board said Michigan is producing about 1,200 new lawyers a year, a number that "appears to be adequate to meet the traditional need for lawyers in the next five to 10 years." Milliken had asked the state board to determine if Michigan needed more than the five existing public and private law schools. Three state colleges and universities — Michigan State University, Western Michigan University and Grand Valley College — have indicated interest in starting such programs. The state board said the number of lawyers in Michigan has increased by nearly 28 per cent in the last five years. There were 13,971 licensed lawyers in February 1976 compared to 10,944 in 1971, the board said. The board added the state should have more law-related courses in high school and college, not to train budding lawyers, but because citizens have "little concept of their legal rights and responsibilities."

Proposal D Is Latest Michigan Mythology

Once again the usual economic myth is abroad in the land, the same one which appears with regularity at each election. That is that by shifting the tax burden from one group of taxpayers to another, somehow the total burden miraculously will become lighter for all and unprecedented prosperity will result.

In Michigan, the current mythology is known as Proposal D on the Nov. 2nd ballot. It's a proposal to change the state constitution to replace the present flat rate state income tax with a graduated state income tax.

Proponents of Proposal D hail it as a sure way to ease the working man's burden, soak the rich and generously fund all the old state services plus a host of new ones.

The truth is that Proposal D might cut the working man's burden one or two years. But "after that, the deluge!" The amendment is written to give the Legislature carte blanche after Jan. 1, 1978, to set bases and rates of personal income taxes.

In short, Mr. Blue Collar Worker will soon be getting hit so hard he'll pop every button on his shirt. There just aren't enough rich folks in Michigan to provide all the money that Lansing's fat cat bureaucrats want. And a lot of those who are here will be leaving fast.

Michigan already has an horrendous reputation for repelling industry. Higher personal income taxes on executives will make it even worse.

The writers of the proposed constitutional amendment were clever. They made it sound as if just the rich get soaked. Here's how it'll appear on the ballot:

PROPOSAL D

Proposal to replace the present flat rate state income tax with a graduated state income tax for calendar year 1977; thereafter, rates and bases of state income taxes to be determined by the legislature.

THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT WOULD:

- Remove constitutional ban on graduated income tax;
- Reduce to 2.5% maximum the income tax rate on taxable personal income of an individual or individual estate filing a joint return on the first $20,000 of taxable personal income, or joint return personal income, adjusted upwards by $1,000.00 for dependents and each dependent;
- Reduce tax rate of individual taxpayers on income over that amount to replace the loss of revenue caused by above tax reduction;
- Establish constitutional minimum $1,000.00 exemption for taxpayer and each dependent;
- After January 1, 1978, permit the legislature to establish bases and rates of personal income taxes.

Should this amendment be adopted?

No ☐

Note that the sneak punch doesn't come until the very last part of the proposal, section (e). Up till then, the voter could think only those earning over $20,000 annual taxable income would pay more. Unless he or she is careful, the voter won't realize that after Jan. 1, 1978, the $20,000 could be reduced by the Legislature to $10,000, or even $5,000.

Anyone who wants to argue that the tax bite on lower incomes will not be raised had better go to the history books. When the graduated federal income tax was adopted in 1913, it called for a tax of one per cent on incomes up to $20,000 and a surtax of one to six per cent on incomes above $20,000 up to $200,000.

Isn't that $20,000 figure, a remarkable coincidence?

Blue Collar Workers, compare that one per cent of 1913 with today's withholding from your pay check.

Soak the rich? Ha! The big-spending Democratically-controlled Legislature will cut the $20,000 base faster than it takes to say "let 'em eat cake."

And even if the base isn't cut by statute, it will be cut by inflation. Wages are rising six to 12 per cent a year. It won't be long until inflation will likely put most wage-earning families in the $20,000 class.

Like snake oils of the past, such elixirs as Proposal D are not designed to effect a cure — because they cannot — but are supposed to create a myopic trance among the electorate.

In other words: Hello, Sucker!

Won't Know Significance Right Away

Both good and bad news can be found in the FBI's latest crime survey. That is better than similar reports of the recent past have been.

For the first six months of this year, reported serious crime rose 3 per cent. While still an increase, that is a considerable improvement over the 13 per cent increase reported for the first half of last year. This year's crime growth is due largely to an 11 per cent increase in the category of larceny-theft.

Violent crimes are down for the year so far — by 6 per cent. That is the best news of all and continues a trend which first appeared in the second quarter of last year.

A surge in thefts of automobile accessories — particularly citizen band radios — accounts for a large part of the larceny-theft increase.

Two factors mitigate against celebrating the apparent down curve of serious crime: The high plateau it has climbed to in recent decades and the acknowledgement by many authorities that far more crimes are committed than are reported.

Nevertheless, national crime statistics reported by the FBI comprise the only national tabulation and they are generally accepted as a fair trend indicator. The time to applaud the trend will be when it is dropping as rapidly as it rose for too many years.

Sure Allure Of October

October — the month of ghosts, pumpkins, walnuts, cider, football, World Series and chrysanthemums, magic leaves and hazy atmospheres. But, above all, perhaps the most dependable month in the year.

It is nearly always a foregone conclusion what October will bring in the form of weather. Usually a long succession of glorious days of blue haze and color, of sunshine and air like wine.

Serene October conjures up a series of lovely imagines — vari-colored leaves against a setting sun, wide fields of fodder and yellow pumpkins, nut trees shedding their fruit, the chore of clearing away the trees' fallen foliage.

Birds in dull autumn hues flocking for a long journey southward, and all topped by an old-fashioned Halloween celebration.

Of course, October comes on the threshold of winter and has elements of sadness. But, taken altogether, the month is so full of poetry and beauty that one is inclined to enjoy it to the full without thought of bleakness that may lie in wait just around the corner.

SALUTES BLOOD DRIVE CHAIRMAN

The Herald-Palladium printed an article October 1, 1976 about the Berrien County chapter of the American National Red Cross. This article concerned those honored for their many years of dedicated service, the swine flu inoculation program volunteers, and the newly elected officers and board members.

However, I feel one important man did not receive the recognition he so rightly deserves. For the past three years, this Red Cross chapter has been in the Lansing district blood bank. One year ago Mr. John V. Stafford Jr. became Chairman of the Berrien County chapter blood drive. Not only was this the first year the chapter reached its quota, but also went over it. Many people were needed to bring about this kind of results. But the leadership and organization of Jack Stafford played an enormous part in the success of the drives.

On behalf of the unspoken Red Cross volunteers and interested people, I am very proud of your hard work and intelligence, Dad.

READER WANTS MORE ELECTION COVERAGE

I would like to see your publication undertake a poll of the voters and on the issues that affect Michigan.

One simple question for starters. Name the two gentlemen running for office of U.S. Senator? I bet that you would be lucky to find two-out-of-ten people (maybe 20) that know the names. Well this must be a clear case of voter apathy, right? Wrong! How about the fact that your paper hasn't done one decent article on these men? We have less than one month until the national election and I don't know all that I need to know about these men on the issues. Why are you depriving the responsible voters of this information?

We have two judges running for an important court position and have little current data available. In view of the fact that a debate is not forthcoming then you owe it to the public to present their records. Your front page spoke of the supreme court's review of the "Miranda Rule" with a truly sad story illustrating its shortcomings. What are the opinions of our two running judges on this issue? I want to vote for a judge that will keep crooks off the street. Which of these judges do the police favor? What are these judges' records for handling repeat offenders, both adult and juvenile? Help me make a responsible choice for justice.

I wrote sometime ago on publishing what bills the folks at Lansing are acting on and I'm glad that information is now available. It's interesting to note what state Senator Zollar is "doing."

You may be interested in the October issue of "Michigan Out-of-Doors." Five questions were asked of the two men running for the U.S. Senate and an extensive article covering pro's and con's on Proposal "A."

Your editorial on the LMC board didn't quite go far enough. Has there been any question on LMC's 20 per cent increase in credit hour cost? Maybe this increase allows the leeway not to take bids for jobs. Ah, but that's not fair to prejudice. So how about some logical, honest answers?

Last but not least, how about some in-depth, investigative, honest reporting?

Can We Ignore Soviet Buildup?

WASHINGTON — The Soviet Union now seems to be building a nuclear arsenal clearly much greater than needed for defense. The negotiation of some major new weapon types is larger by far than practical for any known military purpose, particularly when Soviet strides in weapons accuracy are taken into account.

No one here knows what the Russians have in mind.

The buildup in weapons numbers, if continued at the current pace, could give the Russians a first-strike capability. That is, on paper at least, they'd have the ability to knock out a crippling number of U.S. missiles while leaving sufficient numbers of their own in readiness to retaliate against any American counterattack.

That this capability is Moscow's aim becomes all the more worrisome when the number trend is combined with the current Soviet all-out push for the development of mobile intercontinental missiles, a mobility which could make it exceedingly difficult for U.S. defense missiles to knock out more than a small proportion of these new weapons.

This first-strike danger, if it comes, would show up in the 1980s.

But predicting Soviet future buildups is a fuzzy task. Time and again, analysts with major credentials in carefulness have underestimated what the Russians would do. Thus we predicted, from early Soviet bomber production trends years ago that they'd built a dangerously-large intercontinental bombing force. This did not happen.

Later, there was the "missile gap" — a major campaign issue of the 1960 presidential race. That particular gap did not develop. It was learned later the Russians did not at that time have the capability of expanding their production at the rate their early buildup suggested.

The pace and diversity of the Russian missile buildup today could likewise slacken in the years ahead. The problem is that we cannot be certain. And we cannot wait to find out. It would take at least seven years to catch up, a period during which the U.S. would be in the same position the Russians were in at the time of the Cuban missile crisis — with all the danger to our safety and the safety of the free world this would involve. We of necessity must assume and prepare for the worst.

Another major Soviet trend, the development and deployment of new, shorter range missiles with exceedingly powerful warheads, is more puzzling. The military analysts I'm in contact with believe weapons of this overpowered type are impractical in modern military operations. Even the much smaller warheads on the nuclear weapons that the U.S. has deployed in Western Europe are now considered by many to be not only much more powerful than necessary to destroy the objectives they're targeted for but dangerous to use, in that they'd create more damage to friendly forces and populations than anyone here wants. The new Russian shorter-range nuclear weapons would create small-scale wastelands.

There are analysts here who believe, after considering all the evidence available, that these are terror weapons, designed (hopefully) not for use, but to frighten the Western Europeans, the Chinese and other peoples on their borders sufficiently to enable Moscow to have its way in Africa, the Middle East and Southeast Asia.

This theory would fit too with the expansion in numbers of intercontinental missiles which, as mentioned above, seems in the cards. This buildup could be aimed at keeping the U.S. neutral while the Soviet Union trains and supplies revolutionaries to take over the governments of small nations here and there.

'Frank Talk' On Rhodesia

Something about politics in a democracy seems to demand that all issues of policy be presented in moralistic terms — even when the policies are as messy as they may be necessary.

The rationale for Secretary Henry Kissinger's present course in Rhodesia is crystal clear and a strong case can be made in support of it. Kissinger's critics on the right have been growling about his Rhodesia policy, but they have not come up with a plausible alternative course. Kissinger's cold-blooded exercise in Realpolitik, however, is being sold to the public in terms of treacherous moralistic slogans about "majority rule," "social justice," "equality" and whatnot.

If Kissinger were to speak frankly about Rhodesia and the rest of Southern Africa, he would no doubt say something like the following:

"After the collapse of the Portuguese position in Angola and Mozambique, the position of Rhodesia became untenable. A glance at the map is enough to demonstrate this. Rhodesia at that point was surrounded on three sides by hostile or potentially hostile black states, and, internally, Rhodesia's white population consisted of only a tiny minority.

"Two ways existed for Rhodesia to move toward black, but certainly not 'majority' rule. If the whites were to be defeated by Soviet-backed guerrillas and/or Cubans, then the emerging black dictatorship would undoubtedly be Marxist and oriented toward the Soviets. "If, however, through a combination of carrot and stick — and, given the objective weakness of the Rhodesian whites, more stick than carrot — the whites could be made to hand over power to designated 'moderate' blacks, then another kind of Rhodesia might emerge, must more friendly to U.S. and Western interests.

"This is the game we are currently playing, in tandem with the British, Leftists, Marxists, and Communists call it 'neo-colonialism,' and in a sense they are right. We wish to preserve our influence and protect our interests through having a say in who succeeds to power. Such neo-colonialism, however, has met with reasonable success in other places, such as Zaire, Kenya, and Nigeria. Under the circumstances, it is our best option.

"Of course, the principal price will be paid by the white Rhodesian minority. At the very best, the transition will be messy. The whites will lose their farms, houses, property — but may be we can compensate them somehow, and we will do whatever we can to prevent a slaughter.

"This policy, painful as it will be for some, does possess some amusing ironies.

"We are, of course, engaged in 'destabilizing' the Smith regime in Salisbury, overthrowing it, that is. Those who have been so vociferous about our 'intervening' in the 'domestic affairs' of other countries have been strangely silent through all of this. It is pleasant not to have to listen to the slogans of idiots."

Two Top U.S. Lawmen Called To Ohio Trial

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Defense attorneys for James Garside, one of the men on trial in the December kidnap-slitting of Detroit banker James Crawford, have subpoenaed Atty. Gen. Edward Levi and FBI Director Clarence Kelley to testify in Garside's defense.

Garside contends he was acting as a paid FBI informer when he accompanied another man and a woman from Detroit to Newark in December. Crawford's body was found in a rural area near here Dec. 10.

Garside's attorneys subpoenaed Levi and Kelley to appear in person Oct. 18 and answer questions about Garside's role in the case.

Proposal D Is Latest Michigan Mythology

Once again the usual economic myth is abroad in the land, the same one which appears with regularity at each election. That is that by shifting the tax burden from one group of taxpayers to another, somehow the total burden miraculously will become lighter for all and unprecedented prosperity will result.

In Michigan, the current mythology is known as Proposal D on the Nov. 2nd ballot. It's a proposal to change the state constitution to replace the present flat rate state income tax with a graduated state income tax.

Proponents of Proposal D hail it as a sure way to ease the working man's burden, soak the rich and generously fund all the old state services plus a host of new ones.

The truth is that Proposal D might cut the working man's burden one or two years. But "after that, the deluge!" The amendment is written to give the Legislature carte blanche after Jan. 1, 1978, to set bases and rates of personal income taxes.

In short, Mr. Blue Collar Worker will soon be getting hit so hard he'll pop every button on his shirt. There just aren't enough rich folks in Michigan to provide all the money that Lansing's fat cat bureaucrats want. And a lot of those who are here will be leaving fast.

Michigan already has an horrendous reputation for repelling industry. Higher personal income taxes on executives will make it even worse.

The writers of the proposed constitutional amendment were clever. They made it sound as if just the rich get soaked. Here's how it'll appear on the ballot:

PROPOSAL D

Proposal to replace the present flat rate state income tax with a graduated state income tax for calendar year 1977; thereafter, rates and bases of state income taxes to be determined by the legislature.

THE PROPOSED AMENDMENT WOULD:

- Remove constitutional ban on graduated income tax;
- Reduce to 3.9% maximum, the income tax rate on taxable personal income of an individual or individual filing a joint return on the first $20,000.00 of taxable personal income, or joint return personal income, adjusted upwards by $1,500.00 for taxpayer and each dependent;
- Raise tax rate of individual taxpayers on income over that amount to replace the loss of revenue caused by above tax reduction;
- Establish constitutional minimum $1,500.00 exemption for taxpayer and each dependent;
- After January 1, 1977, permit the legislature to establish bases and rates of personal income taxes.

Should this amendment be adopted?

No ☐

Note that the sneak punch doesn't come until the very last part of the proposal, section (e). Up till then, the voter could think only those earning over $20,000 annual taxable income would pay more. Unless he or she is careful, the voter won't realize that after Jan. 1, 1978, the $20,000 could be reduced by the Legislature to $10,000, or even $5,000.

Anyone who wants to argue that the tax bite on lower incomes will not be raised had better go to the history books. When the graduated federal income tax was adopted in 1913, it called for a tax of one per cent on incomes up to $20,000 and a surtax of one to six per cent on incomes above $20,000 up to $200,000.

Isn't that $20,000 figure, a remarkable coincidence?

Blue Collar Workers, compare that one per cent of 1913 with today's withholding from your pay check.

Soak the rich? Ha! The big-spending Democratically-controlled Legislature will cut the $20,000 base faster than it takes to say "let 'em eat cake."

And even if the base isn't cut by statute, it will be cut by inflation. Wages are rising six to 12 per cent a year. It won't be long until inflation will likely put most wage-earning families in the $20,000 class.

Like snake oils of the past, such elixirs as Proposal D are not designed to effect a cure — because they cannot — but are supposed to create a myopic trance among the electorate.

"This is the game we are currently playing, in tandem with the British. Leftists, Marxists, and Communists call it 'neo-colonialism,' and in a sense they are right. We wish to preserve our influence and protect our interests through having a say in who succeeds to power. Such neo-colonialism, however, has met with reasonable success in other places, such as Zaire, Kenya, and Nigeria. Under the circumstances, it is our best option.

"Of course, the principal price will be paid by the white Rhodesian minority. At the very best, the transition will be messy. The whites will lose their farms, houses, property — but may be we can compensate them somehow, and we will do whatever we can to prevent a slaughter.

"This policy, painful as it will be for some, does possess some amusing ironies.

"We are, of course, engaged in 'destabilizing' the Smith regime in Salisbury, overthrowing it, that is. Those who have been so vociferous about our 'intervening' in the 'domestic affairs' of other countries have been strangely silent through all of this. It is pleasant not to have to listen to the slogans of idiots."

Two Top U.S. Lawmen Called To Ohio Trial

NEWARK, Ohio (AP) — Defense attorneys for James Garside, one of the men on trial in the December kidnap-slitting of Detroit banker James Crawford, have subpoenaed Atty. Gen. Edward Levi and FBI Director Clarence Kelley to testify in Garside's defense.

Garside contends he was acting as a paid FBI informer when he accompanied another man and a woman from Detroit to Newark in December. Crawford's body was found in a rural area near here Dec. 10.

Garside's attorneys subpoenaed Levi and Kelley to appear in person Oct. 18 and answer questions about Garside's role in the case.

New York Times Praises Program In BH Schools

Benton Harbor Area schools have been cited by The New York Times as an example of "The New School of Thought on Parent-Teacher Projects." A Sept. 26 article in The New York Times calls Benton Harbor Area schools' Home Education Learning Program (HELP) a "logical extension of the back-to-basics movement." In September, the school system launched the new program aimed at raising reading levels of first graders by encouraging learning in the home.

As reported in The Herald-Palladium Aug. 21, Project HELP, described as the first of its kind in the nation, involves 250 students in first grade classes in seven Benton Harbor and one Lake Michigan Catholic school. Mrs. Gladys Burks, coordinator of compensatory programs for the school system, said the object of the new program is to encourage parents to help children learn from everyday things around the house, thus supplementing what children learn at school, and helping them to maintain a better reading level.

Catholic Enrollment Down 8.7 Per Cent

Enrollment at Lake Michigan Catholic schools dropped 8.7 per cent this year, members of the board of education were informed last night.

Ray Jordan, executive director of Lake Michigan Catholic area schools, told board members enrollment decreased 74, from 845 students during the 1975-1976 school year to 771 this year.

Jordan noted the enrollment increase was "surprisingly minimal" considering predictions after the board voted to raise tuition rates substantially last May. The board had approved a $74,000 hike in tuition rates which meant an increase of from 21 to 77 per cent for students depending on family status.

Jordan said the enrollment decrease also represented a general decline in school age population. The number of students in kindergarten through eighth grade classes declined from 435 last year to 354 this year, he said, while high school enrollment this year increased slightly from 410 last year to 417 this year.

In other business, the board welcomed Mr. and Mrs. Bill Shine, of 176 Eastern avenue, Benton Harbor, who will co-chair the Home and School association, an organization that seeks to strengthen relations between parents and the school.

Former BH Musician Gaining Fame In Hawaii

By JERRY KRIEGER
Farm-Features Area

A Young former Benton Harbor man who is carving a niche for himself in the popular music world in Hawaii plays guitar and sings in a second record album. Jimmy Dillon, 24, joined the musical group of Merrell Fankhauser, a name Hawaiian music star, in cutting the album named "Merrell Fankhauser" after the leader. Released already in Hawaii and due for release soon on the mainland, the album features 11 island music numbers. Dillon sings in one of the numbers. Early this year, Dillon played guitar and sang harmony vocals in six of the nine songs in the album, "The Promise", featuring Michael Pinder, a leading star in the world of popular music. Dillon has lived on Maui in the Hawaiian islands for the past two years and plays guitar and sings in island clubs. His club appearances have won him invitations to play for the albums. The son of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Dillon, 1132 Hannah court, Dillon is a 1969 graduate of the old St. John's high school in Benton Harbor.

Nearly 49 Years Later He Quits Fidelity Building

By RALPH LUTZ
Staff Writer

The Fidelity building in Benton Harbor was new on Jan. 1, 1928, when Alfred Hinkelman, then 13 and supplied with a work permit, strode through the front door to begin apprentice training with a tenant who operated a dental laboratory.

It was the downtown hub of professional and business life in September, 1934, when Hinkelman joined the ranks of tenants by opening his own dental laboratory in Room 219.

This Saturday, Hinkelman, at age 62, will snap the door lock of Room 219 for the last time.

The six-story Fidelity building landmark is scheduled to be closed in December, unless someone purchases it, David C. Madison of Madison Real Estate Co., owner of the building, announced last month.

Hinkelman said he will continue to operate his dental laboratory at 2615 Niles avenue, St. Joseph.

Hinkelman's business life will have centered in the Fidelity building for 48 years, nine months and nine days on Saturday.

"I really wanted to remain here for 50 years, and I'm sorry I couldn't," Hinkelman said, while thinking over the years.

"Most of the big people of the community passed through the Fidelity building over the years," Hinkelman recalled.

In the early days, Hinkelman said the first five floors were packed with professional and business offices.

The top sixth floor wasn't partitioned for offices and was still open.

"There was a putting green on the sixth floor during the depression years of the 1930's, and the fee was something like $10," Hinkelman said. It was a favorite pastime spot, until being turned into offices about 1940.

The big noon hour meeting place was on the ground floor in the Fidelity drug store, operated for 30 years by the late Henry Hadley. It was closed in 1962.

"More world crises were solved in the Fidelity drug store than in the UN," smiled Hinkelman.

Between the ground and top floors, offices were packed and the hustle of people coming and going required two shifts of elevator operators, Hinkelman said, adding he can recall eight dentists among tenants at one time.

"During the war years (World War II), the building was so full, offices began doubling up," Hinkelman said. He said at one time, someone even rented desk space in his laboratory headquarters.

As Hinkelman sees it, the Fidelity building began to decline rapidly in the 1960's, when the 777 office complex opened on Riverview drive.

In its heyday, the Fidelity building served well, Hinkelman said. It was centrally located in the commercial hub of Southwestern Michigan, and was the only office building with an elevator.

Hinkelman said he can't recall anyone ever falling down the stairs or having a heart attack. "It was safe. And when people went out for lunch, office doors were left open and purses were left on desks. If anything was even stolen, it was a great happening."

Hinkelman today doesn't see any immediate future for the Fidelity building. He said notice has been received that water will be drained from pipes on Dec. 4.

Madison cited economic problems from loss of tenants in announcing the closing last September. Madison then said it would cost $56,000 to bring the building up to code and another $170,200 to completely rehabilitate it. Madison bought the building in December, 1974, from Bradford-Bowby Realty company which constructed it in 1927.

As to the future of the Fidelity building?

Hinkelman said it undoubtedly will continue to deteriorate when closed and unheated.

As to the future of Benton Harbor that has seen similar closings?

"I think Benton Harbor will come back, but it will take time. It may not be in my lifetime. It depends on land values. If the Stevensville-Baroda area gets all built up, business may come back.

"Land would be cleared for new building plans. The city has everything — streets, sewers and water."

Hinkelman served on the Benton Harbor city commission from 1951-57, including two years as mayor. His wife, Dorothy, operates Dotty's Chapeaux women's store at 2615 Niles avenue, near Hinkelman's new laboratory site. The family residence is behind the Chapeaux.

TIME TO REMINISCE: Alfred Hinkelman gazes up at Fidelity building, 169 Michigan street, Benton Harbor, where he will have worked for 48 years, nine months and nine days upon leaving next Saturday. Hinkelman said he will move his dental laboratory to 2615 Niles avenue, St. Joseph. Fidelity building is expected to close in December. (Staff photo)

Mitchell Won't Try A Sticker Campaign

Citing the near "impossibility" of conducting a successful sticker campaign, Berrien County Commissioner Don P. Mitchell of Benton Harbor yesterday said he will not run for office in the November election.

Mitchell's announcement leaves Democrat Willie C. Askew unopposed.

Mitchell's decision came in the wake of a mid-September announcement by the county Democratic committee to bypass him and name another candidate for a vacancy on the ballot as commissioner from District 3. The district covers the northern part of Benton Harbor and part of Benton township to the north and east of the city.

The Democratic executive committee named Askew, of Benton township, as the party nominee to replace former Commissioner Bill Joseph, who resigned. After the announcement, Mitchell said he intended to run for the seat as a sticker candidate. The party selection put Askew on the ballot and left off Mitchell.

Mitchell, 62, of 486 North McCord street, contacted The Herald-Palladium yesterday to announce he wouldn't run. "I wasn't endorsed by the Democratic executive committee but had planned to run a sticker campaign," Mitchell said. "But after talking with some old politicians, they said a sticker race was practically impossible."

Mitchell commented that the problems with such a campaign are that the sticker ballot comes off in the machine, invalidating the vote, and the size of the district is too large to run as a write-in candidate.

"I had a lot of people who wanted to contribute but I didn't want to waste their money," Mitchell stated. "I do want to thank all those who were willing to help, and maybe in some future year I will decide to run."

"I've enjoyed working with the board of commissioners immensely," he continued, "and I've learned a lot I didn't know before about the functions of county government and the programs the board oversees. I wish to thank those people who had the confidence to even consider me for a commission seat."

Mitchell was unanimously elected by the board to fill the vacant seat, but a ruling by the prosecutor's office said the Democratic party could select a replacement. Joseph's resignation left no candidate on the ballot, and because no Republicans filed for the seat, Askew will be the only person appearing on the ballot for District 3.

Mitchell had been the only announced write-in candidate for the seat, and he said he will serve the remainder of the term to which expires Dec. 31.

Plan Weekend Rock Swap

Oct. 16-17

EXPANDED EVENT: Blossomland Gem and Mineral Society has expanded its annual rock swap to a full weekend this year. The event will be held Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16 and 17, at Camp Warren, north of Benton Harbor. Making plans for the swap are Mrs. Norman (Marjory) Holben of Stevensville, a member of the swap committee, and Merle VanDeWarker of Eau Claire, program chairman. (Staff photo)

Blossomland Gem and Mineral Society will hold its first full weekend of rock swapping Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16 and 17, at Camp Warren, Benton Harbor.

The swap, which will be held indoors, is open to anyone interested in the various aspects of the hobby, which includes gems, fossils, lapidary, silviculture, minerals and crystals.

This year's expanded event will include a silent auction and a potluck dinner and film Saturday. Light lunches and snacks will be available both days. Camping space will be available and dormitory space will also be provided for a nominal fee. According to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murray of Berrien Springs, chairmen of the swap, invitations have been extended to clubs throughout the Midwest and a number of shell collectors are also expected to attend.

Admission to the event is free. However, persons having materials to swap will be asked a $1 donation per table space per day, in addition to a specimen for the club. Buying, selling and/or swapping will be permitted with no percentage charged. Swappers are asked to provide their own tables and chairs.

Reservations or information concerning the camping and dormitory facilities may be obtained by contacting the Murrays, 4105 East Shawnee road, Berrien Springs. Dormitory guests are asked to provide their own bedding.

Hours Saturday and Sunday will be from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m.

The silent auction Saturday, with Del Sabin of St. Joseph as auctioneer, will be directed by Floyd Holman of St. Joseph. The potluck supper, including a film, will be held Saturday at 5:30 p.m.

Blossomland Gem and Mineral Society has in the past held a one-day swap on the third Sunday of October, but response to these swaps prompted the society to expand the event to this extent, according to the Murrays.

Others assisting the Murrays include Mr. and Mrs. Victor Stover, Berrien Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hellenga, Three Oaks; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Holben, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Plumley, all of Stevensville, and Mr. and Mrs. James Mohr and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miller, St. Joseph. Mr. and Mrs. John Snell of Berrien Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Merle VanDeWarker of Eau Claire are in charge of the Saturday evening film program.

Blossomland Gem and Mineral Society holds regular meetings and programs on the third Sunday of each month, except July and August, at the south St. Joseph branch of First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan. It presents an annual show, scheduled for March 5-6, at Lakeshore high school gymnasium. Norman Holben is chairman for the 1977 event.

Other activities of the society include workshops, 4-H judging, educational programs and field trips.

The organization is a member of Midwest Federation and the American Federation of Mineralogical Societies.

Richard Miller is president of the local group.

WAUS-FM BROADCAST

Symphony Season Preview Tonight

Complete schedule of the Twin Cities Symphony for 1976-77 will be musically previewed tonight on WAUS-FM (90.9) at 7 p.m.

The preview will be included in the "Concert Variations" program begun last year.

The two-and-one-half hour presentation includes previews and performances of the Twin Symphony, the Andrews university orchestra, and the symphonies of South Bend and Elkhart, Ind., on a rotating schedule.

Preview of the first Twin Cities Symphony concert with pianist Robert Hamilton scheduled for Oct. 24, will be aired Thursday, Oct. 21, and the actual concert will be broadcast Oct. 28.

The other Twin Cities Symphony concerts are scheduled for Dec. 5 and 6, Feb. 13, March 27, May 1, and May 25 and will be previewed on the Thursday broadcasts before the concerts.

Actual concerts will be broadcast on Dec. 23, Feb. 17, March 31, May 5, and June 2.

According to the program's host, C.J. Hall, professor of music at Andrews university, "Concert Variations" originally started as a simple preview of coming concerts in the area. However, our listeners have been so enthusiastic about the radio concert idea, that the concept has blossomed into an increasingly popular regular Thursday evening program on WAUS-FM. Our season currently runs from September through June."

Hall also said that when possible, the programs include an interview with the conductor of the orchestra being previewed.

Robert Vodny, Twin Cities Symphony conductor, will appear on some of the programs this year, according to Hall.

YWCA Metric Workshop

A workshop on the metric system sponsored by the St. Joseph Benton Harbor YWCA will be held Monday, Oct. 18.

"Change to the Metric System" will be held at 7 p.m. at the YWCA and will be directed by Arthur Schultz.

Fee is $1.50 for YWCA members and $2 for non-members. Registration may be made by contacting the YWCA.

The YWCA is a participating member of Blossomland United Way.

Many Gain In Winter

If cold weather keeps you trapped indoors, remember that the less active you are, the fewer calories your body uses.

If romping in the snow turns you off, cut down on your food intake to make sure you don't gain weight.

Give Cookies New Appeal

Everybody loves sugar cookies and everybody has a favorite sugar cookie recipe. For a change that is both eye and taste appealing, try this.

While the cookies are still warm, brush the tops lightly with corn syrup, slightly beaten egg white or honey and sprinkle with fruit flavor gelatin.

Brighten Your Fireplace

Fireplaces are a welcome sight after a bout with winter's chill breezes.

Make the fireplace in your home both bright and inviting by repainting the masonry surface in a color that will enhance your decorating scheme, suggests the National Paint and Coatings association.

For a top-notch job, make sure that the surface is cleaned properly before you begin repainting. Basic surface preparation problems will be caused by loose ashes, smoke film and dirt particles left over from last year's burning.

With a strong detergent and a scrub brush, wash these areas clean. Also, wash away any grease that may have accumulated. If the old paint is flaking or peeling, remove it with a wire brush. Prime the surface with a primer especially designed for masonry surface. Your paint manufacturer can help you select the one that you need.

There are many topcoats from which to choose. For best results, select a latex paint that matches the remainder of the colors in the room. Or, use a paint that has a built-in resistance to alkali. This way, the paint can be used both as a topcoat and as a primer.

Former Weed Now Fruit

Pineapple was considered a weed for nearly 100 years after it was brought to Hawaii. Then someone picked it, and popped it into a can.

So now there is a wider variety of choice — crushed, sliced and chunks as well as a golden juice to make everyday meals more interesting.

Plan Weekend Rock Swap

Oct. 16-17

EXPANDED EVENT: Blossomland Gem and Mineral Society has expanded its annual rock swap to a full weekend this year. The event will be held Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16 and 17, at Camp Warren, north of Benton Harbor. Making plans for the swap are Mrs. Norman (Marjory) Holben of Stevensville, a member of the swap committee, and Merle VanDeWarker of Eau Claire, program chairman. (Staff photo)

Blossomland Gem and Mineral Society will hold its first full weekend of rock swapping Saturday and Sunday, Oct. 16 and 17, at Camp Warren, Benton Harbor.

The swap, which will be held indoors, is open to anyone interested in the various aspects of the hobby, which includes gems, fossils, lapidary, silviculture, minerals and crystals.

This year's expanded event will include a silent auction and a potluck dinner and film Saturday. Light lunches and snacks will be available both days. Camping space will be available and dormitory space will also be provided for a nominal fee. According to Mr. and Mrs. Charles Murray of Berrien Springs, chairmen of the swap, invitations have been extended to clubs throughout the Midwest and a number of shell collectors are also expected to attend.

Admission to the event is free. However, persons having materials to swap will be asked a $1 donation per table space per day, in addition to a specimen for the club. Buying, selling and/or swapping will be permitted with no percentage charged. Swappers are asked to provide their own tables and chairs.

Reservations or information concerning the camping and dormitory facilities may be obtained by contacting the Murrys, 4108 East Shawnee road, Berrien Springs. Dormitory guests are asked to provide their own bedding.

Hours Saturday and Sunday will be from 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. The silent auction Saturday, with Del Sabin of St. Joseph as auctioneer, will be directed by Floyd Holeman of St. Joseph. The potluck supper, including a film, will be held Saturday at 5:30 p.m.

Blossomland Gem and Mineral Society has in the past held a one-day swap on the third Sunday of October, but response to these swaps prompted the society to expand the event to this extent, according to the Murrys.

Others assisting the Murrys include Mr. and Mrs. Victor Stover, Berrien Springs; Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Hellenga, Three Oaks; Mr. and Mrs. Norman Holben, Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Baker and Mr. and Mrs. Ed Plumley, all of Stevensville, and Mr. and Mrs. James Mohr and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Miller, St. Joseph. Mr. and Mrs. John Snell of Berrien Springs and Mr. and Mrs. Merle VanDeWarker of Eau Claire are in charge of the Saturday evening film program.

Blossomland Gem and Mineral Society holds regular meetings and programs on the third Sunday of each month, except July and August, at the south St. Joseph branch of First National Bank of Southwestern Michigan. It presents an annual show, scheduled for March 5-6, at Lakeshore high school gymnasium. Norman Holben is chairman for the 1977 event.

Other activities of the society include workshops, 4-H judging, educational programs and field trips.

The organization is a member of Midwest Federation and the American Federation of Mineralogical Societies.

Richard Miller is president of the local group.

WAUS-FM BROADCAST

Symphony Season Preview Tonight

Complete schedule of the Twin Cities Symphony for 1976-77 will be musically previewed tonight on WAUS-FM (90.9) at 7 p.m.

The preview will be included in the "Concert Variations" program begun last year.

The two-and-one-half hour presentation includes previews and performances of the Twin Symphony, the Andrews university orchestra, and the symphonies of South Bend and Elkhart, Ind., on a rotating schedule.

Preview of the first Twin Cities Symphony concert with pianist Robert Hamilton scheduled for Oct. 24, will be aired Thursday, Oct. 21, and the actual concert will be broadcast Oct. 28.

The other Twin Cities Symphony concerts are scheduled for Dec. 5 and 6, Feb. 13, March 27, May 1, and May 25 and will be previewed on the Thursday broadcasts before the concerts.

Actual concerts will be broadcast on Dec. 23, Feb. 17, March 31, May 5, and June 2.

According to the program's host, C.J. Hall, professor of music at Andrews university, "Concert Variations" originally started as a simple preview of coming concerts in the area. However, our listeners have been so enthusiastic about the radio concert idea, that the concept has blossomed into an increasingly popular regular Thursday evening program on WAUS-FM. Our season currently runs from September through June."

Hall also said that when possible, the programs include an interview with the conductor of the orchestra being previewed.

Robert Vodnoy, Twin Cities Symphony conductor, will appear on some of the programs this year, according to Hall.

Weddings

COLOMA — Miss Sandra Wray Williams and Robert Lee Draper exchanged wedding vows Sept. 18 at the Coloma Congregational United Church of Christ. The Rev. Eric Lund performed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Williams, 6582 Ryno road, Coloma. The groom is the son of Edwin Clay Draper, route 4, Box 298-H, Riverside, and Mrs. Lucille Williams of Westwego, La.

The bride wore a sata peau A-line gown trimmed with alencon lace, pearls and crystals and designed with a sweep train. A headband of matching lace held her fingertip length illusion veil and she carried yellow sweetheart roses, baby's breath and carnations.

Miss Tami Mandro was maid of honor.

Karen Umbenhaur was flower girl and Scott Williams, brother of the bride, was ringbearer.

Serving as his brother's best man was Bruce Draper. Ushers were Marc and Craig Williams, brothers of the bride.

A reception was held at the church.

Following a wedding trip, the couple is residing at 1805 Lakeshore drive, St. Joseph.

The bride is a graduate of

MRS. ROBERT DRAPER
Sandra Williams

Coloma high school and is employed by IPM Development Engineering, Coloma. Her husband attended Coloma high school and is employed by Ivy Industries, Benton Harbor.

THREE OAKS — Miss Juliann Marie Szymanski and Robert Alan Lindsay exchanged wedding vows Sept. 25 at St. Mary's Catholic church, Three Oaks. The Rev. Fr. Frank Burger performed the ceremony.

Parents of the bride are Mr. and Mrs. Edward H. Szymanski, 210 East Michigan street, Three Oaks. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kinley Walker Lindsay of Harbert.

The bride wore a candlelight silk double knit gown trimmed with alencon lace and reembroidered pearls and designed with a cathedral train. A silk reembroidered cap held her silk illusion veil and she carried pink sweetheart roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and carnations.

Miss Beth Arndt was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Andra Motyka, Miss Betty Rack and Miss Julie Burch.

Serving as best man was Leonard Johnson. Ushers were Richard Brey, Roy Moeller, Kevin Caird and Ronald Lindsay, brother of the groom.

YWCA Metric Workshop

A workshop on the metric system sponsored by the St. Joseph-Benton Harbor YWCA will be held Monday, Oct. 18.

"Change to the Metric System" will be held at 7 p.m. at the YWCA and will be directed by Arthur Schultz.

Fee is $1.50 for YWCA members and $2 for non-members. Registration may be made by contacting the YWCA.

The YWCA is a participating member of Blossomland United Way.

Many Gain In Winter

If cold weather keeps you trapped indoors, remember that the less active you are, the fewer calories your body uses.

If romping in the snow turns you off, cut down on your food intake to make sure you don't gain weight.

Give Cookies New Appeal

Everybody loves sugar cookies and everybody has a favorite sugar cookie recipe. For a change that is both eye and taste-appealing, try this.

While the cookies are still warm, brush the tops lightly with corn syrup, slightly beaten egg white or honey and sprinkle with fruit flavor gelatin.

Brighten Your Fireplace

Fireplaces are a welcome sight after a bout with winter's chill breezes.

Make the fireplace in your home both bright and inviting by repainting the masonry surface in a color that will enhance your decorating scheme, suggests the National Paint and Coatings association.

For a top-notch job, make sure that the surface is cleaned properly before you begin repainting. Basic surface preparation problems will be caused by loose ashes, smoke film and dirt particles left over from last year's burning.

With a strong detergent and a scrub brush, wash these areas

clean. Also, wash away any grease that may have accumulated. If the old paint is flaking or peeling, remove it with a wire brush. Prime the surface with a primer especially designed for masonry surface. Your paint manufacturer can help you select the one that you need.

There are many topcoats from which to choose. For best results, select a latex paint that matches the remainder of the colors in the room. Or, use a paint that has a built-in resistance to alkali. This way, the paint can be used both as a topcoat and as a primer.

Former Weed Now Fruit

Pineapple was considered a weed for nearly 100 years after it was brought to Hawaii. Then someone picked it, and popped it into a can.

So now there is a wider variety of choice — crushed, sliced and chunks as well as a golden juice to make everyday meals more interesting.

NATIONAL FAMILY SEX EDUCATION WEEK

Plan Programs To Help Parents

For the second year, the Planned Parenthood Association of Southwestern Michigan will offer three special programs, open to the public, during "National Family Sex Education Week," Oct. 10-16.

For Northern Berrien county, the program will be held at Planned Parenthood Center, 785 Pipestone, Benton Harbor. Sessions are scheduled for Monday, Oct. 11, at 7:30 p.m. and Wednesday, Oct. 13, at 1 p.m.

For Southern Berrien county, the program will be held at the Niles YMCA, 315 West Main street, Niles, Thursday, Oct. 14, at 7:30 p.m.

Planned Parenthood's Education department, directed by Justine Wisler, with the assistance of Dorothy Anderson, Darlene Crocker, and Gretchen Schalon, community affairs director, will offer concrete help for parents involved in the sex education of their children by showing an appropriate film, followed by discussion in small and large groups. Refreshments will be served.

According to Mrs. Wisler, extensive research has shown that most children want to talk with their parents about sex, but most don't.

She says, "Several studies have shown that children who talk with their parents about sex tend to behave more responsibly. Children benefit from talking with parents, but many children avoid telling their parents about important experiences, or avoid asking crucial questions.

"Many parents report that their own sex education wasn't satisfactory, and that they approach sex education in the home by making rules for behavior rather than by discussing feelings and conflicts.

"The goal of this program is to help parents comfortably assume their role as the main sex educators of their children."

Purpose of "National Family Sex Education Week," is to develop community family life education programs to assist parents.

Mrs. Wisler points out that parents are the sex educators of their own children, whether they do it well or badly.

"Silence and evasiveness are just as powerful teachers as are the facts," she says.

"Everybody says that parents should be the primary sex educators, but who is preparing the parents for this role? Indeed, in terms of the values and spiritual life of the child, no outside group or agency could replace the family. Thus, we see education for sexuality taking place within the context of the family's value system which, hopefully, strives toward a family life free of racism, sexism, and prejudices against people with other values.

"Most churches and educators officially support this position. Studies consistently have revealed that children do not acquire the information they need from parents. It is time for parents to assume this responsibility. Parents, of course, cannot be the sole educators; if they wanted to be, they would have to prevent their children from reading books, newspapers and magazines, keep them away from television, movies and public bathrooms, and certainly prohibit them from having any friends at all.

"Parents are the main educators with schools, religious and community groups as partners in a life-long process. Society consistently underestimates the capabilities of parents and their children. You can't tell a child too much: Knowledge doesn't stimulate inappropriate behavior, ignorance does.

"If you tell children more than they can understand, they will ask another question or turn you off. Parents must work toward being 'askable.' We know most parents want to educate their children, but they are often uncomfortable and don't know how.

"Obviously, parents who find it difficult to talk to their children about any important issue will not be ready to talk about sex. However, it seems that most parents are ready, but want some support."

Sewing Hints

By DOROTHY KING

My seams come apart when I launder my garments even though I used polyester thread recommended for the fabric. I heard that this was probably caused by an uneven tension. How can I tell when my thread tension is uneven.

If your thread tension is not off too much you may not be able to look at the top and bottom threads and see the difference. If you are not sure of the tension, it would be best to test it.

To test, thread your machine with one color and put another color in the bobbin, but use the same type of thread in both needle and bobbin.

Stitch diagonally across a four-inch square of fabric. Pull sharply on both ends of stitching. Both needle and bobbin threads should break if tension is correct. If only the needle thread breaks, loosen the needle thread tension slightly and test again. If only the bobbin thread breaks, tighten the needle thread tension slightly and test again. Repeat until both threads break, then tensions are properly set to produce a balanced stitch.

Quick Freeze Hunting Bounty

This is the open season for hunting in many states. That means that deer, moose, wild boar, wild rabbit and squirrel will be plunked on the back doorsteps of the lucky shots and that of their friends.

Many a housewife must decide what to do. Should she can that hunter's loot and put it down for winter? A thrifty thought. But not entirely practical.

"Canning of meat should be left to the particularly skilled woman only. For the beginner, it may be fraught with danger. The ordinary canning equipment won't do. It cannot generate enough heat to destroy all threats of botulism. Meats being canned, because they are low acid foods, must be processed in a steam pressure cooker. That is vitally important," explains Mary Lou Williamson, head home economist at the Ball Corporation in Muncie, Indiana.

"For the inexperienced first-time meat canner, I recommend quick freezing instead. No danger and far less work," adds Miss Williamson, who is a specialist in canning techniques.

This is also the time when women begin to think of things to make as Christmas presents.

"The best fruits available this late in the season are apples, pears and, probably, plums. Put up in beautiful jars they will make ideal Christmas gifts," she explains. "They can all be processed in a waterbath. They combine simplicity of preparation, attractiveness and taste of the product.

"Why women should go to the trouble of putting up their own jams and jellies when the market offers the same thing?" she asks. "First, doing so seems to answer some inner urge. Second, often the homemade product is superior to the commercial one, but certainly not always. Women have been canning for a long time. But many technical and taste changes have taken place recently. Follow today's knowledge. Don't rely on old-fashioned methods today."

Here is a home canning recipe for pears that makes a good gift for men or women.

BRANDIED PEARS
Pare five pounds of ripe but entirely unblemished pears. Split and remove cores. In the meantime, make a syrup with three pounds of sugar and four cups water. Cook the pears in the syrup a layer at a time, until just tender—about five minutes. Lift out, cool slightly and pack in jars. Cook the syrup about 15 minutes longer or until thickened. Add two cups brandy and pour liquid over the fruit. Allow headspace of one-fourth inch. Use white brandy (Kirsch) if you wish white-looking pears. But any good brandy will preserve and flavor the fruit equally well. Seal at once. Process in a water bath canner for 15 minutes. Makes about 4 quarts.

'Hunger Lawyer' Fights For Food

EAST LANSING — They call Ron Pollack the "hunger lawyer." Through lawsuits, he and his Food Research Action Center (FRAC) have successfully fought government's efforts to cut back federal spending on food programs for the poor.

Speaking recently to about 400 participants at a day-long nutrition conference at Michigan State University, Pollack explained how FRAC has forced government to free hundreds of millions of dollars for poor people's food programs. The conference was sponsored by the Michigan Advisory Commission on Nutrition and the Michigan Office of Nutrition.

Of the 150 suits filed in the past half-dozen years, FRAC has won all but four, and three of these losses generated legislative changes in favor of FRAC's causes.

"Last year was the year of the great escape," Pollack said. "One attack after another on child nutrition and the Food Stamp Program has put in jeopardy much that we had achieved over the past several years."

For example, a year ago Congress was deeply involved in an effort to pass a child nutrition act to continue and expand the school lunch and breakfast programs and WIC, a feeding program for pregnant and lactating mothers and young children. The administration vetoed the bill. However, Congress overrode the veto.

Last year it became politically popular to criticize the Food Stamp Program. Bills were introduced to cut back the program's appropriations by $1 billion.

"We were forced with a fight just to preserve the status quo," Pollack indicated.

Regulations issued by the administration this spring would have terminated 5.3 million people's right to receive food stamps. Efforts to bring more red tape into the program would have meant many of the elderly who desperately need food stamps, would no longer have been able to receive them.

The regulations would have required reporting to the welfare office each month and many elderly do not have transportation or are disabled. "These regulations would have taken food out of the mouths of poor people and placed it in the hands of the bureaucracy," Pollack contended.

The proposed regulations were stopped because of court action initiated by FRAC.

Throughout the year, Congress has worked on legislation for reforming the Food Stamp Program. However, action was stopped because Congress adjourned. Authorization for the Food Stamp Program will expire Sept. 30, 1977, so legislation will be forthcoming this year.

"We cannot escape a cutback the way we escaped this year — by having no legislation at all," he said. "It is up to us to be sure federal and state legislation will be helpful to the poor."

Pollack recommended that the purchase price for food stamps be eliminated so that more eligible families could participate. Only half of those eligible are currently receiving food stamps.

Pollack complained that current laws require families be broken up to receive assistance. "We need to allow mothers and fathers who are living together with the family to qualify for these programs. The only qualification should be need."

Pollack also urged local implementation of school breakfast and lunch programs. Less than one-fifth of the public schools across the country currently provide breakfast.

Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used.

QUICK APPETIZER

Quick appetizer: Mix chopped chutney with peanut butter and spread on crackers.

'Hunger Lawyer'

Fights For Food

EAST LANSING — They call Ron Pollack the "hunger lawyer." Through lawsuits, he and his Food Research Action Center (FRAC) have successfully fought government's efforts to cut back federal spending on food programs for the poor.

Speaking recently to about 400 participants at a day-long nutrition conference at Michigan State university, Pollack explained how FRAC has forced government to free hundreds of millions of dollars for poor people's food programs. The conference was sponsored by the Michigan Advisory Commission on Nutrition and the Michigan Office of Nutrition.

Of the 150 suits filed in the past half-dozen years, FRAC has won all but four, and three of these losses generated legislative changes in favor of FRAC's causes.

"Last year was the year of the great escape," Pollack said. "One attack after another on child nutrition and the Food Stamp Program has put in jeopardy much that we had achieved over the past several years."

For example, a year ago Congress was deeply involved in an effort to pass a child nutrition act to continue and expand the school lunch and breakfast programs and WIC, a feeding program for pregnant and lactating mothers and young children. The administration vetoed the bill. However, Congress overrode the veto.

Last year it became politically popular to criticize the Food Stamp Program. Bills were introduced to cut back the program's appropriations by $1 billion.

"We were forced with a fight just to preserve the status quo," Pollack indicated.

Regulations issued by the administration this spring would have terminated 5.3 million

Engaged

DENISE MERRITT James Burnside

Mrs. Bernice Merritt, 1440 Rose avenue, Benton Harbor, announces the engagement of her daughter, Denise A., to James C. Burnside, son of Mr. and Mrs. Chester L. Burnside, 123 West Glenford road, St. Joseph.

Miss Merritt is a graduate of Benton Harbor high school and is employed at Mercy hospital, Benton Harbor.

Her fiancé is a graduate of St. Joseph high school and is employed at Hilltop Foods, St. Joseph.

An April 30 wedding is planned.

ATTENTION!

Future Brides

Brides-to-be planning engagement announcements and wedding stories in this newspaper are asked to observe the following rules:

Engagement and wedding forms are available in the women's department at The Herald-Palladium offices in Benton Harbor or St. Joseph. The pertinent information should be typed or plainly printed in filling out these forms to prevent errors.

Wedding forms should be picked up at least two weeks and turned in one week before the wedding is to take place.

When wedding information is sent within two months of the engagement announcement date, only ONE picture will be run. The bride-to-be may have her choice.

Use proper names — not nicknames. In wedding information, use husband's names for married attendants.

Only pictures of the bride in her wedding dress will be used.

'Your Problems' By Ann Landers

You're Responsible For You

Dear Ann Landers: I'm a 17-year-old girl, a high school senior who reads your column regularly and has learned a lot from other people's mistakes. Now I need help.

My father is an alcoholic. My mother has had an affair with just about every man in town. My two sisters act as if nothing is going on. Everybody knows about my mother. She has been involved with some fathers of boys at school. It's gross. I feel so ashamed I can hardly hold my head up.

I have been plagued with attacks of prostate infection. While I have a great deal of faith in my urologist I've become frustrated when he continues to tell me that the only way to clear up this condition is by massage of the prostate, which he has been doing, and medication. I live in a small town and I can't get him or any other surgeon to operate on me. — Mr. N.C.G., Ga.

Dear Mr. G.:

The thing that interests me most about your letter is the fact that you have been urging your doctor to operate on you although it is against his advice. Can you conceive of any reason why a surgeon would choose not to operate on you if there were a solid reason for doing so?

This is an astonishing pattern of thought, considering the fact that "unnecessary surgery" has become a major topic of debate.

Your doctor's judgment is a testimonial to his integrity. You should respect it, despite the fact your prostate infection has not yet yielded to his treatment.

Be patient. Give your doctor an opportunity to prove that his

Both she and your dad need help, but nobody can force it on them. They must seek it themselves.

Pay The Paperboy

Dear Ann Landers: Another of my son's young friends has announced he is quitting his job as a newspaper carrier because he can't collect enough money to meet his expenses. He is only 14. Six months ago he was so full of enthusiasm. How sad to see him disillusioned.

Apparently some people don't realize news carriers must pay for their papers regardless. Customers destroy a youngster's morale when they write bad checks, move without paying, or become irate when they are asked for the fourth time to pay up.

Home delivery is one of the few bargains left in this country. Is it asking too much to play fair with kids who are taking their first step toward financial independence and maturity? — What More Can I Say?

Precious Feeling

Dear Ann: This is the first time I've ever asked anyone for advice. Usually I'm the one who is handing it out. (I'm an attorney.)

I'm in my late 30s, a bachelor. Somehow I never met the "right" woman until three months ago. I feel as if I've been hit with a slab of cement. I never thought it would happen to me, but it did and I'm a goner.

This woman has all the qualities I have ever wanted in a wife. She is warm, loving, intelligent and attractive. We can communicate without words, as though we were one person. The only thing holding me back is the fact that she is ten years my senior. This means no children of our own.

My love raised three fine kids with no help from an alcoholic husband. (He's dead now.) They are all college graduates and on their own. My "girl" looks youthful and happy in spite of the hard life she has had. Everyone loves her.

I waited 38 years before I found this jewel and now I don't know what to do. My friends say I'm crazy. Am I Or — Just Muddled

Dear C Or M?: Life is dicey. If you married a woman ten years your junior, what guarantee would you have that there would be children?

The feelings you describe are precious. You may never experience them again. Your "girl" sounds like one in a million. You'd be a fool to let her get away.

There is a big difference between cold and cool. Ann Landers shows you how to play it cool without freezing people out in her booklet, "Teen-Age Sex — Ten Ways to Cool It." Send 50 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope to Ann Landers, P.O. Box 1400, Elgin, Ill. 60120.

Opening Saturday At The Tin Tree

MY FAIR LADY: Thom Lorry of Marcellus and Marg Putzke of New Buffalo rehearse their roles as Henry Higgins and Eliza in the Tin Tree Theatre, New Buffalo, production of the musical "My Fair Lady," to be presented Saturdays and Sundays, Oct. 9, 10, 16 and 17. Saturday performances will begin at 8:45 p.m. and Sunday performances will be at 5 p.m. All seats are reserved. Reservations may be made by contacting the theatre.

Schedule LaLeche League Film

NEW BUFFALO — LaLeche League of the Michiana area will present the film "Talking About Breastfeeding," Saturday, Oct. 16, at 7:30 p.m. in the home economics room of New Buffalo high school.

A discussion moderated by Dr. John A. Valantiejus, New Buffalo area physician, and Dr. Marcos Herrera, a graduate physician from Mexico, will follow the film.

Parents, parents-to-be, and others interested in the subject of breastfeeding are invited. Admission will be a small donation for mothers only. Fathers will be admitted free of charge.

In the film, a number of nursing mothers who have overcome medical problems and social pressures to breastfeed discuss their experiences. Included in the 30 minute film is a candid look at a young couple leaving the hospital with their new baby to begin life as a family.

The varied reactions of parents, grandparents and friends as the couple adjusts to living with and caring for the infant, as well as breastfeeding of the baby, are featured.

According to Mrs. Rolland (Pam) Oselka, of the LaLeche League of the Michiana area, problems which make breastfeeding difficult are perpetuated by misinformation.

She says, "Talking About Breastfeeding" affirms the values of breastfeeding as the simplest, safest and most nutritious way to feed an infant. The film helps to dispel common fears while providing valuable first-hand information. By giving insight into the importance of breastfeeding, the film encourages doctors and nurses to provide understanding and support."

Further information about the LaLeche League and area meetings may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Oselka, New Buffalo, or Mrs. Gerald (Judy) Backsberg, Three Oaks.

Soft Sweaters

NEW YORK — Keep warm in a sweater that's big, bright and boasts interesting details.

That's a fashion tip from the October "Seventeen," which likes sweaters in supersoft textures, vivid colors and special shapes. The ties that bind are drawstrings that gather the sleeves and waist of a wide-striped blouson sweater with boat neck and dropped shoulders.

A fringed cowl neck makes the difference on a sweater striped in paintbox colors, and the newest type of cardigan closes with three bows in the front.

The most feminine sweaters show shades of the Swiss Alps embroidered trim or scalloped edging.

I keep insisting that even though my husband does not have a heart condition his cigarette cough can eventually affect his heart. Isn't this true? — Mrs. M.H., Ohio

Dear Mrs. H.: A long-standing chronic cough does indeed put an added burden on the heart. Cigarette smoke acts as an irritant. The lining of the bronchial tubes and the lungs becomes inflamed and the cough is an explosive effort to get rid of this irritation.

When there are secondary chronic changes in the lungs, especially with emphysema, an extra burden is put on the heart muscle.

Far too many people who are chronic smokers make their own diagnosis of having a "cigarette cough" and neglect the possibility that there may be other reasons for their cough.

Any cough that lasts more than a reasonable length of time should have its origin established so that other possible conditions may be identified.

In IMP scoring honors are not counted and a win by just 10 points on a hand is not counted. A 20-point win is worth one IMP.

Here is a hand that decided a recent match. South studied the opening lead for some time and finally decided that East held the king of clubs and that he had a mighty good chance to make his slam anyway.

He went up with dummy's ace, led a trump to his ace, cashed the ace and king of hearts, led a trump to dummy's queen, discarded his last club on one high heart, ruffed a heart, pulled the last trump and played his king of diamonds.

East let it hold. South led a second diamond and agonized for a while in an effort to decide if he should play the queen or 10 from dummy. It made no difference. East held both the ace and jack and the slam had disappeared in the blue.

South complained about bad luck, but North was not impressed. He pointed out that if South had bid six notrump instead of six spades, North would have had no worries. He would be sure of 12 tricks, since the club lead would be up to and not through his ace-queen.

North's worries were justified. North played and made six notrump at the other table and won the match.

Regional Plan May Cut Baby Deaths

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — For mothers-to-be, a kind of "search out and save" program is spreading throughout the country.

It seeks to find women facing high risk of complications at birth, and send them to the best-equipped and best-trained centers for delivery and then postnatal care of mother and baby.

Ninety per cent of births are quite normal, uncomplicated events, specialists emphasize. But sudden emergencies can occur. Some women are at high risk because of diabetes, toxemia of pregnancy, or other conditions. Some didn't have good prenatal care, had poor diets, or were addicted to drugs or alcohol. Premature births can mean a fight to save the baby's life.

Saving such women from heartbreak or even death for their babies or themselves is the objective of regional development of obstetric care. It draws more meaning from the fact that 16 other countries have a lower infant death rate than the United States.

The concept calls for coordinating three "levels" of hospitals or centers within a region, or state. Each level would provide high quality care, but "the degree of complexity of patient needs determines where, and by whom, the care should be provided," says a report urging wider adoption of regional plans. A few states are already practicing it — Wisconsin, Mississippi, Arizona, Colorado and North Carolina.

Level One hospitals would provide service primarily for uncomplicated births, and be alert for earliest detection of high-risk cases. It also would provide competent emergency care.

Level Two units would be located in larger urban and suburban hospitals where the majority of deliveries occur. They would provide a full range of services for uncomplicated births and the majority of complicated ones.

Level Three units would receive the most complicated cases, and operate highly expensive intensive care units for mothers and infants.

Del Rio Improperly Returned Bail Bonds, Commission Says

DETROIT (AP) — The Michigan Judicial Tenure Commission has charged Recorder's Court Judge James Del Rio improperly returned $40,000 in forfeited bail bonds to bondsman Irwin Goldfarb without telling Wayne County officials.

The new accusation came Wednesday on the fourth day of a hearing by Appeals Court Judge Timothy Quinn into 23 other misconduct charges the Tenure Commission had earlier filed against the controversial Del Rio.

Commission Executive Director Brian McMahon said the bonds were from 40 cases apparently taken from other judges in 1974.

Del Rio's attorney S. Allen Early Jr. complained loudly about Quinn's acceptance of the new charge after the hearing's commencement.

Judge Quinn suggested that Early appeal the taling of the charge.

Del Rio also has been accused of trying an assault and battery charge against the same bondsman, Goldfarb, although the case had been scheduled for trial before another judge. Goldfarb was found innocent.

Truck Cover Bill Passes Michigan Legislature

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A measure toughening state laws against uncovered trucks has won final approval in the Michigan Legislature.

The bill is intended to reduce damage to cars from objects falling off trucks and reduce accidents caused by spillage from trucks.

The bill, which cleared the Senate 32-0 Wednesday, still permits loads of sand and gravel to be piled high above the truck's sideboards. Critics say that could lead to material blowing or falling onto the highway.

The most significant new part of the bill permits a law enforcement official to ticket a truck owner for not properly securing a load without seeing anything fall off the truck. Under present law, the officer has to see the spilling to penalize the trucker.

The bill requires that loads be covered if they are piled higher than six inches from the top of the sideboard. But that permits uncovered loads to be heaped high in the middle — loads which could blow off the truck.

In 1974, the Automobile Club of Michigan reported 2,556 accidents caused by uncovered trucks results, resulting in 11 fatalities. The club estimated that more than 50,000 Michigan motorists pay a total of $13 million in windshield and headlight damage yearly.

Sen. David Plawewski, D-Deerborn Heights, who has backed stiffer covered truck laws, said the bill is a step forward but "lacks the necessary teeth to eliminate the danger involved in uncovered trucks."

Plawewski said he would reintroduce legislation placing even stricter controls on truck covering. He has proposed that all loose cargo would be covered to prevent escape — no matter how it is loaded.

The new law would make violators guilty of a misdemeanor punishable by a fine of $500 and up to 90 days in jail.

Tuition Bill OK'd By Senate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to provide state tuition grants for part-time students at private colleges is on its way to Gov. William Milliken after Senate approval Wednesday.

The bill, passed 28-1, removes state requirements that only full-time students can get the grants. Backers of the bill argued that part-time students are need the aid even more than those taking a full course load.

Once signed, the new law would take effect July 1. It still gives full-time students priority.

Part-time students would have to demonstrate financial need before they could get the grants.

The bill also increases from eight to 10 the number of semesters that an undergraduate student is eligible to receive a grant.

BACKS PRESIDENT: Capt. Charles Miller, 63-year-old former skipper of the Mayaguez, holds up newspaper at San Francisco news conference on Wednesday at which he told news people that if President Ford had not acted as he did in Mayaguez incident, Miller believes that he and his 39 crew members would be in a prison camp in Cambodia today. PANELISTS RATE DEBATE

Carter Wins By Whisker

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter won the second campaign debate by a whisker over President Ford, in the view of five prominent college debate coaches.

The panelists judging the debate for The Associated Press used a scorecard that gives each contestant from one to five points in each of six categories. Two of the coaches called Carter the winner by two points. Two others picked Ford by a single point.

The fifth judge called it a dead heat on the basis of points, but awarded the decision to Carter on a tie-breaker standard used for college debates.

Prof. Melissa Maxey Wade of Emory University in Atlanta scored the debate 21-21, but awarded the victory to Carter because, she said, he brought up foreign policy problems of secrecy and morality and Ford did not dispose of them.

She gave Ford an edge over Carter in citing evidence for arguments, but found that canceled by what she called his "blunder in suggesting Eastern Europe is not in the sphere of the Soviet Union."

Dr. Donn Parson of the University of Kansas and Prof. William Southworth of the University of Redlands (Calif.), who each called Ford the winner of the first debate, picked Carter this time, 25-23 and 20-18, respectively.

Said Southworth: "Carter came across far more clearly on presenting the idea that Ford was not undertaking strong leadership and comprehensive foreign policy." He also found Carter more confident and less nervous than in the first debate, and Ford "a bit more choppy."

Parson thought Carter "was more forceful than Ford" and "more direct, more aggressive, more forceful compared to last time." He also found "Ford more defensive than I thought Ford would be," and thought Carter effectively argued the problem of secrecy throughout the clash.

Prof. James Unger of Georgetown University, who assisted The AP in setting up the panel, gave Ford a 21-20 edge on the basis of better analysis. He said Carter "failed to relate issues of excessive secrecy and immorality to the practical conduct of that foreign policy."

Unger, who had awarded the lowest scores in the first debate, found "substantial improvement by both speakers" this time and said "both of them indicated they could articulate a leadership position and effectively represent this country in either private negotiations or public forums."

Dr. Barbara O'Connor of California State University, Sacramento, found the debate "much better, much more lively" than last time and picked Ford, 25-24.

She said, "On presidential delivery, the nonverbal communication dimensions are better for Ford: eye contact, leaning forward and looking aggressive. Carter looks kind of meek and is still not as aggressive, not as presidential. The self-assured Southerner doesn't show in the debates."

All the panelists except Professor Wade had decided in favor of Ford on the first debate, although all five scorecards were close.

Debate Scorecard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Here are the scorecards for the five college debate coaches who scored the second Ford-Carter debate for The AP. Each candidate can earn from 1 to 5 points in each of six categories:

Thailand Quiet Under New Rule

BANGKOK, Thailand — Thailand's new military ruler clamped the iron hand of martial law on Bangkok's blood-stained streets today in the wake of clashes that left at least 26 persons dead and 180 wounded.

Soldiers stood guard at some public buildings, strict controls were imposed on the local press and quiet returned to the capital as Sangad Chalwyu sought to bring the country under his control. He met no public opposition.

The takeover Wednesday by Sangad, a hard-line anti-Communist, came after months of complaints by rightists about growing lawlessness, corruption and student violence and the weakness of ousted prime minister Seni Pramot's government.

Sangad, a 60-year-old admiral and former defense minister, is generally regarded as pro-American.

The military regime told all local newspapers today to apply for new publishing licenses and established a press censorship committee. However, specific instructions on how newspapers would operate in the future were not immediately issued.

A military spokesman told reporters that international news agencies would have to submit stories "critical of the government" and those dealing with Communist activities in the country to the committee for review but other stories could be sent out unimpeded.

Details of what the government considered "critical" were not provided by the spokesman.

In imposing martial law Wednesday, Sangad abolished parliament and the constitution, slapped a midnight-to-dawn curfew on the country, placed all civilian courts under military jurisdiction and banned political meetings of more than five people.

There was no open opposition to the moves either in the capital or the provinces.

Sangad contended that the Seni government had shown itself incapable of governing and that a new regime was needed to halt Communism in Thailand. The coup ended three years of democracy.

Sangad told the nation in a television broadcast Wednesday evening: "You can sleep well tonight. You don't have to live in fear anymore."

Thailand's change of government was expected to evoke strong reaction from its Communist neighbors, particularly Vietnam, which in the past has criticized Bangkok's "reactionary, military clique."

Japan's Kyodo news service reported today that China's official mass media have remained silent on the coup. However, a Kyodo dispatch from Peking said it was believed that Chinese officials are worried over what course the new Thai government may take in relations with China.

In Tokyo, Foreign Minister Zenaro Kosaka indicated that Japan was ready to recognize the military regime as soon as it received formal notification of the takeover from the new government.

The stage was set Wednesday for Sangad's takeover after rightist groups clashed with leftist students at Thammasat University and special riot police stormed the campus in a full-scale military assault, complete with heavy weapons.

Rightists hanged two leftists and beat the bodies with sticks, gouged out the eyes and cut the throats. The body of another victim lay headless on the university grounds.

In another incident, a mob dragged four leftist students from the university gates through nearby streets, beat them, soaked them with gasoline and set them afire. Strips of automobile tire were used to feed the flames.

Many observers said the violence was the most brutal they had ever seen in Thailand.

The violence grew out of leftist protests against the return home last month of former dictator Thanom Kittikachorn, who was ousted in student-led riots in October 1973.

Tuition Bill OK'd By Senate

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A bill to provide state tuition grants for part-time students at private colleges is on its way to Gov. William Milliken after Senate approval Wednesday.

The bill, passed 28-1, removes state requirements that only full-time students can get the grants. Backers of the bill argued that part-time students are not the aid even more than those taking a full course load.

Once signed, the new law would take effect July 1. It still gives full-time students priority.

Part-time students would have to demonstrate financial need before they could get the grants.

The bill also increases from eight to 10 the number of semesters that an undergraduate student is eligible to receive a grant.

PANELISTS RATE DEBATE

Carter Wins By Whisker

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter won the second campaign debate by a whisker over President Ford, in the view of five prominent college debate coaches.

The panelists judging the debate for The Associated Press used a scorecard that gives each contestant from one to five points in each of six categories. Two of the coaches called Carter the winner by two points. Two others picked Ford by a single point.

The fifth judge called it a dead heat on the basis of points, but awarded the decision to Carter on a tie-breaker standard used for college debates.

Prof. Melissa Maxcy Wade of Emory University in Atlanta scored the debate 21-21, but awarded the victory to Carter because, she said, he brought up foreign policy problems of secrecy and morality and Ford did not dispose of them.

She gave Ford an edge over Carter in citing evidence for arguments, but found that canceled by what she called his "blunder in suggesting Eastern Europe is not in the sphere of the Soviet Union."

Dr. Donn Parson of the University of Kansas and Prof. William Southworth of the University of Redlands (Calif.), who each called Ford the winner of the first debate, picked Carter this time, 25-23 and 20-18, respectively.

Said Southworth: "Carter came across far more clearly on presenting the idea that Ford was not undertaking strong leadership and comprehensive foreign policy." He also found Carter more confident and less nervous than in the first debate, and Ford "a bit more choppy."

Parson thought Carter "was more forceful than Ford" and "more direct, more aggressive, more forceful compared to last time." He also found "Ford more defensive than I thought Ford would be," and thought Carter effectively argued the problem of secrecy throughout the clash.

Prof. James Unger of Georgetown University, who assisted The AP in setting up the panel, gave Ford a 21-20 edge on the basis of better analysis. He said Carter "failed to relate issues of excessive secrecy and immorality to the practical conduct of that foreign policy."

Unger, who had awarded the lowest scores in the first debate, found "substantial improvement by both speakers" this time and said "both of them indicated they could articulate a leadership position and effectively represent this country in either private negotiations or public forums."

Dr. Barbara O'Connor of California State University, Sacramento, found the debate "much better, much more lively" than last time and picked Ford, 25-24.

She said, "On presidential delivery, the nonverbal communication dimensions are better for Ford: eye contact, leaning forward and looking aggressive. Carter looks kind of meek and is still not as aggressive, not as presidential. The self-assured Southerner doesn't show in the debates."

All the panelists except Professor Wade had decided in favor of Ford on the first debate, although all five scorecards were close.

UAW Board Approves Ford Pact

DETROIT (AP) — A tentative accord reached with Ford Motor Co. goes before the United Auto Workers' National Ford Council today after winning an okay Wednesday night from the union's 26-member international executive board.

Ken Bannan, a UAW vice president and director of the union's Ford department, told reporters the pact was unanimously approved after a three-hour meeting of the board.

Asked if the length of the board meeting indicated some disagreement within the board on the Ford offer, Bannan said the time was used to "explain to our board details of the offer."

Details of the accord will not be made public until the board and the council approve it.

After the board meeting, UAW Vice President Dennis McDermott revealed the union will turn its attention to economic matters, including wage parity, in a contract with Ford of Canada. McDermott said the union wants to get economic matters with Ford of Canada settled before it goes to General Motors or Chrysler in the U.S. in the next round of auto talks.

Sources said a key element in the pact is a provision for 13 force the industry to hire more more paid days off spread over the three years, in addition to 33 holiday and vacation days Ford workers now receive annually. They said the additional time-off provisions are tied to attendance requirements — a worker must be on the job the day before and after a scheduled extra day off to get paid for it.

The union had demanded more paid days off as a first step in its long-range goal to shorten the work week to preserve current jobs and create new ones. The idea is to workers to replace those taking time off.

Other provisions, sources said, include general wage increases averaging about 3 percent a year, an additional first-year increase of about 20 cents an hour, continuation of a cost-of-living protection formula, special cash supplements for retirees and improvements in fringe benefits.

If the tentative agreement is approved by the top union officials, it goes up for a vote in the 99 Ford bargaining units around the country.

Ford's top bargainer, Vice President Sidney McKenna, said after the union announced the settlement he was "hopeful we will be back at work at most plants by the early part of next week, but at this point it is only a hope."

Union officials have said the general ratification could take at least a week. But contract snags at the local level could block renewed production at the 102 Ford facilities in 22 states.

By Wednesday, 42 of the 99 local bargaining units had reached settlement with local management on new work agreements. Those already settled include seven of 19 assembly plants and 12 of 43 manufacturing facilities.

Even after a new national agreement is ratified, workers at plants still without local contracts probably won't return to their jobs.

The other three major domestic companies have extended their present contracts with the UAW indefinitely. But the agreements could be cancelled with three-days' notice from either side.

Probe Welfare Check Theft Plot

DETROIT (AP) — An apparent scheme to steal thousands of dollars in welfare checks has led investigators to several cut-rate Detroit hotels which may have been used as clearinghouses for the forged and stolen checks.

The Detroit Free Press reported that at least 83 unendorsed welfare checks totaling nearly $7,000 were deposited in the bank accounts of the now-defunct Camelot and Gladstone Hotels.

Although an auditor for the state Department of Social Services said it is against department policy to honor unendorsed checks, the checks were accepted by the bank and honored by the Wayne County Department of Social Services.

A deputy director of the state welfare department, Paul Allen, said state officials cannot explain why the Wayne County agency and the bank accepted the checks. Officials of the state welfare department say the responsibility for running the county agency rests with its director, R.B. Shelton.

Shelton was not available for comment, and a spokeswoman for his department would only say the matter is "under investigation."

Allen added investigators suspect some employees at the hotels, the banks and the welfare department may have conspired to cash the unendorsed checks.

An official at the bank where the checks were cashed said tellers should not have accepted them, and added the bank is checking its personnel to find out who cashed the checks and why.

The hotels' former owner, Leslie Crane, acknowledged Wednesday that former employees might have deposited the checks as part of a scheme to steal the money. Crane denied any previous knowledge of the large number of unendorsed checks deposited by his hotels.

Crane said he has given federal welfare fraud investigators information that indicates some of his former employees were involved in an organized check-stealing and forgery ring in 1975 that may have netted as much as $10,000.

The Wayne County Organized Crime Task Force is investigating three rings that allegedly dealt in stolen welfare checks.

Crane charged the entire welfare system "encourages theft" by poor administration.

Local Car Strikes Not Ruled Out

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Labor leaders in Ohio say tentative settlement of the United Auto Workers' strike against the Ford Motor Co. doesn't rule out local strikes against the major auto makers.

Rank-and-file union members on the picket lines in Detroit, meanwhile, were voicing cautious hope that they will be back on their jobs soon, after what some call a relatively easy strike.

John Yates, chairman of the UAW's Community Action Program, said Wednesday local unions at Cleveland-area Chrysler and General Motors Corp. plants still have some real problems, and the probability is high that the Ford strike could continue over those demands.

Bob Weissman, president of UAW Local 122 at Chrysler's Twinsburg stamping plant, called the tentative Ford agreement the worst in 10 years.

Weissman said the wage increase was inadequate and the reduction in work time was "a pathetically halting start at shortening the workweek and does not begin to adequately address the problem of unemployment in our industry."

But some pickets huddled under cold, rainy skies Wednesday outside Ford's mammoth Rouge plant said the package they've heard described is an attractive one.

"That 13 days off — that's enough right there," said 33-year-old David Anderson, a 10-year veteran at the stamping plant. While no contract details have been officially released, union sources have said the agreement includes an additional 13 paid days off over a three-year period.

William Nash, 47, who has worked 17 years for Ford and weathered three strikes, agreed with Anderson that the package was a good one. "This strike was much easier," than past walkouts, he said, adding cautiously, "if it's over."

Younger, unmarried workers at the Rouge plant tended to take a harder line. "All they're doing is giving us more days off and we're not getting a four-day week," complained 22-year-old Ronald Rankin, who said he would vote to reject the pact.

Jim Rothe, 26, had much the same feeling. "Woodcock says it's a foot in the door. I say it's a foot in the teeth. As far as a social program to cut down the workweek and create more job's it's a joke."

But some pickets huddled under cold, rainy skies Wednesday outside Ford's mammoth Rouge plant said the package they've heard described is an attractive one.

"That 13 days off — that's enough right there," said 33-year-old David Anderson, a 10-year veteran at the stamping plant. While no contract details have been officially released, union sources have said the agreement includes an additional 13 paid days off over a three-year period.

William Nash, 47, who has worked 17 years for Ford and weathered three strikes, agreed with Anderson that the package was a good one. "This strike was much easier," than past walkouts, he said, adding cautiously, "if it's over."

Younger, unmarried workers at the Rouge plant tended to take a harder line. "All they're doing is giving us more days off and we're not getting a four-day week," complained 22-year-old Ronald Rankin, who said he would vote to reject the pact.

Jim Rothe, 26, had much the same feeling. "Woodcock says it's a foot in the door. I say it's a foot in the teeth. As far as a social program to cut down the workweek and create more jobs it's a joke."

Officials Call Off Air Search

GWINN, Mich. — An air search in a rugged area of the state's Upper Peninsula has been called off after 12 days of searching uncovered no trace of the airplane that disappeared Sept. 20 with an Allegan man as its passenger.

Air Force officials at the K.I. Sawyer Air Force base here said the search was called off Monday for the plane carrying Gerard Cooke, 35, of Dorr.

The light, twin-engine craft he was riding in was last seen on radar over Lake Michigan's Green Bay near Menominee.

The pilot was Allen Griffith, 51, of Lakeview in Montcalm county. Griffith, a construction company owner, and Cooke were enroute to a bid opening in Houghton.

Cooke is owner of the Cannon Wrecking Co., with headquarters in Dorr.

The Air Force and the Civil Air Patrol began searching for the plane Sept. 23 in an area from Menominee north to Iron Mountain.

Welfare Cutoff Sought

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The federal government would take over the cost of welfare payments for persons who have been on the rolls for two years or more if House lawmakers get their way. The House Wednesday approved on a voice vote a resolution urging Congress to approve such a plan. The resolution needs Senate approval before copies are sent to the President, the Speaker of the U.S. House of Representatives and every Michigan Congressman. The resolution explained that many welfare recipients are migrating to Michigan because welfare benefits here are better than in other states. "It is patently unfair that the people of Michigan should have to finance these welfare recipients even on a 50 per cent basis when the citizens of many other states with low welfare costs do not have such an obligation," the resolution said. And, it went on, other state services are suffering because appropriations to the Department of Social Services, which provides welfare benefits, are 34 per cent of the state's budget. The department received a $1.18 billion appropriation for 1976-77, a 16 per cent increase over the year before.

Teamsters Seek $8 Million

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Trustees of three units of a Teamsters Union pension fund have filed suit seeking to recover $8 million loaned to a firm involved in Florida land development. The suit named Indico Corp., a Southfield, Mich. land development firm and its officers, including president Mayer Morganroth. The action was brought by the Teamsters Central States, Southeast and Southwest areas pension funds. According to the suit filed in Oakland County Circuit Court, the fund on two separate occasions in 1974 loaned money to Indico which was involved in a land venture in Bay County, Florida.

Nursing Home Owner Jailed

DETROIT (AP) — The owner of a suburban Westland convalescent home has been jailed for contempt of court after refusing to hand over financial records to a federal grand jury. U.S. District Court Judge Thomas P. Thornton took the action against Paul W. Bortell, administrator and sole stockholder of the Four Chaplains Convalescent Center. Bortell on Tuesday had repeated his vow not to show the facility's financial records to the grand jury, which is investigating Medicaid fraud by some nursing homes.

The judge said Bortell, taken into custody by U.S. marshals, will be imprisoned until he produces his records or until the life of the grand jury runs out — more than a year from now. Four Chaplains is one of at least a dozen nursing homes reported to be under federal investigation for alleged kickbacks and other financial abuses of the state Medicaid program.

Father Shot To Death

DETROIT (AP) — A 14-year-old Detroit girl is being held in the Wayne County Youth Home after she allegedly shot her father in the head during a family argument, police said.

James Douglas, 40, died Wednesday at a Detroit hospital from a gunshot wound to the head, according to police.

Police said the girl told them she shot her father because he had been beating his wife, Mattie, during a quarrel Tuesday night. Officers said the mother confirmed her daughter's story.

Shock Waves Are Following Second Debate likely in Houston.

The Associated Press poll that followed the first debate concluded that Ford picked up some support. The first debate covered domestic and economic policy.

In their second encounter, neither candidate seemed as nervous at the outset. Each hit hard at the other's recommendations of ways to maintain American strength throughout the world while pursuing a foreign policy with moral as well as practical objectives.

"I treated Mr. Ford more as an equal," Carter said. "I think in the first debate, I deferred too much to him because he was President."

Ford, however, was able to use his incumbency to make two surprise announcements of international significance: He said the United States has received signals from the Soviet Union of its readiness to narrow differences and shape "a realistic and sound compromise" for a new agreement to limit strategic nuclear weapons; and he said the administration will disclose the names of American firms that have participated in the Arab boycott against Israel.

But the President also may have created a campaign issue in an unexpected area when he said, "There is no Soviet domination of Eastern Europe and there never will be under a Ford administration."

Ford was asked by panelist Max Frankel of the New York Times if he meant to say that the Russians were not using Eastern Europe as "their own sphere of influence" and were not making certain "with their troops that it's a Communist zone."

The President replied: "I don't believe, Mr. Frankel, that the Yugoslavians consider themselves dominated by the Soviet Union. I don't believe the Romanians consider themselves dominated by the Soviet Union. I don't believe that the Poles consider themselves dominated by the Soviet Union. Each of these countries is independent, autonomous."

After the debate, Brent D. Scowcroft, White House national security adviser, was asked by reporters if the Soviets had troops stationed in Poland.

"Yes," he replied. Asked how many, Scowcroft said he didn't recall and then said it might be four divisions. Then Scowcroft added, "I think what the President wanted to say is that we don't recognize Soviet domination of Eastern Europe."

Dr. Lev E. Dobrianski, chairman of the National Captive Nations Committee, said, "I was shocked to hear President Ford state and even try to defend his preposterous statement that 'there is no Soviet domination over Eastern Europe.'"

Dobrianski said Ford's statement "blatantly contradicts the brute realities of Russian domination and colonialism in Eastern Europe."

Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, who is of Polish descent, also responded quickly, saying he was "disappointed that President Ford chose to dismiss the human rights of millions of people in Eastern Europe."

A senior European diplomat said of Ford's assertion, "It's crazy. If it isn't, what's the North Atlantic alliance (NATO) all about?"

During another exchange, Ford criticized the Democratic Congress for failure to disclose the names of companies that had participated in the Arab boycott against Israel and said he had directed the Commerce Department to release the names.

"The Congress failed to do it, and we intend to do it," said Ford.

However, a Commerce Department spokesman said he thought the disclosures would be of firms that cooperate with the boycott in the future rather than the names of firms that had done so in the past.

Democratic members of Congress quickly pointed out that the Ford administration vigorously opposed anti-boycott provisions in the tax bill enacted this session and recently signed by the President.

U.S. corporations are required by law to report to the Commerce Department any demands from Arab countries to participate in the boycott against Israel as a condition of doing business in the Arab world.

Ford said his administration "is the first administration that has taken an antitrust action against companies in this country that have allegedly cooperated with the Arab boycott." The company, which Ford did not name during the exchange, was the Bechtel Corp., an international construction firm.

When asked for his position on the Panama Canal, Carter said he might be willing to share more fully the responsibilities for administering the Canal with the Panamanian government, to pay higher fees for movement of goods through the Canal Zone and to reduce the U.S. military establishment in the zone.

"But I would not relinquish practical control of the Panama Canal Zone any time in the foreseeable future," he added.

The Panamanian ambassador to the United States reacted by saying Carter "has raised the price tag" for a new treaty between the two countries.

"If he (Carter) is elected it would be up to the people and government of Panama to decide if they are prepared to pay that price. We would have liked President Ford to be more definite and precise in his own intentions," said Ambassador Nicolas Gonzalez-Revilla.

Ford said the United States "must and will maintain complete access to the Panama Canal."

On the arms limitation talks with the Soviets, Ford said he "met just last week with the foreign minister of the Soviet Union, and he indicated to me that the Soviet Union is interested in narrowing the differences and making a realistic and a sound compromise."

Attorneys Sue Libertowski's Father For Fees

By JOHN DYE
South Berrien Bureau
SOUTH BEND, Ind. — A suit seeking $55,000 from the father of Gerald Libertowski has been filed in St. Joseph county Superior court here.

Officials Call Off Air Search

GWINN, Mich. — An air search in a rugged area of the state's Upper Peninsula has been called off after 12 days of searching uncovered no trace of the airplane that disappeared Sept. 20 with an Allegan man as its passenger.

Air Force officials at the K.I. Sawyer Air Force base here said the search was called off Monday for the plane carrying Gerard Cooke, 35, of Dorr.

The pilot was Allen Griffith, 51, of Lakeview in Montcalm county. Griffith, a construction company owner, and Cooke were enroute to a bid opening in Houghton.

Cooke is owner of the Cannon Wrecking Co., with headquarters in Dorr.

The Air Force and the Civil Air Patrol began searching for the plane Sept. 23 in an area from Menominee north to Iron Mountain.

Attys. Carl Leibowitz and Glenn D. Miller of South Bend are seeking the money from Casimir Libertowski, who lives on a farm south of Buchanan on Red Bud trail. The suit seeks payment for a $10,000 debt while claim was incurred while defending the junior Libertowski of a first degree murder charge here recently.

Gerald Libertowski, 34, South Bend, was acquitted of the charge in connection with the disappearance and presumed death of a South Bend woman in 1973. He still faces an open murder charge in Berrien county in connection with the 1975 disappearance of a Niles woman.

The suit seeks $30,000, three times the alleged actual debt; $5,000 in attorneys' fees, and $20,000 in punitive damages and court costs.

In the suit, the attorneys claim that on Sept. 7, Gerald Libertowski conveyed the titles to two trucks, valued at $10,000, to them. Within a few days, the suit claims, the elder Libertowski agreed to pay the debt in exchange for the titles. But, the suit adds, the attorneys claim the senior Libertowski does not intend to pay the debt.

Here's Complete Text Of State Proposal A

Because of widespread interest in Proposal A — Michigan's proposed ban on non-returnable bottles and cans for soft drinks and beer — The Herald-Palladium today is publishing the complete text of the proposition.

Among other measures, the proposal — if approved by voters in the Nov. 2 general election — would prohibit the use of non-returnable bottles and cans, establish a system of deposits and repayments for soft drink and beer containers, and prohibit the use of detachable openers on metal containers.

But it also would establish a category of "certified" beverage containers that would be reusable by more than one bottler or canner.

This, in turn, would create a differential in the minimum deposits required — 5 cents for "certified" containers and 10 cents for all other containers.

The proposition generally is supported by environmentalists as a means of reducing litter and conserving natural resources and generally is opposed by beverage producers and container manufacturers on the grounds that it will increase prices, reduce consumption and decrease the production and jobs of manufacturers.

If the proposal is approved by Michigan voters next month, it will not go into effect until two years after it becomes law.

Following is the full text of Proposal A and a reproduction of the way the proposition will appear on the ballot in November.

Sec. 1. As used in this act:

(a) "Beverage" means a soft drink, soda water, carbonated natural or mineral water, or other nonalcoholic carbonated drink; beer, ale, or other malt drink of whatever alcoholic content.

(b) "Beverage container" means an airtight metal, glass, paper, or plastic container, or a container composed of a combination of these materials, which, at the time of sale, contains 1 gallon or less of a beverage.

(c) "Returnable container" means a beverage container upon which a deposit of at least 10 cents has been paid, or is required to be paid upon the removal of the container from the sale or consumption area, and for which a refund of at least 10 cents in cash is payable by every dealer or distributor in this state of that beverage in beverage containers, as further provided in section 2. A beverage container certified as provided in section 3 shall also be deemed a returnable container if the deposit is at least 5 cents, and the requirements of the preceding sentence are met in all other respects.

(d) "Nonreturnable container" means a beverage container upon which no deposit or a deposit of less than 10 cents has been paid, or is required to be paid upon the removal of the container from the sale or consumption area, or for which no cash refund or a refund of less than 10 cents is payable by a dealer or distributor in this state of that beverage in beverage containers, as further provided in section 2. A beverage container certified as provided in section 3 shall not be deemed a nonreturnable beverage container if the deposit is at least 5 cents, and the requirements of the first sentence of subdivision (c) of this section are met in all other respects.

(e) "Person" means an individual, partnership, corporation, association, or other legal entity.

(f) "Dealer" means a person who sells or offers for sale to consumers within this state a beverage in a beverage container, including an operator of a vending machine containing a beverage in a beverage container.

(g) "Operator" of a vending machine means equally its owner, the person who refills it, and the owner or lessee of the property upon which it is located.

(h) "Distributor" means a person who sells beverages in beverage containers to a dealer, within this state, and includes a manufacturer who engages in such sales.

(i) "Manufacturer" means a person who bottles, cans, or otherwise places beverages in beverage containers for sale to distributors, dealers, or consumers.

(j) "Within this state" means within the exterior limits of the state of Michigan, and includes the territory within these limits owned by or ceded to the United States of America.

(k) "Commission" means the Michigan liquor control commission.

(l) "Sale or consumption area" means the premises within the property of the dealer or of his lessor where the sale is made, within which beverages in returnable containers may be consumed without payment of a deposit, and, upon removing a beverage container from which, the customer is required by the dealer to pay the deposit.

Sec. 2. (1) A dealer shall not, within this state, sell, offer for sale, or give to consumers a nonreturnable container or a beverage in a nonreturnable container.

(2) A dealer who regularly sells beverages for consumption off his premises shall provide on his premises, or within 100 yards of the premises on which he sells for sale a beverage in a returnable container, a convenient means whereby the containers of any kind, size, and brand sold or offered for sale by him may be returned by, and the deposit refunded in cash to, a person whether or not the person is the original customer of that dealer, and whether or not the container was sold by that dealer.

(3) Regional centers for redemption of returnable containers may be established in addition to, but not as substitutes for, means for refund of deposits in accordance with subsection (2).

(4) A dealer shall not refuse to accept from a person an empty returnable container of any kind, size, and brand sold by that dealer, nor refuse to pay to the person its full refund value in cash, except as provided in subsections (5) and (7).

(5) A dealer who does not require a deposit on a returnable container when the contents are consumed in the dealer's sale or consumption area shall not be required to pay a refund for accepting that empty container.

(6) A distributor shall not refuse to accept from a dealer an empty returnable container of any kind, size, and brand sold by that distributor, nor refuse to pay to the dealer its full refund value in cash, except as provided in subsection (7).

(7) Every beverage container sold or offered for sale by a dealer within this state shall clearly indicate by embossing or by a stamp, or by a label or other method securely affixed to the beverage container, the refund value of the container and the name of this state. A dealer or distributor may, but is not required to, refuse to accept from a person an empty returnable container which does not state thereon the refund value of the container and the name of this state.

(8) A dealer within this state shall not sell, offer for sale, or give to consumers a metal beverage container, any part of which becomes detached when opened.

Sec. 3. (1) To promote the use in this state of reusable beverage containers of uniform design, and to facilitate the return of containers to manufacturers for reuse as a beverage container, the commission shall certify beverage containers which satisfy the requirements of this section.

(2) A beverage container shall be certified if:

(a) It is reusable as a beverage container by more than 1 manufacturer in the ordinary course of business.

(b) More than 1 manufacturer will in the ordinary course of business accept the beverage container for reuse as a beverage container and pay the refund value of the container.

(3) The commission shall not certify more than 1 beverage container of a particular manufacturer in each size classification. The commission shall by rule establish appropriate size classifications in accordance with the purposes set forth in subsection (1), each of which shall include a size range of at least 3 liquid ounces.

(4) A beverage container shall not be certified under this section:

(a) If by reason of its shape or design, or by reason of words or symbols permanently inscribed thereon, whether by engraving, embossing, painting, or other permanent method, it is reusable as a beverage container in the ordinary course of business only by a manufacturer of a beverage sold under a specific brand name.

(b) If the commission finds that its use by more than 1 manufacturer is not of sufficient volume to promote the purposes set forth in subsection (1).

(5) Unless an application for certification under this section is denied by the commission within 60 days after the application is filed, the beverage container shall be deemed certified.

(6) The commission may at any time review certification of a beverage container. If, upon the review, after written notice and hearing afforded to the person who filed the original application for certification of the beverage container under this section, the commission determines that the beverage container is no longer qualified for certification, it shall withdraw certification. Withdrawal of certification shall be effective on a date specified by the commission, but not less than 30 days after written notice to the person who filed the original application for certification of the beverage container under this section, and to the manufacturer referred to in subsection (2).

Sec. 4. A dealer, distributor, or manufacturer who violates this act shall be fined not less than $100.00 nor more than $1,000.00 and costs of prosecution. Every day a violation occurs is a separate offense.

Sec. 5. Act No. 142 of the Public Acts of 1971, being section 445.191 of the Compiled Laws of 1970, is repealed.

Sec. 6. This act shall take effect two years after it becomes law.

ANDASTE IN EARLIER YEARS: The Andaste, which disappeared in a September storm in 1929 after leaving Grand Haven, is seen as a "straightback" plowing up the St. Mary's river at Sault Ste Marie. She carried ore and grain.

Tragic Sinking Of Andaste Recounted

By GEORGE VARGO

The story of misery, anxiety, suffering, loss and damage caused on the Great Lakes can never be completely told. Usually a storm on the lakes is nothing to deter the crews of the big lake freighters.

True, storms are not welcomed, but schedules must be maintained and the ships must plow through the heavy seas, seeking shelter only when extreme danger threatens.

Even after she disappeared on the night of September 9, 1929, to this day sailors talk of her. I met a man last week in St. Joseph who was a member of her crew. Viewed from any angle she was a working ship, and could never pass for a beauty. The Andaste was launched from the yard of the Cleveland Shipbuilding Company in 1922. She was a

"Straightback" ship with none of the sheer of the larger freighters.

The ship has a flat deck with hatches almost flush with the plating. Her sides sloped above the waterline. She was 266 feet long with a gross tonnage of 1,513. She had a cargo capacity of 3,000 tons and seven hatches for loading and unloading. Coal, iron ore, and grain hauling were the lot of the Andaste for a good many years. Then pig iron was hauled by the ship, but by 1920 the pig iron volume had dwindled.

In 1921, she was brought to the Great Lakes Engineering Company at River Rouge and was shortened by 24 feet. Her new over-all length would permit her to use the Welland canal to haul grain from lower lake ports to Montreal. For five years she was in this trade.

In 1925 she was sold to Leatham D. Smith, a shipyard owner, quarry operator, and the father of the self-unloaders, at Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin.

Smith was the designer and inventor of the self-unloader now used on those big ships which bring limestone and salt to the local docks. It is one of the most efficient pieces of

In 1928, the Andaste was chartered out to the Construction Materials Company of Chicago. They, under the terms of the charter, took over as managers and operators.

The Andaste's function was to supply their yard, up the Calumet river in South Chicago, with a continuous supply of sand, gravel and crushed stone.

On the afternoon of September 9, 1929, the Andaste was at Ferrysburg, Michigan, on the Grand River directly north of Grand Haven, taking on a load of gravel. While the shore staff of the Construction Materials Company directed streams of two-inch gravel down the loading spouts into the ship's holds, the crew of the Andaste were pretty much scattered uptown.

Most of the crew were from here and they usually beat a path to their own homes when in port, leaving the ship in care of others with no local ties or worry. The ship's departure time from the upriver dock that night was not noted, but the Coast Guard on duty at the Grand Haven Coast Guard station logged her as passing outboard between the harbor piers at 9:03 p.m. He watched her gradually fade from sight on her normal west-southwest course. It is recorded fact, however, that from the time of the Coast Guard's last sighting, the Andaste was never seen again! She just disappeared. . . utterly and completely. Many of the natives sailed from here on different ships, car ferries and tankers. The ship carried 25 men on her last leg. It sometimes carried 28 to 30 men. By a quirk, two wheelmen had some business to do uptown and postponed the trip.

On the other hand, a 14-year-old lad, but big for his age, was shipping out for the first time. The last time they saw him was when he was peeling potatoes in the galley. "He seemed happy," said one of the men on the deck.

A sudden shift of the wind, followed by a severe northwest gale, developed after the Andaste had departed the piers, far too late to warn her by posting the gale-warning signals at the Coast Guard station.

The same thing happened to the Chicora in another fall storm because Captain Stines already had departed in that gale of that night.

The night watch at the Coast Guard station at Holland reported the lights of a ship between two and four a.m. but saw no flares or signals of distress. Also, cottagers along the shore of the lake reported a ship between the same hours.

Former seamen said the Andaste always had trouble recruiting a full crew. "She used to pitch and roll so much," one said, "that it was hard to get a crew for her. Seaworthy and all that, but still the boys were afraid of her. There's another thing about that boat. She used to shift her cargo. That means that when she rolled about, the gravel or stone would shift to one side. Many times the crew would have to do down and trim the cargo."

The Grand Haven Tribune had concluded the ship was lost and announced it with a Thursday afternoon headline: "Andaste Given Up For Lost." Later that day, the paper published an extra with even more sensational banner head: "Andaste Wreckage Is Found Today!"

While yachts from Chicago and Coast Guards scoured the lake, the grim news resulted from a trip to his nets by a commercial fisherman. Captain George Van Hall had gone to lift his nets off Holland and encountered a vast floating field of wreckage, some entwined in his nets.

It was a sad event in Grand Haven of September 1929. Meteorologist Heyer testified to weather conditions that night. The northwest storm warning arrived two hours after she left port, he said. The barometer had registered 29.04 at nine p.m. on Monday, the ninth, indicating a storm.

Another Vargo Saga

EDITOR'S NOTE: George Vargo, a Great Lakes historian and former sailor, 1489 Jennings, Benton Harbor, tells in this account of the disappearance of the gravel-hauler, the Andaste, in a September storm that swooped down Lake Michigan after she had departed Grand Haven in 1929.

machinery used by shipping companies today. It saves time in ports.

obtained at different ports including Mr. Smith's quarry dock at Sturgeon Bay.

CONVERTED TO UNLOADER: Shortened by 24 feet in previous rebuilding, Andaste had unloading device installed by man who developed modern self-unloading equipment when she was pictured at Grand Haven on one of her trips for gravel.

TIDBITS

Buchanan GOP Meeting

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan Republican club has scheduled a meeting for 8 tonight, in the high school. Joseph Garbert II, city mayor, who is chairman of the club, said the purpose of the meeting is to organize and plan for the staffing of the Republican headquarters, located in the old bank building at the corner of Front and Main streets.

SMC Chairman Re-Elected

DOWAGIAC — Dr. Fred L. Mathews, Dowagiac optometrist and chairman of Southwestern Michigan College's board of trustees, has been re-elected to the board of directors of the national Association of Community College Trustees.

Dr. Mathews was re-elected to the post during the group's annual meeting in St. Louis, Mo., last week. The Washington D.C.-based association represents 500 colleges throughout the U.S.

Carter Aide In Decatur

DECATUR — Bobby Smith, chairman of the National Carter-Mondale committee for food and agriculture, will meet with farmers and others interested in food production here tonight.

The meeting will be held at the Decatur town hall, beginning at 8 p.m. He is also scheduled to hold a similar meeting at 4:30 p.m. today at Democratic headquarters in Niles, US-31 South. Richard Grabemeyer, Dowagiac, said Smith will be seeking comments and suggestions about agricultural policies for the Democratic presidential and vice-presidential candidates.

Bangor Starting Big Fund Drive

BANGOR — Bangor's United Charities drive has launched its 1976 fund raising effort.

Goal for the campaign this year is $8,400, the same amount raised by last year's effort, drive officials announced.

Chairman for the campaign is Allan Bregger of Bangor. Bregger, 45, was vice chairman of last year's effort.

Solicitations for funds are scheduled to get underway next week, following announcement of the drive this week. Bregger said, He said it is hoped all group solicitations will be completed by Saturday, Oct. 23.

A wrap-up door-to-door canvass will be conducted by campaign workers on Thursday, Oct. 23.

Group chairman this year are John Rathbun, professional group, city employees and major businesses; Pete Waite, local retail businesses; Dave Walton, industry and out of town businesses, and Mrs. David (Elaine) deBest, rural areas including parts of Arlington, Bangor, Columbia and Geneva townships.

Teacher Talks Halted

WOODHAVEN, Mich. (AP) — A state mediator has called a halt to negotiations in the Michigan's lone teachers' strike. Thomas Badoud, the state mediator in the two-week-old walkout, said he ended the talks between the Woodhaven Education Association and the Woodhaven School Board because there wasn't enough movement to warrant further mediation. Officials on both sides of the bargaining table agreed there was no point in continuing negotiations. The Michigan Education Association reports that 214 of the state's 517 public school districts still are without signed contracts, but says Woodhaven is the only district where teachers are withholding their services.

Takes New Job

The first director of the Environmental Protection Agency, onetime acting director of the FBI and former U.S. deputy attorney general has begun duties as a senior vice president of the Weyerhaeuser Co.

PROPOSAL A

Proposed law to prohibit the use of non-returnable bottles and cans for soft drinks and beer; to require refundable cash deposits for soft drink and beer containers; and to provide penalties for violation of the law.

THE PROPOSED LAW WOULD:

- (a) Prohibit the use of non-returnable bottles and cans for the sale of soft drinks and beer for off-premises consumption;
- (b) Set up a requirement for cash deposits and repayment of deposits for soft drink and beer containers;
- (c) Prohibit the use of metal soft drink and beer containers with detachable openers;
- (d) Establish fines for violation of the law by dealers, distributors and manufacturers.

Should this proposed law be approved?

DISPOSABLE BAN: Here's how Proposal A — the proposed ban on disposable bottles and cans — will appear on ballot in Michigan's general election Nov. 9.

Here's Complete Text Of State Proposal A

Because of widespread interest in Proposal A — Michigan's proposed ban on non-returnable bottles and cans for soft drinks and beer — The Herald-Palladium today is publishing the complete text of the proposition.

Among other measures, the proposal — if approved by voters in the Nov. 2 general election — would prohibit the use of non-returnable bottles and cans, establish a system of deposits and repayments for soft drink and beer containers, and prohibit the use of detachable openers on metal containers.

But it also would establish a category of "certified" beverage containers that would be reusable by more than one bottler or canner.

This, in turn, would create a differential in the minimum deposits required — 5 cents for "certified" containers and 10 cents for all other containers.

The proposition generally is supported by environmentalists as a means of reducing litter and conserving natural resources and generally is opposed by beverage producers and container manufacturers on the grounds that it will increase prices, reduce consumption and decrease the production and jobs of manufacturers.

If the proposal is approved by Michigan voters next month, it will not go into effect until two years after it becomes law.

Following is the full text of Proposal A and a reproduction of the way the proposition will appear on the ballot in November.

Sec. 1. As used in this act:

(a) "Beverage" means a soft drink, soda water, carbonated natural or mineral water, or other nonalcoholic carbonated drink; beer, ale, or other malt drink of whatever alcoholic content.

(b) "Beverage container" means an airtight metal, glass, paper, or plastic container, or a container composed of a combination of these materials, which, at the time of sale, contains 1 gallon or less of a beverage.

(c) "Returnable container" means a beverage container upon which a deposit of at least 10 cents has been paid, or is required to be paid upon the removal of the container from the sale or consumption area, and for which a refund of at least 10 cents in cash is payable by every dealer or distributor in this state of that beverage in beverage containers, as further provided in section 2. A beverage container certified as provided in section 3 shall also be deemed a returnable container if the deposit is at least 5 cents, and the requirements of the preceding sentence are met in all other respects.

(d) "Nonreturnable container" means a beverage container upon which no deposit or a deposit of less than 10 cents has been paid, or is required to be paid upon the removal of the container from the sale or consumption area, or for which no cash refund or a refund of less than 10 cents is payable by a dealer or distributor in this state of that beverage in beverage containers, as further provided in section 2. A beverage container certified as provided in section 3 shall not be deemed a nonreturnable beverage container if the deposit is at least 5 cents, and the requirements of the first sentence of subdivision (c) of this section are met in all other respects.

(e) "Person" means an individual, partnership, corporation, association, or other legal entity.

(f) "Dealer" means a person who sells or offers for sale to consumers within this state a beverage in a beverage container, including an operator of a vending machine containing a beverage in a beverage container.

(g) "Operator" of a vending machine means equally its owner, the person who refills it, and the owner or lessee of the property upon which it is located.

(h) "Distributor" means a person who sells beverages in beverage containers to a dealer, within this state, and includes a manufacturer who engages in such sales.

(i) "Manufacturer" means a person who bottles, cans, or otherwise places beverages in beverage containers for sale to distributors, dealers, or consumers.

(j) "Within this state" means within the exterior limits of the state of Michigan, and includes the territory within these limits owned by or ceded to the United States of America.

(k) "Commission" means the Michigan liquor control commission.

(l) "Sale or consumption area" means the premises within the property of the dealer or of his lessor where the sale is made, within which beverages in returnable containers may be consumed without payment of a deposit, and, upon removing a beverage container from which, the customer is required by the dealer to pay the deposit.

Sec. 2. (1) A dealer shall not, within this state, sell, offer for sale, or give to consumers a nonreturnable container or a beverage in a nonreturnable container.

(2) A dealer who regularly sells beverages for consumption off his premises shall provide on his premises, or within 100 yards of the premises on which he sells for sale a beverage in a returnable container, a convenient means whereby the containers of any kind, size, and brand sold or offered for sale by him may be returned by, and the deposit refunded in cash to, a person whether or not the person is the original customer of that dealer, and whether or not the container was sold by that dealer.

(3) Regional centers for redemption of returnable containers may be established in addition to, but not as substitutes for, means for refund of deposits in accordance with subsection (2).

(4) A dealer shall not refuse to accept from a person an empty returnable container of any kind, size, and brand sold by that dealer, nor refuse to pay to the person its full refund value in cash, except as provided in subsections (5) and (7).

(5) A dealer who does not require a deposit on a returnable container when the contents are consumed in the dealer's sale or consumption area shall not be required to pay a refund for accepting that empty container.

(6) A distributor shall not refuse to accept from a dealer an empty returnable container of any kind, size, and brand sold by that distributor, nor refuse to pay to the dealer its full refund value in cash, except as provided in subsection (7).

(7) Every beverage container sold or offered for sale by a dealer within this state shall clearly indicate by embossing or by a stamp, or by a label or other method securely affixed to the beverage container, the refund value of the container and the name of this state. A dealer or distributor may, but is not required to refuse to accept from a person an empty returnable container which does not state thereon the refund value of the container and the name of this state.

(8) A dealer within this state shall not sell, offer for sale, or give to consumers a metal beverage container, any part of which becomes detached when opened.

Sec. 3. (1) To promote the use in this state of reusable beverage containers of uniform design, and to facilitate the return of containers to manufacturers for reuse as a beverage container, the commission shall certify beverage containers which satisfy the requirements of this section.

(2) A beverage container shall be certified if:

(a) It is reusable as a beverage container by more than 1 manufacturer in the ordinary course of business.

(b) More than 1 manufacturer will in the ordinary course of business accept the beverage container for reuse as a beverage container and pay the refund value of the container.

(3) The commission shall not certify more than 1 beverage container of a particular manufacturer in each size classification. The commission shall by rule establish appropriate size classifications in accordance with the purposes set forth in subsection (1), each of which shall include a size range of at least 3 liquid ounces.

(4) A beverage container shall not be certified under this section:

(a) If by reason of its shape or design, or by reason of words or symbols permanently inscribed thereon, whether by engraving, embossing, painting, or other permanent method, it is reusable as a beverage container in the ordinary course of business only by a manufacturer of a beverage sold under a specific brand name.

(b) If the commission finds that its use by more than 1 manufacturer is not of sufficient volume to promote the purposes set forth in subsection (1).

(5) Unless an application for certification under this section is denied by the commission within 60 days after the application is filed, the beverage container shall be deemed certified.

(6) The commission may at any time review certification of a beverage container. If, upon the review, after written notice and hearing afforded to the person who filed the original application for certification of the beverage container under this section, the commission determines that the beverage container is no longer qualified for certification, it shall withdraw certification. Withdrawal of certification shall be effective on a date specified by the commission, but not less than 30 days after written notice to the person who filed the original application for certification of the beverage container under this section, and to the manufacturer referred to in subsection (2).

Sec. 4. A dealer, distributor, or manufacturer who violates this act shall be fined not less than $100.00 nor more than $1,000.00 and costs of prosecution. Every day a violation occurs is a separate offense.

Sec. 5. Act No. 142 of the Public Acts of 1971, being section 445.191 of the Compiled Laws of 1970, is repealed.

Sec. 6. This act shall take effect two years after it becomes law.

ANDASTE IN EARLIER YEARS: The Andaste, which disappeared in a September storm in 1929 after leaving Grand Haven, is seen as a "straightback" plowing up the St. Mary's river at Sault Ste Marie. She carried ore and grain.

Tragic Sinking Of Andaste Recounted

By GEORGE VARGO

The story of misery, anxiety, suffering, loss and damage caused on the Great Lakes can never be completely told. Usually a storm on the lakes is nothing to deter the crews of the big lake freighters.

True, storms are not welcomed, but schedules must be maintained and the ships must plow through the heavy seas, seeking shelter only when extreme danger threatens.

Even after she disappeared on the night of September 9, 1929, to this day sailors talk of her. I met a man last week in St. Joseph who was a member of her crew. Viewed from any angle she was a working ship, and could never pass for a beauty. The Andaste was launched from the yard of the Cleveland Shipbuilding Company in 1892. She was a

"Straightback" ship with none of the sheer of the larger freighters.

The ship has a flat deck with hatches almost flush with the plating. Her sides sloped above the waterline. She was 266 feet long with a gross tonnage of 1,573. She had a cargo capacity of 3,000 tons and seven hatches for loading and unloading. Coal, iron ore, and grain hauling were the lot of the Andaste for a good many years. Then pig iron was hauled by the ship, but by 1920 the pig iron volume had dwindled.

In 1921, she was brought to the Great Lakes Engineering Company at River Rouge and was shortened by 24 feet. Her new over-all length would permit her to use the Welland canal to haul grain from lower lake ports to Montreal. For five years she was in this trade.

In 1925 she was sold to Leatham D. Smith, a shipyard owner, quarry operator, and the father of the self-unloaders, at Sturgeon Bay, Wisconsin.

Smith was the designer and inventor of the self-unloader now used on those big ships which bring limestone and salt to the local docks. It is one of the most efficient pieces of

In 1928, the Andaste was chartered out to the Construction Materials Company of Chicago. They, under the terms of the charter, took over as managers and operators.

The Andaste's function was to supply their yard, up the Calumet river in South Chicago, with a continuous supply of sand, gravel and crushed stone, bound between the harbor piers at 9:03 p.m. He watched her gradually fade from sight on her normal west-southwest course. It is recorded fact, however, that from the time of the Coast Guard's last sighting, the Andaste was never seen again! She just disappeared. . . utterly and completely. Many of the natives sailed from here on different ships, car ferries and tankers. The ship carried 25 men on her last leg. It sometimes carried 28 to 30 men. By a quirk, two wheelmen had some business to do uptown and postponed the trip.

On the afternoon of September 9, 1929, the Andaste was at Ferrysburg, Michigan, on the Grand River directly north of Grand Haven, taking on a load of gravel. While the shore staff of the Construction Materials Company directed streams of two-inch gravel down the loading spouts into the ship's holds, the crew of the Andaste were pretty much scattered uptown.

On the other hand, a 14-year-old lad, but big for his age, was shipping out for the first time. The last time they saw him was when he was peeling potatoes in the galley. "He seemed happy," said one of the men on the deck.

A sudden shift of the wind, followed by a severe northwest gale, developed after the Andaste had departed the piers, far too late to warn her by posting the gale-warning signals at the Coast Guard station.

The same thing happened to the Chicora in another fall storm because Captain Stines already had departed in that gale of that night.

The night watch at the Coast Guard station at Holland reported the lights of a ship between two and four a.m. but saw no flares or signals of distress. Also, cottagers along the shore of the lake reported a ship between the same hours.

Former seamen said the Andaste always had trouble recruiting a full crew. "She used to pitch and roll so much," one said, "that it was hard to get a crew for her. Seaworthy and all that, but still the boys were afraid of her. There's another thing about that boat. She used to shift her cargo. That means that when she rolled about, the gravel or stone would shift to one side. Many times the crew would have to do down and trim the cargo."

The Grand Haven Tribune had concluded the ship was lost and announced it with a Thursday afternoon headline: "Andaste Given Up For Lost." Later that day, the paper published an extra with even more sensational banner head: "Andaste Wreckage Is Found Today!"

While yachts from Chicago and Coast Guards scoured the lake, the grim news resulted from a trip to his nets by a commercial fisherman. Captain George Van Hall had gone to lift his nets off Holland and encountered a vast floating field of wreckage, some entwined in his nets.

It was a sad event in Grand Haven of September 1929. Meteorologist Heyer testified to weather conditions that night. The northwest storm warning arrived two hours after she left port, he said. The barometer had registered 29.04 at nine p.m. on Monday, the ninth, indicating a storm.

Another Vargo Saga

EDITOR'S NOTE: George Vargo, a Great Lakes historian and former sailor, 1499 Jennings, Benton Harbor, tells in this account of the disappearance of the gravel-hauler, the Andaste, in a September storm that swooped down Lake Michigan after she had departed Grand Haven in 1929.

machinery used by shipping companies today. It saves time in ports.

obtained at different ports including Mr. Smith's quarry dock at Sturgeon Bay.

Buchanan GOP Meeting

BUCHANAN — The Buchanan Republican club has scheduled a meeting for 8 tonight, in the high school. Joseph Garbert II, city mayor, who is chairman of the club, said the purpose of the meeting is to organize and plan for the staffing of the Republican headquarters, located in the old bank building at the corner of Front and Main streets.

SMC Chairman Re-Elected

DOWAGIAC — Dr. Fred L. Mathews, Dowagiac optometrist and chairman of Southwestern Michigan College's board of trustees, has been re-elected to the board of directors of the national Association of Community College Trustees.

Dr. Mathews was re-elected to the post during the group's annual meeting in St. Louis, Mo., last week. The Washington D.C.-based association represents 500 colleges throughout the U.S.

Carter Aide In Decatur

DECATUR — Bobby Smith, chairman of the National Carter-Mondale committee for food and agriculture, will meet with farmers and others interested in food production here tonight.

The meeting will be held at the Decatur town hall, beginning at 8 p.m. He is also scheduled to hold a similar meeting at 4:30 p.m. today at Democratic headquarters in Niles, US-31 South. Richard Grabemeyer, Dowagiac, said Smith will be seeking comments and suggestions about agricultural policies for the Democratic presidential and vice-presidential candidates.

Bangor Starting Big Fund Drive

BANGOR — Bangor's United Charities drive has launched its 1976 fund raising effort.

Goal for the campaign this year is $8,400, the same amount raised by last year's effort, drive officials announced.

Chairman for the campaign is Allan Bregger of Bangor. Bregger, 45, was vice chairman of last year's effort.

Solicitations for funds are scheduled to get underway next week, following announcement of the drive this week, Bregger said. He said it is hoped all group solicitations will be completed by Saturday, Oct. 23.

A wrap-up door-to-door canvass will be conducted by campaign workers on Thursday, Oct. 28.

Group chairmen this year are John Rathbun, professional group, city employees and major businesses; Pete Waite, local retail businesses; Dave Walton, industry and out of town businesses, and Mrs. David (Elaine) deBest, rural areas including parts of Arlington, Bangor, Columbia and Geneva townships.

Teacher Talks Halted

WOODHAVEN, Mich. (AP) — A state mediator has called a halt to negotiations in the Michigan's lone teachers' strike. Thomas Badoud, the state mediator in the two-week-old walkout, said he ended the talks between the Woodhaven Education Association and the Woodhaven School Board because there wasn't enough movement to warrant further mediation. Officials on both sides of the bargaining table agreed there was no point in continuing negotiations. The Michigan Education Association reports that 214 of the state's 517 public school districts still are without signed contracts, but says Woodhaven is the only district where teachers are withholding their services.

DISPOSABLE BAN: Here's how Proposal A — the proposed ban on disposable bottles and cans — will appear on ballot in Michigan's general election Nov. 2.

NEW MAXIMUM EARNINGS BASE $16,500

Social Security Going Up For Millions

WASHINGTON (AP) — Nineteen million Americans who earn more than $15,300 annually will have to pay up to $70.20 more in Social Security taxes next year. The maximum earnings subject to the tax is going up to $16,500.

That will raise a person's maximum Social Security tax from $895.05 this year to $965.25 next year. An estimated 19 million workers will earn more than $15,300 next year, and, of that group, 16 million will earn $16,500 or more.

The maximum Social Security tax on the self-employed will rise to $1,303.50 next year. It is now $1,208.70.

The higher rates go into effect Jan. 1.

Meanwhile, the government had good news for retirees. About 1.3 million Social Security retirees will be able to earn $3,000 next year without reducing the size of their Social Security checks. The limit this year is $2,700.

After earning $3,000, they then will lose $1 in Social Security benefits for every $2 in outside income. Their Social Security checks will not be reduced in any month in which outside earnings do not exceed $250, however.

Social Security Commissioner James B. Cardwell said the increase was required by law to keep pace with the rise in average wages. The increase in tax revenue can occur only after a year in which there was an automatic increase in Social Security benefits. Benefits rose 6.4 per cent earlier this year.

The Social Security tax rate of 5.65 per cent each on employees and employers will not change next year. That means a person earning less than $15,300 this year and next year will not be affected by the higher wage base.

"In return for the increase in taxes," Cardwell said, "these affected workers will have greater protection because a larger amount of their earnings will be credited toward benefits than before."

The new tax is not a long-term remedy to the financial problems of the Social Security system, which officials say faces long-term insolvency under the present setup.

The system began running an operating deficit in recent years as a result of high unemployment and inflation and higher cost-of-living benefits triggered by the automatic formulas.

For example, benefits this year will exceed income by $4.3 billion, the officials estimate, meaning that the system's reserves will be eroded over a period of time.

Now, a declining birth rate means there will be fewer people to bear the burden of Social Security taxes toward the end of the century, at a time when the number of retired beneficiaries will exceed the 32 million persons now drawing benefits.

Proposed long-term solutions call for diverting general tax revenues to the Social Security system or for amending the cost-of-living formula to avoid major jumps in benefits.

The maximum Social Security tax was just $30 a year between 1937 and 1949 and then climbed slowly to $174 in 1963. With the advent of Medicare for the aged and, more recently, for the disabled, the maximum tax shot up to $277.20 in 1966.

Since then, the maximum tax has increased to $290.40 in 1967, $343.20 in 1968, $374.40 in 1969 and 1970, $405.60 in 1971, $468 in 1972, $631.80 in 1973, $772.20 in 1974, $824.85 in 1975 and $895.05 this year.

Will 'Zipelope' End Snarl In Postal Service?

By MARK HEGLIN
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — Results of a college sociology experiment may convince the U.S. Postal Service to enter the Zipelope era.

The Zipelope is a paper envelope with 162 small boxes printed on its face. Frederick Staup, a Fort Lauderdale, Fla. inventor, created it as part of a 15-invention system he claims will save the federal government and taxpayers millions of dollars.

A University of Michigan-Dearborn sociology class is sending about 600 questionnaires in the envelopes to gauge public acceptance of the new product.

To mail a Zipelope letter, destination and return addresses must be printed or typed into printed boxes.

The Zip postal code is checked off in another set of prenumbered boxes on the envelope's face.

In combination with his other inventions, Staup says, the Zipelope will bring a reduction in lost mail, an increase in delivery service, elimination of change of address mail, faster sorting and the end of letter bombs.

But he said he won't reveal yet how the total package works, pending approval of his patent request.

The U-M students will mail the Zipeloped-questionnaires to Detroit-area residents, questioning them about the new envelopes. Results will be returned by Zipelope.

Before the project could be launched, Staup had to have Post Office approval for the design of the Zipelope. Richard Jones, manager for mailing regulations and services in Detroit, gave the okay.

"It was acceptable for mailing," Jones explained. "It didn't violate any rules."

Jones said the request itself was not unusual. He admitted, though, that Staup is "taking in a lot of territory" with his system.

"I think it's kind of hard to regiment people to filling in little boxes," Jones continued. "But remember, a lot of ideas that seemed absurd at first worked."

Several office supply stores in the Detroit area already sell Zipelopes.

Positive results in the Detroit experiment, Staup feels, will help him sell the package to the Postal Service. He said Washington, D.C., postal officials already have indicated they like the idea.

Unwed Couple Arraigned In Rape, Death Of Girl, 3

TAYLOR, Mich. (AP) — An unmarried Taylor couple was arraigned Wednesday on rape and murder charges in the death of the woman's 3-year-old daughter after the man and the woman reported the little girl kidnapped.

The body of Josett Smith was found Wednesday stuffed in a plastic bag inside a picnic cooler behind her home in this Detroit suburb.

Discovery of the body came hours after the girl's mother, Scarlet Smith, 21, and Eugene Pillette, 21, told Detroit police the child had disappeared from their car in a K-Mart parking lot on Detroit's northwest side.

A massive hunt for the girl was launched by police in Detroit and Taylor.

"We were just about all set to go on the air with it on TV and in the newspapers as a kidnapping case asking for help from the public when two of our officers raised some questions," said Lt. Henry Bone of the armed robbery section.

"Detectives Michael Dowd and Donald Wood said, 'Hey, there is something wrong here' and they went to work on the case anew," said Bone.

Dowd reportedly spotted holes in the stories told by the mother, Pillette and some companions. Police finally drew from the mother an admission that her daughter was dead.

Police obtained a search warrant at 2 a.m. Wednesday and found the body within a few minutes.

An autopsy showed the girl died from a severe beating and that she had been raped more than one time.

Investigators said the couple gave no motive for the slaying. They were remanded to the Taylor city jail pending an examination in Taylor municipal court Monday.

Pillette was described as a striking worker at the Ford Motor Co. Rouge plant in Dearborn. Miss Smith, who is on ADC, is pregnant, police said.

Swine Flu Program Launched In State

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's swine flu immunization campaign will be launched today in suburban Detroit as public health officials mobilize to administer some 4.2 million shots in two months.

Dr. Maurice Reizen, state health director, said Wednesday he expects everyone eligible to be vaccinated will have had the chance by early December.

The first shots will be given this afternoon to about 1,000 members of four senior citizen groups in Southfield, but state health officials say the program won't be in full swing until Oct. 18.

County health departments will run the clinics and will make local announcements of when and where vaccinations are available, Reizen said.

The doses are free, thanks to a $135 million investment by the federal government, though individual physicians may charge a service fee to those who choose not to go to the public clinics.

John Orris, statewide coordinator of the campaign, said the state has received about 900,000 doses of its 4.2 million dose allotment. He said every county in the state should have some vaccine by Friday.

Michigan is scheduled to have enough vaccine for 70 per cent of those eligible for the voluntary shots. Orris said he doesn't expect any trouble getting more vaccine if it's needed.

Reizen said the sometimes controversial vaccine has produced no greater split in the medical community than has any other new immunization plan. He said he intends to get the shot.

"It would be unfortunate if suffering and death did result from an epidemic, when the means are at hand to protect the citizens of Michigan," he said.

He said tests of the swine flu vaccine on 5,200 persons showed only three per cent had side effects. Some persons might develop a red or sore arm within 12 hours of the vaccination. The effects should be gone within two days, he said.

The immunization program actually involves two vaccines — one for the general public aged 18 to 60 and another for all persons over 60 and those over age 3 who have a chronic illness such as heart, kidney or pulmonary disease or diabetes.

Those in the "highrisk" category will receive two vaccines in one shot, aimed at both swine flu and Victoria flu, a prevalent flu strain in Michigan last winter and spring. The general public will receive a swine flu-only vaccine.

Scientists have not yet settled on a proper dosage for healthy persons aged 3 to 18, and they will not be given the vaccine now being used. Reizen said further word on a vaccine for those persons is expected later this month.

Reizen said the only persons who should not get shots are those allergic to eggs — the virus used in the vaccine is grown in eggs. A physician should be consulted in such cases. He also advised the temporarily ill to postpone their vaccinations.

Officials Seeking Clues In Crash Of Cuban Jet

BRIDGETOWN, Barbados (AP) — Search vessels are seeking clues to the cause of an explosion which ripped through a Cuban DC8 airliner shortly before it plunged into the ocean, killing all 78 persons aboard.

The Cubana Airlines plane had just taken off from Bridgetown on Wednesday when the pilot reported the explosion. He attempted to return to the airport, but crashed 11 miles from the Caribbean resort island. Some officials speculated that sabotage could have been involved.

Barbados coast guard launches, Bridgetown port tugs and an armada of pleasure craft sped to the scene of the crash but found no survivors. No Americans were believed to have been aboard the plane.

"There were badly mangled bodies bobbing in the water" along with pieces of the smashed aircraft, one witness said.

A tugboat crewman said searchers had not yet recovered the Cuban airliner's electronic black box, which automatically records flight data and would be important in helping to reconstruct the crash.

An official of Cubana, the Cuban national airline, said after the crash that the jet, leased by Cubana from Air Canada, had been "in perfect condition" when it was checked last Sunday by a maintenance crew during a stopover in Montreal.

Orlando Frigolla, the Cuban airline's general manager in Montreal, said sabotage could have been involved in the crash, although he did not specify who might be responsible.

"The pilot reported he heard an explosion and said it was an emergency, then he crashed," Frigolla said. "It would be possible that it was sabotage."

Another Cubana airliner was the target of a sabotage attempt last July at Kingston, Jamaica, where a bomb exploded on the ground among baggage waiting to be stowed aboard the plane. An anti-Castro organization of Cuban exiles claimed responsibility.

Wednesday's crash occurred shortly after the four-engine DC8 took off from Bridgetown on a flight to Jamaica and Cuba. The flight had originated at Georgetown, Guyana, with a stop at Port-of-Spain, Trinidad.

Carol Lencki, a spokeswoman for the Federal Aviation Administration in Atlanta, said the plane "was 30 miles out of Barbados, about 1,400 miles southeast of Miami, when the pilot reported an explosion in flight. He attempted to return to Barbados and ditched in water 11 miles southwest of Barbados at about 2:30 p.m. EDT."

Keith Foster, program manager of Radio Barbados and a witness to the crash, said the plane "appeared to go out of control and was streaming smoke from its tail section as it fell from the sky."

Radio Havana acknowledged the loss of the airliner in a broadcast at 12:50 a.m. EDT, more than 10 hours after the crash. The broadcast said the pilot had reported an explosion aboard the plane, but it did not mention whether sabotage was suspected.

British West Indies Airlines, local agents for Cubana, said the plane carried 78 persons: 58

Cubans, 25 of them Cubana employees including the crew; 11 Guyanese; 5 North Koreans; 2 Trinidadians; and one person each from Colombia and Venezuela.

Ask Your Dentist

By ALFRED E. SEYLER, D.D.S.

Q. My dentist has referred me to a specialist who fills the root canals of teeth. I'm an electrical engineer — and also inquisitive! Can you tell me how root canals are filled?

Q1.

A. I trust my dental friends will not mind if I give you an abbreviated course in endodontics! Endodontics is that branch of dentistry which deals with the cause, diagnosis, prevention and treatment of diseases of the pulp of the tooth (commonly called the nerve), usually by removal of the nerve and other tissue of the pulp cavity and root canal of a tooth and its replacement by a suitable filling material. An endodontist is a specialist in such procedures.

Before the root canal of a tooth is filled, it is cleaned thoroughly with instruments and drugs. (An opening is made, for example, in the back of a front tooth, through which the instruments and drugs are placed in the canal). Usually the sterility and cleanliness of the canal are verified by taking a "sample" of the inside of the canal on a tiny paper or cotton point, which is cultured in a special oven called an incubator.

A root canal may be filled after it is determined to be sterile, using a silver point or gutta percha points which are sealed into the canal with a medicated paste. Gutta percha is very much like rubber and when it is softened with a heated instrument it can be condensed against the insides of the canal to hermetically seal the canal.

Sometimes chloroform is used to soften the surface of the small gutta percha points so that they can be better adapted to the surface of the canal when pressure is applied.

The instrument used to force the gutta percha points against the sides of the canal is called a spreader, and by its use as many as 10 or 12 points can be packed into the root canal, thus thoroughly sealing it against seepage and future infection.

Pulp canal filling using precise techniques and clean, sterile procedures have saved thousands of teeth which otherwise would have been extracted. Pulpless teeth — which is proper terminology instead of "dead teeth" — can serve a patient for many years. They can be crowned with plastic, porcelain or gold or a combination of those materials and can be used as abutments or anchors for fixed or removable bridges.

The procedures I have described for you are those most generally used by endodontists, but other techniques are used by many dentists who prefer to use a singular, less involved procedure.

Perhaps I should have advised you that radiographs (X-rays) must be used during any pulp canal filling procedure and especially at frequent intervals after the operation to check on the post-operative healing around the treated tooth.

Americans everywhere are trying harder than ever before to improve themselves and to get more out of life. Banks report the average mortgage life is barely six years. A residential street turns over every fourteen years. A commercial street, downtown, turns over every ten years. On top of this, the population of the country continues to rise, and to shift. No wonder the real estate market is both exciting and contradictory. Obviously, it takes an expert, like us, to know how to handle it to the best advantage.

Mexican Prison Reform Gives Young Yanks Hope

By KERNAN TURNER
Associated Press Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) —

Hundreds of young Americans soon will be released from Mexican jails as the result of initiatives taken by President Luis Echeverria to further prison reforms his administration set in motion six years ago.

Just two days before American prisoners went on a hunger strike last month, Echeverria announced he had sent legislation to the Mexican Congress which would give drug violators the right of parole and would amend the constitution to make it possible to sign prisoner exchange agreements with other countries.

The hunger strike fizzled as prisoners began counting the days until they would be eligible for parole.

An estimated 100 out of 572 jailed Americans quit eating for 36 hours, but strike organizers called an end to the protest after praising the Mexican government and accusing the U.S. State Department of delaying its response to a Mexican prisoner-exchange proposal.

The prisoners were elated at the prospect of early release from their jail terms, which average about six years. Their hopes have risen even more since U.S. and Mexican negotiators met after the strike and announced they had set November as a target date for reaching agreement on a draft treaty.

The treaty would allow Mexicans in American jails, about 2,000 of them, and Americans in Mexican prisons, to serve their sentences in their home countries.

Americans have been winding up in Mexican jails ever since Operation Intercept, a U.S.-financed campaign against the smuggling of drugs into the United States, began in 1969. Many of the Americans were arrested at the Mexico City airport and charged with possessing cocaine as they arrived from Colombia or other South American countries.

They have complained repeatedly of alleged torture, forced confessions and other civil rights violations when they were arrested. The U.S. State Department said an investigation after a 1974 hunger strike confirmed 250 prisoner complaints.

Dr. Sergio Garcia Ramirez, undersecretary of government and head of the federal prison system, appears to be the force behind the reforms, which include a major prison construction program.

He is an international prison reform advocate and is one of the 15 members of a United Nations committee of experts on prevention of crime and treatment of delinquents.

Garcia Ramirez said in a recent interview that Mexico has invested $104 million in new facilities since Echeverria took office in 1970.

"Mexico's reform measures are based on the concept that what is accomplished through imprisonment is in no way the exercise of vengeance — an idea which would be archaic today — nor is it the pure and simple detention of delinquents. Rather it is the concept of social rehabilitation," he said.

Echeverria's administration pushed laws through Congress establishing minimum norms for the social rehabilitation of convicts, creating a tutelary council for juvenile offenders and amending the penal code and the penal procedure code.

Besides laws and buildings, the administration established the National Institute of Penal Sciences.

Perhaps the most symbolic act was the closing of Lecumberri Prison, the holding tank for prisoners being processed to regular institutions. It was popularly known as the "black palace" because of its fortress-like architecture and dehumanizing living conditions.

"In Mexico City, we have put an end to the grim tradition represented since the time of the dictatorship (of Don Porfirio Diaz) by the old Lecumberri Prison," Echeverria told Congress. "In closing it down, we have put an end to a long history of injustices and affronts to human dignity."

More than 40 Americans were imprisoned in Lecumberri. They and more than 1,000 Mexican inmates have been transferred to two modern penitentiaries which resemble college campuses.

Two more identical prisons are being constructed in the capital, and more than 40 smaller versions based on the same architectural style have been built or are under construction in other Mexican cities.

The inmates live in two-story dormitories, with cells facing sunshine and green lawns. Each dormitory has its own dining room.

The prisoners circulate freely within each dormitory, have regular visiting hours and move about the entire prison on work details, where they can earn one day off their sentences for every two days of labor.

There are carpentry and artisan shops, agricultural projects, cement block factories, primary and secondary schools and other rehabilitation facilities. Each prison has a library and a large auditorium where professional entertainers perform.

The inmates are allowed one conjugal overnight visit a week with spouses or sweethearts in a private, motel-like room.

The same Americans who made charges of brutality upon arrest have praised the most recent reforms. Following the hunger strike, the organizers sent an open letter to the press, which said in part:

"These initiatives introduced by President Echeverria mark a profound and joyous beginning for what promises to be an intelligent and thorough reform in Mexican penal legislation..."

Mexican Prison Reform Gives Young Yanks Hope

By KERNAN TURNER
Associated Press Writer

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Hundreds of young Americans soon will be released from Mexican jails as the result of initiatives taken by President Luis Echeverria to further prison reforms his administration set in motion six years ago.

Just two days before American prisoners went on a hunger strike last month, Echeverria announced he had sent legislation to the Mexican Congress which would give drug violators the right of parole and would amend the constitution to make it possible to sign prisoner exchange agreements with other countries.

The hunger strike fizzled as prisoners began counting the days until they would be eligible for parole.

An estimated 100 out of 572 jailed Americans quit eating for 36 hours, but strike organizers called an end to the protest after praising the Mexican government and accusing the U.S. State Department of delaying its response to a Mexican prisoner-exchange proposal.

The prisoners were elated at the prospect of early release from their jail terms, which average about six years. Their hopes have risen even more since U.S. and Mexican negotiators met after the strike and announced they had set November as a target date for reaching agreement on a draft treaty.

GOVERNOR'S BACKING BIG PLUS

Carter's Riding High In Texas

By LEE JONES

Associated Press Writer

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — Gov. Dolph Briscoe, cattleman and banker, kept smiling as Mrs. Jimmy Carter told Texas reporters that her husband plans high taxes on the rich.

If those remarks bothered Briscoe, her husband and one of the wealthiest men in Texas, he didn't show it.

Briscoe's devotion to Jimmy Carter's cause also has weathered the candidate's cutting comments about Lyndon Johnson in a Playboy magazine interview. The governor's support is a big plus for Carter's quest of Texas' 26 electoral votes.

Texas aren't used to seeing their conservative Democratic governors campaign enthusiastically for Democratic presidential candidates. Since the 1940s, Texas governors generally have been lukewarm toward the national tickets or preoccupied with state politics.

And no presidential candidate can take Texas for granted. It went for Dwight D. Eisenhower in 1952 and 1956, narrowly for John F. Kennedy in 1960 and Hubert H. Humphrey in 1968 and for Richard M. Nixon in 1972. The only Democrat to carry Texas by a landslide since 1948 was native son Lyndon B. Johnson in 1964.

As chairman of Carter's steering committee, Briscoe is trying to out-campaign one of Texas' most popular governors of the past: John Connally. Connally is chairman of the President Ford Committee in Texas. Connally recognizes that Briscoe's support gives Carter a running start.

"I just am prayerful he (Briscoe) won't do all he possibly can," Connally said.

The two are old friends, and some of Connally's first campaign for governor in 1962 was planned at Briscoe's ranch in south Texas.

Connally still commands a large following of conservative Democrats despite his conversion to Republicanism in 1973 and has brought many of them together as "Texans for Ford."

He acknowledged when he accepted President Ford's request to run the Texas campaign that it would be uphill.

The President Ford Committee's latest poll shows that still is the case, says Doug Lewis, who manages the campaign's day-to-day affairs.

"We are behind but we are in striking distance. I'd like to have a poll showing (the results of) Carter's gaffes," Lewis said. Carter has spent much time explaining that he didn't intend to accuse LBJ in the Playboy interview of "lying, cheating and distorting the truth."

"Giving John Connally an issue like that is like giving a Stradivarius to Jascha Heifetz," said Dallasite Robert Strauss, Democratic national chairman. But a co-chairman of the Carter campaign in Texas, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, minimizes the effect of the interview on voters.

"They are just not going to vote Republican because of that. The people who did revere Johnson are people who need to have a Democrat in office. I'm talking about poor people, people who need an education to get on their feet," Armstrong said. What are the issues in Texas? To the Republicans, they begin with the Democratic ticket's "liberalism." Disdain edges Connally's voice when he proclaims that Carter "chose as his running mate (Walter Mondale) probably the most liberal member of the U.S. Senate."

Briscoe, whose popularity derives largely from his "no new taxes" policy, perceives Carter — a personal friend — as a fellow conservative with no real commitment to the Democratic platform.

"I don't think anybody after November is going to be reading the Democratic platform," he says. But platforms are a big part of Ford's Texas campaign. The President's written commitment to the GOP platform is important to the disappointed backers of Ronald Reagan.

"Carter is calling in the platform for horizontal and vertical divestiture of energy companies. That's going to be a disaster for him. He is talking about destroying the economic base of Texas," Lewis says.

The Democratic platform, which Carter has basically supported in his public statements, does call for the prohibition of companies owning more than one form of energy, i.e., horizontal ownership. But the platform says vertical ownership — controlling everything from the oil well to the gas pump — should be prohibited only if it causes a lack of competition. Carter has said a wholesale breakup of the oil industry would be counterproductive.

Republican campaigners are saying that divestiture would reduce drilling and cut, so deeply into Texas' $793 million annual revenue from oil and gas production taxes that a state income tax would be needed for the first time.

Harris County (Houston) Republican Chairman Ray Barnhart, who led Reagan's victorious campaign in the presidential primary, is working for Ford and was aboard the Natchez riverboat cruise with the President in Louisiana Sept. 25. The GOP chairman recently mailed 10,000 copies of a pamphlet comparing the Republican and Democratic platforms.

Republican leaders say federal limits on campaign spending made it crucial that the Reaganites forge ties with Ford. "I couldn't name you three who are not working actively for the entire Republican ticket," said Barnhart, who emphasized that the platform has brought the party together.

Armstrong said platforms are meaningless.

As for breaking up the oil companies, Armstrong says that most Texans are consumers of oil and gas and are more interested in gasoline and utility prices than in how production and distribution are organized.

And Texas conservatives, he said, should be impressed with Carter's call for governmental reorganization and budgetary restraint. "A balanced budget — that sounds like pretty good fiscal conservatism. I can't remember ever hearing Kennedy or McGovern say: 'I will balance the budget.'" Armstrong said.

FROM DETROIT

North Central Wins New Boston Route

MINNEAPOLIS-ST. PAUL — North Central Airlines has been awarded a new Detroit-Boston nonstop route by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The airline hopes to begin scheduled service on the 632-mile route before the end of this year, according to President Bernard Sweet.

"The Detroit-Boston market is the largest in the nation with nonstop flights offered by only one carrier," Sweet said.

North Central is initially scheduling eight flights daily with DC-9 fanjets. Each Detroit-Boston nonstop will originate or terminate in cities west of Detroit: Milwaukee, South Bend, and Kalamazoo — Battle Creek, Grand Rapids, Lansing and Saginaw — Bay City — Midland will have single-plane service for the first time.

Twenty other cities, principally in Wisconsin and Michigan, will receive same-carrier connection service to the Massachusetts capital.

Flying time from Detroit to Boston is approximately one hour and 35 minutes.

The company is receiving two additional 125-passenger Series 50 DC-9s this year, and has exercised an option to purchase three more of these jets with the wide-body look in 1977. With the five new jets, North Central's 54-aircraft fleet will include 29 DC-9s and 25 Convair 580s.

In February of this year, a CAB administrative law judge recommended North Central for the Detroit-Boston route. He said this "vigorous" company would carry an estimated 110,000 passengers in the first year, generating $10 million in revenues and realizing an operating profit of $3.2 million.

With the addition of Boston, the airline serves 90 cities in 14 states and Canada over a 10,900-mile route system.

House Okays State Land Sales

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House has tentatively approved a compromise measure to let industrial and agricultural interests buy thousands of acres of northern Michigan public lands.

House lawmakers adopted a substitute version of a bill originally introduced by Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood. The measure would allow undeveloped public lands to be sold to industrial or agricultural interests.

But the compromise would require the state Department of Natural Resources to produce a land use plan separating land which could be purchased by industry or agriculture from land which could not be sold. The compromise is aimed at protecting prime recreation property.

The earlier Senate version failed to include clear language letting the DNR withhold certain lands. Environmentalists predicted the result would be the indiscriminate sale of wilderness land to mining companies and manufacturers.

Supporters said the House

substitute was a compromise forged between Mack, industry, environmentalists and the governor's office, which opposed Mack's original bill. The measure passed the Senate in May.

Money from the sale of the lands would be used for to purchase wetlands and recreational lands.

DNR spokesmen estimated a maximum 220,000 acres of public land in the northern Lower Peninsula and 250,000 acres in the Upper Peninsula could be eligible for sale.

The President Ford Committee's latest poll shows that still is the case, says Doug Lewis, who manages the campaign's day-to-day affairs.

"We are behind but we are in striking distance. I'd like to have a poll showing (the results of) Carter's gaffes," Lewis said. Carter has spent much time explaining that he didn't intend to accuse LBJ in the Playboy interview of "lying, cheating and distorting the truth."

"Giving John Connally an issue like that is like giving a Stradivarius to Jascha Heifetz," said Dallasite Robert Strauss, Democratic national chairman.

But a co-chairman of the Carter campaign in Texas, Land Commissioner Bob Armstrong, minimizes the effect of the interview on voters.

"They are just not going to vote Republican because of that. The people who did revere Johnson are people who need to have a Democrat in office. I'm talking about poor people, people who need an education to get on their feet," Armstrong said.

What are the issues in Texas? To the Republicans, they begin with the Democratic ticket's "liberalism." Disdain edges Connally's voice when he proclaims that Carter "chose as his running mate (Walter Mondale) probably the most liberal member of the U.S. Senate."

Briscoe, whose popularity derives largely from his "no new taxes" policy, perceives Carter — a personal friend — as a fellow conservative with no real commitment to the Democratic platform.

"I don't think anybody after November is going to be reading the Democratic platform," he says.

But platforms are a big part of Ford's Texas campaign. The President's written commitment to the GOP platform is important to the disappointed backers of Ronald Reagan.

"Carter is calling in the platform for horizontal and vertical divestiture of energy companies. That's going to be a disaster for him. He is talking about destroying the economic base of Texas," Lewis says.

The Democratic platform, which Carter has basically supported in his public statements, does call for the prohibition of companies owning more than one form of energy, i.e., horizontal ownership. But the platform says vertical ownership — controlling everything from the oil well to the gas pump — should be prohibited only if it causes a lack of competition. Carter has said a wholesale breakup of the oil industry would be counterproductive.

Republican campaigners are saying that divestiture would reduce drilling and cut so deeply into Texas' $793 million annual revenue from oil and gas production taxes that a state income tax would be needed for the first time.

Harris County (Houston) Republican Chairman Ray Barnhart, who led Reagan's victorious campaign in the presidential primary, is working for Ford and was aboard the Natchez riverboat cruise with the President in Louisiana Sept. 25. The GOP chairman recently mailed 10,000 copies of a pamphlet comparing the Republican and Democratic platforms.

Republican leaders say federal limits on campaign spending made it crucial that the Reaganites forge ties with Ford. "I couldn't name you three who are not working actively for the entire Republican ticket," said Barnhart, who emphasized that the platform has brought the party together.

Armstrong said platforms are meaningless. As for breaking up the oil companies, Armstrong says that most Texans are consumers of oil and gas and are more interested in gasoline and utility prices than in how production and distribution are organized.

And Texas conservatives, he said, should be impressed with Carter's call for governmental reorganization and budgetary restraint. "A balanced budget — that sounds like pretty good fiscal conservatism. I can't

North Central Wins New Boston Route

MINNEAPOLIS—ST. PAUL — North Central Airlines has been awarded a new Detroit-Boston nonstop route by the Civil Aeronautics Board.

The airline hopes to begin scheduled service on the 632-mile route before the end of this year, according to President Bernard Sweet.

"The Detroit-Boston market is the largest in the nation with nonstop flights offered by only one carrier," Sweet said.

North Central is initially scheduling eight flights daily with DC-9 fanjets. Each Detroit-Boston nonstop will originate or terminate in cities west of Detroit: Milwaukee, South Bend, and Kalamazoo — Battle Creek, Grand Rapids, Lansing and Saginaw — Bay City — Midland will have single-plane service for the first time.

Twenty other cities, principally in Wisconsin and Michigan, will receive same-carrier connection service to the Massachusetts capital.

Flying time from Detroit to Boston is approximately one hour and 35 minutes.

The company is receiving two additional 125-passenger Series 50 DC-9s this year, and has exercised an option to purchase three more of these jets with the wide-body look in 1977. With the five new jets, North Central's 54-aircraft fleet will include 29 DC-9s and 25 Convair 580s.

In February of this year, a CAB administrative law judge recommended North Central for the Detroit-Boston route. He said this "vigorous" company would carry an estimated 110,000 passengers in the first year, generating $10 million in revenues and realizing an operating profit of $3.2 million.

With the addition of Boston, the airline serves 90 cities in 14 states and Canada over a 10,900-mile route system.

House Okays State Land Sales

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House has tentatively approved a compromise measure to let industrial and agricultural interests buy thousands of acres of northern Michigan public lands.

House lawmakers adopted a substitute version of a bill originally introduced by Sen. Joseph Mack, D-Ironwood. The measure would allow undeveloped public lands to be sold to industrial or agricultural interests.

But the compromise would require the state Department of Natural Resources to produce a land use plan separating land which could be purchased by industry or agriculture from land which could not be sold. The compromise is aimed at protecting prime recreation property.

The earlier Senate version failed to include clear language letting the DNR withhold certain lands. Environmentalists predicted the result would be the indiscriminate sale of wilderness land to mining companies and manufacturers. Supporters said the House substitute was a compromise forged between Mack, industry, environmentalists and the governor's office, which opposed Mack's original bill. The measure passed the Senate in May.

Money from the sale of the lands would be used for to purchase wetlands and recreational lands.

DNR spokesmen estimated a maximum 220,000 acres of public land in the northern Lower Peninsula and 250,000 acres in the Upper Peninsula could be eligible for sale.

ROMANIAN PALACE: Peles Palace, former summer home of royal family of Romania, is located at Sinaia, beautiful mountain resort known as "Pearl of the Carpathians."

Travelogue Will Explore Romania

The little-known Balkan country of Romania, with its spectacular scenery and fascinating folklore, is the next feature of the Twin City Camera club's Travel and Adventure series.

The program, titled

"Romance of Romania", will be presented Sunday at 2:30 p.m. and Monday and Tuesday at 8 p.m. All three showings are at the St. Joseph high school auditorium. The program will be presented by Jonathan Hagar.

The film on Romania is replacing an originally scheduled one on Poland, which Hagar was unable to complete in time for his appearance in St. Joseph due to trouble in getting into Poland.

The film presentation on Romania will include a stop at Bucharest, the capital city. There will be a look at a typical Romanian family at home, at work and at play.

Also included will be a visit to the world famous Ana Aslan Clinic, a widely respected 20th century fountain of youth where science and medicine are skillfully used to combat old age. The film will take viewers to the Black sea coast, through Transylvania and to Europe's richest wildlife sanctuary, the Danube Delta.

Hagar, who narrates the film, brings an extensive background

Million-Dollar Award

DETROIT (AP) — Two workmen have tentatively been awarded $1 million for injuries they suffered in separate accidents in a feeder tunnel for the giant Port Huron water tunnel project. The city of Detroit will pay $175,000 of the damage judgment and the rest will be paid by the Maryland Casualty Co., which represents the contractor, said Wayne County Circuit Judge John M. Wise, who supervised the award. The city's portion is subject to approval by the Water Board and the Detroit City Council. The two accidents occurred within a week of each other in December 1969, a water board attorney said. Garnett Cage, 60, suffered severe brain damage when struck in the head by a piece of equipment. Willie Preston, 45, sustained lung damage after his leg was fractured by a large chunk of clay and an ensuing blood clot traveled to his lungs. Both men are from Detroit.

ILLINOIS GOVERNOR RACE

Fresh Face Challenges Machine's Man

By AL MANNING

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (NEA) — The next governor of Illinois will either be a young, aggressive prosecutor or an experienced politician who looks and talks like his political ally, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

The early favorite is James R. Thompson, the fresh new face of Illinois politics.

The Democratic candidate is Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, a veteran office-holder who defeated the incumbent governor, Dan Walker in a vicious primary election.

Walker's defeat marked the picked up on that theme.

"One-man rule over the long haul produces political and governmental conditions which are not healthy," Thompson says.

Thompson, who lives in Chicago, was propelled into the governor's race on the basis of his impressive record as a U.S. attorney.

The Republican candidate has spent his summer shaking hands at county fairs and issuing white papers on governmental issues.

As a practical matter, the only issue which has attracted much attention is the state's precarious financial condition and the question of whether a tax increase will be necessary to fund education.

Neither candidate favors a tax increase.

"It would be irresponsible to even consider an increase in taxes so long as we're wasting or misusing current resources," Thompson says. "Budget savings are possible and, therefore, I do not foresee that a tax increase will be necessary."

He criticizes Howlett for promising voters too much, including a promise that he will not raise taxes. He adds:

"If Howlett is elected and keeps all of the promises he's made, then he'll bankrupt the state. If he doesn't keep his promises, he'll bankrupt politics."

Howlett's major theme has been his experience in government compared to his opponent's relative inexperience.

After a career in business, the 62-year-old Howlett was elected auditor of public accounts. He was re-elected twice and in 1972 he moved up to secretary of state, a license-plate and patronage-dispensing office.

"We will use the prestige of the governor's office to draw talent from business, industry, labor, education and the professions to evaluate programs, to cut out waste and duplication and streamline operations."

Howlett enjoyed an enviable reputation for political honesty until a disclosure this year that he had a second job paying $15,000 annually ever since he was elected to state office.

His job with Sun Steel Co. exploded into a major issue of the primary campaign.

Walker alleged during the primary that Howlett's position constituted a conflict of interest because he was in a position to financially benefit the steel company. The governor said Howlett had taken action on junked cars which helped the company.

During the heat of the battle, Howlett resigned the steel company job but continually said he had done nothing wrong.

After the primary, the allegations were not forgotten by the Republican attorney general. His special assistant issued a report which substantiated portions of Walker's charges, and a court must now determine whether Howlett owes the state any money because of his outside employment.

Howlett maintains that his experience is the main issue because of the state's financial condition coupled with a unique two-year term.

"Inexperience breeds mistakes," he says. "It takes time to develop even the best college quarterback into a professional. The governor's office is no place for on the job training, especially now."

The two-year term was established in the state constitution for this election only so the governor would be elected at a time other than when the nation was choosing a president.

Beginning in 1978, the state will return to four-year terms.

Whether the presidential race will have any effect on the gubernatorial contest is unclear.

With the polls showing Jimmy Carter holding a lead over President Ford, Howlett has attempted to identify with Carter at every possible moment.

When Carter spoke at a Howlett fund-raising dinner in July, he pledged to return often to Illinois to campaign.

One interesting aspect of the Carter-Howlett relationship is religion. Howlett, if elected, will be the first Catholic governor in the state in 60 years. Carter, of course, is a Southern Baptist.

The political observers are waiting to see if Carter can help Howlett in Southern Illinois' Bible Belt in return for Howlett's help in the heavily Catholic wards of Chicago.

It's debatable, though, whether a presidential candidate actually helps the state ticket. In 1972, for example,

President Nixon carried the state by 875,000 votes and the Republican governor, Richard Ogilvie, lost by 77,000 votes.

For this reason, perhaps, Thompson has avoided any association with President Ford or the National Republican party.

Thompson's style comes closer to matching Carter's than it does to matching Ford's, and he thinks it contrasts favorably with Howlett's.

Shaky Finances Is State's Biggest '76 Issue

first time since 1923 that an incumbent governor had been denied renomination by his party.

The primary was marked by name-calling and mud-slinging of the lowest order, so it's no surprise that the political scars are slow to heal despite Howlett's 56 to 44 per cent victory margin.

Walker effectively labeled Howlett as Daley's "puppet," and the identification stuck, at least partly because Howlett is almost as old, rotund and Irish as the mayor. Thompson

Southfield Firm Starts Own Probe

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Federal Mogul Corp. has begun a probe to determine if there have been any violations of law or the company's conduct code in its worldwide operations, officials of the firm reported.

Board Chairman Thomas F. Russell said the firm's directors assigned the responsibility for making the inquiry to its audit committee.

He said the audit group, whose members are non-employee, outside directors, has requested special counsel to aid in the investigation.

Russell said the inquiry stems from recent disclosures by other major companies of questionable foreign payments. He said the inquiry would date back to Jan. 1, 1971, and "will examine the propriety of certain transactions which now appear questionable."

Federal Mogul, which has plants in this country as well as Europe and Latin America, manufactures a variety of parts for the transportation and farm industries, notably engine bearings, engine seals and anti-friction bearings.

ILLINOIS GOVERNOR RACE

Fresh Face Challenges Machine's Man

By AL MANNING
SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (NEA) — The next governor of Illinois will either be a young, aggressive prosecutor or an experienced politician who looks and talks like his political ally, Chicago Mayor Richard J. Daley.

The early favorite is James R. Thompson, the fresh new face of Illinois politics.

Prior to becoming the Republican candidate, Thompson received national attention for winning convictions against numerous members of Daley's political "machine," including the late U.S. Appellate Judge and Gov. Otto Kerner.

The Democratic candidate is Secretary of State Michael J. Howlett, a veteran office-holder who defeated the incumbent governor, Dan Walker in a vicious primary election.

Walker's defeat marked the

picked up on that theme.

"One-man rule over the long haul produces political and governmental conditions which are not healthy," Thompson says.

Thompson, who lives in Chicago, was propelled into the governor's race on the basis of his impressive record as a U.S. attorney.

The Republican candidate has spent his summer shaking hands at county fairs and issuing white papers on governmental issues.

As a practical matter, the only issue which has attracted much attention is the state's precarious financial condition and the question of whether a tax increase will be necessary to fund education.

Neither candidate favors a tax increase.

"It would be irresponsible to even consider an increase in taxes so long as we're wasting or misusing current resources," Thompson says. "Budget savings are possible and, therefore, I do not foresee that a tax increase will be necessary."

He criticizes Howlett for promising voters too much, including a promise that he will not raise taxes. He adds:

"If Howlett is elected and keeps all of the promises he's made, then he'll bankrupt the state. If he doesn't keep his promises, he'll bankrupt politics."

Howlett's major theme has been his experience in government compared to his opponent's relative inexperience.

After a career in business, the 62-year-old Howlett was elected auditor of public accounts. He was re-elected twice and in 1972 he moved up to secretary of state, a license-plate and patronage-dispensing office.

"We will use the prestige of the governor's office to draw talent from business, industry, labor, education and the professions to evaluate programs, to cut out waste and duplication and streamline operations."

Howlett enjoyed an enviable reputation for political honesty until a disclosure this year that he had a second job paying $15,000 annually ever since he was elected to state office.

His job with Sun Steel Co. exploded into a major issue of the primary campaign.

Walker alleged during the primary that Howlett's position constituted a conflict of interest because he was in a position to financially benefit the steel company. The governor said Howlett had taken action on junked cars which helped the company.

During the heat of the battle, Howlett resigned the steel company job but continually said he had done nothing wrong.

After the primary, the allegations were not forgotten by the Republican attorney general. His special assistant issued a report which substantiated portions of Walker's charges, and a court must now determine whether Howlett owes the state any money because of his outside employment.

Howlett maintains that his experience is the main issue because of the state's financial condition coupled with a unique two-year term.

"Inexperience breeds mistakes," he says. "It takes time to develop even the best college quarterback into a professional. The governor's office is no place for on the job training, especially now."

The two-year term was established in the state constitution for this election only so the governor would be elected at a time other than when the nation was choosing a president.

Beginning in 1978, the state will return to four-year terms.

Whether the presidential race will have any effect on the gubernatorial contest is unclear. With the polls showing Jimmy Carter holding a lead over President Ford, Howlett has attempted to identify with Carter at every possible moment.

When Carter spoke at a Howlett fund-raising dinner in July, he pledged to return often to Illinois to campaign.

One interesting aspect of the Carter-Howlett relationship is religion. Howlett, if elected, will be the first Catholic governor in the state in 60 years. Carter, of course, is a Southern Baptist.

The political observers are waiting to see if Carter can help Howlett in Southern Illinois' Bible Belt in return for Howlett's help in the heavily Catholic wards of Chicago.

It's debatable, though, whether a presidential candidate actually helps the state ticket. In 1972, for example,

President Nixon carried the state by 875,000 votes and the Republican governor, Richard Ogilvie, lost by 77,000 votes.

For this reason, perhaps, Thompson has avoided any association with President Ford or the National Republican party.

Thompson's style comes closer to matching Carter's than it does to matching Ford's, and he thinks it contrasts favorably with Howlett's.

Shaky Finances Is State's Biggest '76 Issue

first time since 1928 that an incumbent governor had been denied renomination by his party.

The primary was marked by name-calling and mud-slinging of the lowest order, so it's no surprise that the political scars are slow to heal despite Howlett's 56 to 44 per cent victory margin.

Walker effectively labeled Howlett as Daley's "puppet," and the identification stuck, at least partly because Howlett is almost as old, rotund and Irish as the mayor. Thompson

Southfield Firm Starts Own Probe

SOUTHFIELD, Mich. (AP) — Federal Mogul Corp. has begun a probe to determine if there have been any violations of law or the company's conduct code in its worldwide operations, officials of the firm reported.

Board Chairman Thomas F. Russell said the firm's directors assigned the responsibility for making the inquiry to its audit committee.

He said the audit group, whose members are non-employee, outside directors, has requested special counsel to aid in the investigation.

Russell said the inquiry stems from recent disclosures by other major companies of questionable foreign payments. He said the inquiry would date back to Jan. 1, 1971, and "will examine the propriety of certain transactions which now appear questionable."

Federal Mogul, which has plants in this country as well as Europe and Latin America, manufactures a variety of parts for the transportation and farm industries, notably engine bearings, engine seals and anti-friction bearings.

Lohman-Barkley Show Is Good, If You Can Get It

By JAY SHARBUIT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A nutty new sort-of-variety series is afoot these days — "The Lohman and Barkley." Not "The Lohman and Barkley and Dawn Rainbow Hour." Just "The Lohman and Barkley." Alas, only a handful of cities now air this syndicated series. But if your part of the handful carries it, drop everything and watch it on a weekly basis so as to keep your mind in shape.

It stars two Iowans, Al Lohman of Storm Lake and Roger Barkley of Odebolt. Both are Los Angeles radio veterans who since 1968 have conducted a morning radio show on station KFI here. Sometimes on that show they play records. Other times, they do things like promise around-the-world trips to everyone in the audience, or run a soap opera they call "Light of My Life," winner of the Heisman Trophy. There are a lot of those other times.

When I first saw their TV show, it initially seemed just another Merv Griffin imitation. The stars sat in upholstered chairs and talked with their guest, Martha Raye. She giggled, then sang.

Then she got serious. She spoke of a new avant-garde movie she'd just made with a French genius. Said it was full of symbolism and marked a new artistic direction in her career. Her hosts nodded gravely. They ran the film. It indeed appeared made by a French genius. That is, until a symbolic gorilla popped out of the bushes and chased Miss Raye around. She symbolically hit the beast in the kisser with a custard pie.

Later, the hosts gravely referred "Celebrity Wrestling." It starred the Masked Maron as chief villain.

Then Lohman and Barkley said Miss America, their special guest, was going to appear. She didn't. Lohman forgot to invite her. So they got a bald, fat man with a moustache from the audience.

He sat in for Miss America. They serenaded him with "The Impossible Dream" and missed the high note at the end.

The hour closed when the stars profusely thanked their audience, spoke of love and got many hits in the face with custard pies.

Next week's show wasn't as good. Its best act was a man called "The Frank Sinatra of France." He got so carried away with a Gallic love song he severely stabbed himself with a rubber knife.

But consider, consider that Lohman had taken a $100,000 bribe from the mob to "throw the show" and boost a competitor's ratings.

I'm not sure if the show is a low-budget "Laugh-In" or an in-studio version of "Monty Python's Flying Circus." But Lohman and Barkley, dead of pan, wild of humor, deserve observation.

No observe them if they're on TV in your town. Remember, it's "The Lohman and Barkley." Not "The Lohman and Barkley and Dawn Rainbow Hour," which stars Tony Tampa, Orlando's cousin.

Kelley Defending Halfway Houses

DETROIT (AP) — Attorney General Frank Kelley filed suit in Wayne County Circuit Court Wednesday to try and prevent the city of Detroit from closing down halfway houses in three YMCAs.

He contended closing of the facilities "would be a major blow to one of the most successful corrections operations in the state of Michigan."

The State Corrections Department currently operates six halfway houses in Detroit, housing some 300 inmates who are nearing parole.

The inmates are screened by the department before being released from the facilities and either are employed or attend school in the metropolitan area.

Atty. Gen. Kelley intervened after Detroit officials charged the YMCA with violating zoning laws by leasing part of the three buildings to the Corrections Department to house 150 of the inmates who are up for parole.

Alas, only a handful of cities now air this syndicated series. But if your part of the handful carries it, drop everything and watch it on a weekly basis so as to keep your mind in shape. It is a weird, funny show. It began here Aug. 22. Among other things, it featured The Swiss Family Door Slammers and a recipe for Duck a L'Orange: a pot of water, a duck, an orange and an iron.

TENNESSEE: More Than Country Music Capital

BY MARK MCNEELY
KNOXVILLE (NEA) — Tennessee is a state of contrasts. Consider the terrain. Falling from the lush green Appalachian peaks in the east, the state dips through the foothills into the valley of its river namesake, rises again over the Cumberland, flattens out over a vast plateau and then drops slowly across the western end into the Mississippi River delta. Consider the people. Farmers grow burley tobacco, corn, tomatoes and strawberries in the east and central portions. Massive fields of soybeans, cotton and sunflowers dot the delta. In the big cities, commerce emanates from towers of concrete, glass and steel.

Consider the politics. West and central, where the land is flatter and antebellum homes are still plentiful, is traditionally Democratic. The valleys, ridges and mountains of East Tennessee, where several counties seceded from the state when the state seceded from the Union, maintain a Republican flavor. Consider the attractions. Tennessee can boast of many beauties, but so can her neighbors. Perhaps the key to her success is that she is divided — politically, culturally and geographically. A few years ago, billboards on the highways leading into the state proclaimed, "Welcome To The Three States of Tennessee."

an open reference to the natural divisions within the parallelism of a state. But public relations conscious lawmakers in Nashville decided to put an end to this. So those signs are now gone. But the divisions remain. And that is good, because each has its own rich history to contribute to the contiguous future of the state. Reviewers, accurately or not, have concluded that Robert Altman's current motion picture, "Nashville," is a symbolic means of portraying America's cross-section. That may be what the state does best. From the bond trader in Memphis to the songwriter in Nashville to the engineer in Knoxville to the atomic physicist in Oak Ridge, Tennessee's boundaries support a myriad of occupations and professions upon which the entire nation, if not the world, depends. It also supports the sorghum and quilt makers, the snake-handling religious fundamentalists, the dirt farmer, the trout fisherman, the laborer, the unemployed, the common man. The old and the new. The changing and the unchanging. Vestiges of Old South aristocracy cling and mingle with New South progressiveness. Ever changing. Never changing. Time, since 1815, hasn't changed the cypress knees and mossy covering on Reelfoot Lake, a huge lagoon formed by the Mississippi during an earthquake along the New Madrid fault. Time, since 1863, hasn't changed the eerie chill of walking through the battlefields of Shiloh or Missionary Ridge. Nor has it stifled the imaginations of those touring The Hermitage, home of Andrew Jackson, or the birthplaces of David Crockett and Sam Houston, or the tailor shop of Andrew Johnson. Time has never solved the mystery of the identity of a settlers intermixed with the Cherokee. Time, in the last few centuries, has worn away little of the Appalachian and Cumberland ranges, except at the hand of miners stripping away coal. Sometimes, only the names change, and the Great Smoky Mountains National Park is the state's most visited landmark. But changes have come — sometimes gradually and sometimes with lightning quickness. Not far from Dayton, where Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan debated Darwin's dogma in the famed Scopes Monkey Trial of the 1920s, huge cones rise 600 feet skyward. They are cooling towers for a new Tennessee Valley Authority nuclear plant, one of seven under construction or planned by TVA. TVA brought some of the quickest changes. The great social experiment of the Depression harnessed the flow of the Tennessee and its tributaries, used dams to generate the first large-scale hydroelectric service in the nation, and lit the state's farms, homes and factories. While opponents argue that it's not necessary now, TVA continues to expand its power program, now in a nuclear vein. And the lakes created by the dams are a mainstay for year-round recreation across the state. When the Federal government bought several thousand acres of land about 25 miles northwest of Knoxville in 1942, put a fence around it and refused all questions about it except its name — The Manhattan Project — few realized that America's ability to end the Pacific chapter of World War II rested in the hands of the workers and scientists at Oak Ridge. Atomic research, much of it for finding peaceful uses for the atom, continues there.

Poll Gives President Lead

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — President Ford had an eight per cent lead in his home state over challenger Jimmy Carter going into last night's second televised debate, according to a poll published by the Gannett News Service. The poll gave Ford 46 per cent of the vote to Carter's 38. According to Gannett, most of Ford's lead came from independent voters, who favor the President over Carter 30-30 per cent. The poll was conducted Sept. 25-26 by Research Analysis Corp. of Boston, and consisted of a telephone survey of 1,002 voting age residents. The results of the poll were published Wednesday in the Lansing State Journal. It also showed independent presidential candidate Eugene McCarthy with 6 per cent of the support. The poll showed Ford leading Carter 43-39 per cent in heavily Democratic Wayne, Oakland and Macomb counties, and carrying a 48-37 lead outside. The survey found 32 per cent of those polled identified themselves as Democrats, 24 per cent as Republicans and 44 per cent as independents.

The Volunteer State

Area: 42,244 sq. mi.; rank, 34th. Population (1974): 4,129,000; rank, 17th. Capital: Nashville. Motto: Agriculture, Commerce. Flower: Iris. Bird: Mockingbird. Tree: Tulip poplar. Song: Tennessee Waltz. Entered Union: June 1, 1796; rank, 18th. Nickname: Volunteer State. Spanish explorers first visited the area, 1541. English traders crossed the Great Smokies from the east while France's Marquette and Jolliet sailed down the Mississippi on the west, 1673. First permanent settlement was by Virginians on the Watauga River, 1769. During the Revolution, these colonists helped win the Battle of Kings Mountain, N.C., 1780, and joined other eastern campaigns. In the Civil War, hundreds of engagements were fought in the state. It seceded from the Union, 1861, but of a total of 145,000 Tennesseean soldiers, 30,000 fought for the Union.

TENNESSEE: More Than Country Music Capital

BY MARK MCNEELY
KNOXVILLE (NEA) — Tennessee is a state of contrasts. Consider the terrain. Falling from the lush green Appalachian peaks in the east, the state dips through the foothills into the valley of its river namesake, rises again over the Cumberland, flattens out over a vast plateau and then drops slowly across the western end into the Mississippi River delta. Consider the people. Farmers grow burley tobacco, corn, tomatoes and strawberries in the east and central portions. Massive fields of soybeans, cotton and sunflowers dot the delta. In the big cities, commerce emanates from towers of concrete, glass and steel.

Consider the politics. West and central, where the land is flatter and antebellum homes are still plentiful, is traditionally Democratic. The valleys, ridges and mountains of East Tennessee, where several counties seceded from the state when the state seceded from the Union, maintain a Republican flavor.

Consider the attractions. Tennessee can boast of many beauties, but so can her neighbors. Perhaps the key to her success is that she is divided — politically, culturally and geographically.

A few years ago, billboards on the highways leading into the state proclaimed, "Welcome To The Three States of Tennessee," an open reference to the natural divisions within the parallelogram of a state. But public relations conscious lawmakers in Nashville decided to put an end to this.

So those signs are now gone. But the divisions remain. And that is good, because each has its own rich history to contribute to the contiguous future of the state.

Reviewers, accurately or not, have concluded that Robert Altman's current motion picture, "Nashville," is a symbolic means of portraying America's cross-section. That may be what the state does best. From the bond trader in Memphis to the songwriter in Nashville to the engineer in Knoxville to the

Galloway Key In Bear-Norrix Battle Of Unbeatens

Loy Norrix' Jo Jo Galloway will be trying to gallop over St. Joseph again Friday night at Dickinson Stadium.

The 175-pound senior speedster rolled up 177 yards in Norrix' 14-7 victory over the Bears last fall, including the winning touchdown with less than two minutes to play, and he again looks as the key player in the showdown to Big Seven unbeatens.

"He runs like a deer," says St. Joe coach Ike Muhlenkamp while recalling that the talented tailback had eight runs of 10 yards or more against the Bears a year ago.

"We are going to have to make sure he doesn't get out on the corners like he did a year ago. And I think we will do much better in that respect, too."

Galloway, called "one of the finest backs I've coached" by Norrix mentor Don Blanchard, has rushed for 295 yards and more than six yards per carry so far this season in the Knights' 3-0 campaign.

But Galloway's 10.1 speed in the 100-yard dash won't be the only concern for a St. Joseph defense which has yielded 21 points in each of the last two games. Norrix also has what Blanchard calls an "excellent" passing attack with new quarterback Greg Parker, a transfer from Kalamazoo Central, throwing.

On the negative side, Blanchard says his team has had "quite a few fumbles" and a "lot of penalties."

"They are inclined to make mistakes," adds Muhlenkamp. "So if we can keep them from breaking the big ones, and move the ball ourselves, it could be a heck of a ball game."

St. Joe is also 3-0, and results against a common opponent indicates a close game. Norrix beat Battle Creek Lakeview 20-16 last Friday, a week after the Bears posted a 24-21 victory over the Spartans.

St. Joseph has also been impressive on offense, but it will be going against a proven defense. Norrix has eight starters back, including three all-conference selections, from a team which allowed just 41 points in its final eight games in 1975. They've allowed 22 so far this season, a total Blanchard finds "very disappointing."

"Our locker room was very quiet ...like we had lost," notes Blanchard on the Lakeview squeaker. "That was a very, very good lesson for us."

Blanchard feels the reason for the defense's decline is because "we have so many going both ways." The Knights don't have much depth, because a jayvee team which won just one game last season didn't provide much help for this year's varsity. But Blanchard is "getting replacements" and hopes to start giving his two-way players some rest.

The Norrix all-league defenders are linebacker Mike McElrath, tackle Steve Kimble and end James Caper.

Testing the Knight defense will be a potent St. Joe running and passing attack. Quarterbacks Barry Coburn and Steve Ziebart have hit 18 of 32 passes for three touchdowns. Tailbacks Dale Ruple and Kevin Wheeler have led the rushing attack with per carry averages of 5.4 and 4.8, respectively.

St. Joe receivers Ted Dongvillo, Mark Ignatovich and Keene Taylor could be busy Friday. "We may do more passing," says Muhlenkamp. "As a matter of fact, I wouldn't doubt it a bit."

St. Joe holds a 9-5-1 edge over Norrix in their series, with Muhlenkamp 6-1-1 while never losing at home to the Knights. Norrix also has never scored more than 14 points against a Muhlenkamp team.

Bear linebacker Mike Hoover missed last week's game with a shoulder separation and is doubtful for Friday.

St. Joe award winners in last week's 24-21 victory over Kalamazoo Central were Frank Beck on offense (kicked winning field goal) and linebacker Brian Hansen on defense (nine tackles). Game breaker awards went to Paul Watt, Gary Pesko, Eddie Lekan and Mike Cox for causing a Central fumble which led to the tying touchdown (Cox also made the recovery).

Hustle awards to prep team players went to Lekan and Mike Cunningham.

NL Choices Remain A Secret

AL Starters Named

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Catfish Hunter, Larry Gura, Steve Carlton and the "Masked Marvel" will be the starting pitchers for Saturday's baseball playoff openers.

The playoff-tested Hunter has been officially tapped to pitch for the New York Yankees and a revengeful Gura has been chosen to go for the Kansas City Royals in the first game of the American League series.

The National League managers, however, are still playing "I've Got A Secret."

Manager Danny Ozark of the Philadelphia Phillies indicates that Carlton will be the Phillies' choice, although he has made no official announcement yet. Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson is pulling out all the psychological stops. He hasn't named anyone yet — and won't until Friday, 24 hours before the NL playoff game in Philadelphia.

"I know right now who it'll be, but I'm not saying," says a mysterious Anderson.

New York's Billy Martin was the first of the four managers to reveal his playoff plans when earlier, this week, he selected Hunter, 17-15, and Ed Figueroa, 19-10, as the pitchers for the first two AL games in Kansas City. Either Dock Ellis, 17-8, or Ken Holtzman, 14-11, will pitch in Game No. 3 for the Yankees when the playoffs shift to New York next Tuesday.

Martin, in fact, has been the most talkative of the managers during the week prior to playoff time. On Wednesday, the verbose Martin revealed that Hunter has had a sore arm this year, perhaps explaining his sub-par season. Hunter, who led the Oakland A's to three world championships in the early 1970s, failed to make the 20-victory circle for the first time in six years.

"We decided not to say anything about it during the season," Martin told reporters about Hunter's tortured arm. "I think we said he had something wrong with his leg. But it was not a hamstring as we led you to believe. He had tendonitis in his right arm."

Hunter was given a shot for the pain and pitched admirably in his final three starts at the end of the season, allowing only five runs in 21 innings. On Wednesday he hurled two innings of an intra-squad game without discomfort.

Hunter admits that his arm did give him trouble during the season.

"I didn't get on top of the ball," said the right-hander. "I was short-arming the ball and I couldn't make it stay down."

Gura, a Yankee castoff with bitter feelings toward Martin, is looking forward to pitching against his former team. Gura fashioned a 4-0 record after coming to the Royals in May in a trade for catcher Fran Healy.

"I was hoping against hope I would get to start Saturday," said the left-hander. "Martin told me in spring training he would use me for long relief and spot starting. But he never did. He never even let me warm up in the bullpen. This will be the biggest, most emotional game of my life. I don't have anything against the Yankee organization. But I do against Billy Martin."

Phillies Not Upset Over Anderson Psyche Effort

By RALPH BERNSTEIN
AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson can talk all he wants about the Reds' post-season experience and their ability to score runs. He can stay silent about his starting pitcher for Saturday's National League playoff opener.

None of it is upsetting the Philadelphia Phillies, says All-Star left-fielder Greg Luzinski.

"It's all part of Sparky's psyche job," said Luzinski. "Well, in this clubhouse it goes out like a grain of salt. He talks about starting a left-hander instead of a right-hander, because Timmy (McCarver) is catching.

We won 101 games and we had to beat both sides (right and left).

"They talk about experience. We have respect for them. They have the best record in baseball (102 victories). They're a good team. But our inexperience is canceled out because we open at home before our fans. It's tough to come in here and play. The fans are behind us. They've waited a long time."

The 25-year-old Luzinski, affectionately known as "The Bull" for his 6-foot-1, 225-pound stature, will hopefully be recovered from a hamstring pull when the Phillies host the Reds Saturday in the opener of the best-of-five-game NL playoffs. Luzinski, who hit .304, slugged 21 homers and batted in 55 runs in the Phillies' dash to a nine-game victory in the NL East, said it is important to the Phillies not to get too keyed up for the playoffs.

"All the pressure is in the playoffs," Luzinski noted. "You have to win here to get into the World Series. The World Series is fun. This is tough."

Despite the pressure that's building for the opener, Luzinski said he'll approach it as just another game.

"We did it through 162 games. We had some tough series with Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. The only difference is that a couple of million will be watching. And this might be the only shot we get at this thing. Who knows? It might be a one-time thing."

"I think we're going to beat 'em. We have all the confidence in the world. We've been through the pressure cooker," the big outfielder added. "We had our lead out (from 15½ to three games). But we won with one of the largest spreads ever in the Eastern Division. We went all-out all year. We'll do it now."

Patriots Make A Change

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots, riding a three-game winning streak with upsets over Miami, Pittsburgh and Oakland, have made one change in their 43-man roster for Sunday's National Football League meeting with the Lions in Detroit.

Veteran defensive tackle Arthur Moore, plagued by various illnesses this year, was placed on the reserve list Wednesday, sidelining him for the remainder of the season. He was replaced on the roster by veteran Dave Tipton, who played four games for New England last year.

'Must' Game For Tigers Bergan Hoping For Consistency Friday

Benton Harbor coach Paul Bergan is hoping consistency will help put the Tigers back in the victory column.

The Tigers, who have suffered two straight losses after a season-opening win, travel Friday to Battle Creek Central.

"It's going to take consistency," Bergan says. "This game could be the turning point in our season. If we can get a victory, it can turn it all around. This is the biggest game of the year for us. It's a must game."

Battle Creek brings a deceiving 0-3 record into the game. The Bearcats have lost to Lansing Hill, East Lansing and Adrian. But both East Lansing and Adrian are 3-0.

Central has been led by half-back Larry Caper, a 5-11, 185-pound speedster who has rushed for 376 yards in the first three games. Caper, however, sprained his ankle last week against Adrian and will probably not play against Benton Harbor.

"He was my hole offense," Central coach Jerry Saffel says of Caper. "Our defense is getting better each week, but we don't have the guy who can make the big play."

Central, in a rebuilding year, starts five sophomores and three juniors on defense and five juniors on offense.

Tailback Tony Craig, who has rushed for 180 yards this year, must carry the load for Central now that Caper is out. Craig was fifth in the state last year in the 100-yard dash.

Juniors Dave Ellis (6-2, 210) and Dave Younglove round out the backfield at fullback and quarterback, respectively.

A pair of sophomore defensive ends have sparked the Bearcat defense. Greg Bentley (6-2, 210) and Greg Phillips (6-1, 190) helped hold Adrian to only 218 yards last week.

The injuries continue to mount for Benton Harbor. The Tigers have lost end Ray Jones for at least three weeks and possibly for the season with a broken ankle suffered in last week's Fruitport game.

Defensive tackle Reggie Smith sustained a pinched nerve in his shoulder in that same game and saw no contact all week. He may see limited action Friday.

End Carl Allison and tailback Maverick Burton are still nursing leg injuries and are doubtful for the Battle Creek tilt.

"The kids are determined to go up and give Battle Creek a really good ballgame," Bergan says. "We're going to go out and just try not to make the mistakes we've been making."

"These are young kids and they have the ability to come back. We have to execute our offense better and we think we'll do that. If we keep healthy and stay as aggressive both offensively and defensively as we have been, we'll give them a great game."

Sophomore quarterback Andrew Hurst should almost be 100 per cent by Friday which could mean big things for the Tiger offense. Hurst, who played last Friday against Fruitport with a bruised thigh, rushed for 185 yards, including one 88-yard touchdown jaunt.

Hurst has rushed for 237 yards in 42 carries this year.

"Turnovers and penalties have killed us this year," Bergan says. "We think we're very, very close to being a really fine football team. We just have to quit making those mistakes."

James Williams led the defense against Fruitport with 18 tackles. Desmond Parker added 15 and Bill Schneek had 13.

Galloway Key In Bear-Norrix Battle Of Unbeatens

Loy Norrix' Jo Jo Galloway will be trying to gallop over St. Joseph again Friday night at Dickinson Stadium.

The 175-pound senior speedster rolled up 177 yards in Norrix' 14-7 victory over the Bears last fall, including the winning touchdown with less than two minutes to play, and he again looms as the key player in the showdown of Big Seven unbeaten.

"He runs like a deer," says St. Joe coach Ike Muhlenkamp while recalling that the talented tailback had eight runs of 10 yards or more against the Bears a year ago.

"We are going to have to make sure he doesn't get out on the corners like he did a year ago. And I think we will do much better in that respect, too."

Galloway, called "one of the finest backs I've coached" by Norrix mentor Don Blanchard, has rushed for 295 yards and more than six yards per carry so far this season in the Knights' 3-0 campaign.

But Galloway's 10.1 speed in the 100-yard dash won't be the only concern for a St. Joseph defense which has yielded 21 points in each of the last two games. Norrix also has what Blanchard calls an "excellent" passing attack with new quarterback Greg Parker, a transfer from Kalamazoo Central, throwing.

On the negative side, Blanchard says his team has had "quite a few fumbles" and a "lot of penalties."

"They are inclined to make mistakes," adds Muhlenkamp. "So if we can keep them from breaking the big ones, and move the ball ourselves, it could be a heck of a ball game."

St. Joe is also 3-0, and results against a common opponent indicates a close game. Norrix beat Battle Creek Lakeview 20-16 last Friday, a week after the Bears posted a 24-21 victory over the Spartans.

St. Joseph has also been impressive on offense, but it will be going against a proven defense. Norrix has eight starters back, including three all-conference selections, from a team which allowed just 41 points in its final eight games in 1975. They've allowed 22 so far this season, a total Blanchard finds "very disappointing."

"Our locker room was very quiet ...like we had lost," notes Blanchard on the Lakeview squeaker. "That was a very, very good lesson for us."

Blanchard feels the reason for the defense's decline is because "we have so many going both ways." The Knights don't have much depth, because a jayvee team which won just one game last season didn't provide much help for this year's varsity. But Blanchard is "getting replacements" and hopes to start giving his two-way players some rest.

The Norrix all-league defenders are linebacker Mike McElrath, tackle Steve Kimble and end James Caper.

Testing the Knight defense will be a potent St. Joe running and passing attack. Quarterbacks Barry Coburn and Steve Ziebart have hit 18 of 32 passes for three touchdowns. Tailbacks Dale Rupley and Kevin Wheeler have led the rushing attack with per carry averages of 5.4 and 4.8, respectively.

St. Joe receivers Ted Dongillo, Mark Ignatovich and Keene Taylor could be busy Friday. "We may do more passing," says Muhlenkamp. "As a matter of fact, I wouldn't doubt it a bit."

St. Joe holds a 9-5-1 edge over Norrix in their series, with Muhlenkamp 6-1-1 while never losing at home to the Knights. Norrix also has never scored more than 14 points against a Muhlenkamp team.

Bear linebacker Mike Hoover missed last week's game with a shoulder separation and is doubtful for Friday.

St. Joe award winners in last week's 24-21 victory over Kalamazoo Central were Frank Bock on offense (kicked winning field goal) and linebacker Brian Hansen on defense (nine tackles). Game breaker awards went to Paul Watt, Gary Pesko, Eddie Lekan and Mike Cox for causing a Central fumble which led to the tying touchdown (Cox also made the recovery).

Hustle awards to prep team players went to Lekan and Mike Cunningham.

NL Choices Remain A Secret

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Catfish Hunter, Larry Gura, Steve Carlton and the "Masked Marvel" will be the starting pitchers for Saturday's baseball playoff openers.

The playoff-tested Hunter has been officially tapped to pitch for the New York Yankees and a revengeful Gura has been chosen to go for the Kansas City Royals in the first game of the American League series.

The National League managers, however, are still playing "I've Got A Secret."

Manager Danny Ozark of the Philadelphia Phillies indicates that Carlton will be the Phillies' choice, although he has made no official announcement yet. Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson is pulling out all the psychological stops. He hasn't named anyone yet — and won't until Friday, 24 hours before the NL playoff game in Philadelphia.

"I know right now who it'll be, but I'm not saying," says a mysterious Anderson.

New York's Billy Martin was the first of the four managers to reveal his playoff plans when earlier, this week, he selected Hunter, 17-15, and Ed Figueroa, 19-10, as the pitchers for the first two AL games in Kansas City. Either Dock Ellis, 17-8, or Ken Holtzman, 14-11, will pitch in Game No. 3 for the Yankees when the playoffs shift to New York next Tuesday.

Martin, in fact, has been the most talkative of the managers during the week prior to playoff time. On Wednesday, the verbose Martin revealed that Hunter has had a sore arm this year, perhaps explaining his sub-par season. Hunter, who led the Oakland A's to three world championships in the early 1970s, failed to make the 20-victory circle for the first time in six years.

"We decided not to say anything about it during the season," Martin told reporters about Hunter's tortured arm. "I think we said he had something wrong with his leg. But it was not a hamstring as we led you to believe. He had tendonitis in his right arm."

Hunter was given a shot for the pain and pitched admirably in his final three starts at the end of the season, allowing only five runs in 21 innings. On Wednesday he hurled two innings of an intra-squad game without discomfort.

Hunter admits that his arm did give him trouble during the season.

"I didn't get on top of the ball," said the right-hander. "I was short-arming the ball and I couldn't make it stay down."

Gura, a Yankee castoff with bitter feelings toward Martin, is looking forward to pitching against his former team. Gura fashioned a 4-0 record after coming to the Royals in May in a trade for catcher Fran Healy.

"I was hoping against hope I would get to start Saturday," said the left-hander. "Martin told me in spring training he would use me for long relief and spot starting. But he never did. He never even let me warm up in the bullpen. This will be the biggest, most emotional game of my life. I don't have anything against the Yankee organization. But I do against Billy Martin."

Phillies Not Upset Over Anderson Psyche Effort

AP Sports Writer

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson can talk all he wants about the Reds' post-season experience and their ability to score runs. He can stay silent about his starting pitcher for Saturday's National League playoff opener.

None of it is upsetting the Philadelphia Phillies, says All-Star left-fielder Greg Luzinski.

"It's all part of Sparky's psyche job," said Luzinski. "Well, in this clubhouse it goes out like a grain of salt. He talks about starting a left-hander instead of a right-hander, because Timmy (McCarver) is catching.

We won 101 games and we had to beat both sides (right and left).

"They talk about experience. We have respect for them. They have the best record in baseball (102 victories). They're a good team. But our inexperience is canceled out because we open at home before our fans. It's tough to come in here and play. The fans are behind us. They've waited a long time."

The 25-year-old Luzinski, affectionately known as "The Bull" for his 6-foot-1, 225-pound stature, will hopefully be recovered from a hamstring pull when the Phillies host the Reds Saturday in the opener of the best-of-five-game NL playoffs.

Luzinski, who hit .304, slugged 21 homers and batted in 95 runs in the Phillies' dash to a nine-game victory in the NL East, said it is important to the Phillies not to get too keyed up for the playoffs.

"All the pressure is in the playoffs," Luzinski noted. "You have to win here to get into the World Series. The World Series is fun. This is tough."

Despite the pressure that's building for the opener, Luzinski said he'll approach it as just another game.

"We did it through 162 games. We had some tough series with Cincinnati and Pittsburgh. The only difference is that a couple of million will be watching. And this might be the only shot we get at this thing. Who knows? It might be a one-time thing."

"I think we're going to beat 'em. We have all the confidence in the world. We've been through the pressure cooker," the big outfielder added. "We had our lead cut (from 15½ to three games). But we won with one of the largest spreads ever in the Eastern Division. We went all-out all year. We'll do it now."

Patriots Make A Change

FOXBORO, Mass. (AP) — The New England Patriots, riding a three-game winning streak with upsets over Miami, Pittsburgh and Oakland, have made one change in their 43-man roster for Sunday's National Football League meeting with the Lions in Detroit.

Veteran defensive tackle Arthur Moore, plagued by various illnesses this year, was placed on the reserve list Wednesday, sidelining him for the remainder of the season. He was replaced on the roster by veteran Dave Tipton, who played four games for New England last year.

'Must' Game For Tigers

Bergan Hoping For Consistency Friday

Benton Harbor coach Paul Bergan is hoping consistency will help put the Tigers back in the victory column.

The Tigers, who have suffered two straight losses after a season-opening win, travel Friday to Battle Creek Central.

"It's going to take consistency," Bergan says. "This game could be the turning point in our season. If we can get a victory, it can turn it all around. This is the biggest game of the year for us. It's a must game."

Battle Creek brings a deceiving 0-3 record into the game. The Bearcats have lost to Lansing Hill, East Lansing and Adrian. But both East Lansing and Adrian are 3-0.

Central has been led by half-back Larry Caper, a 5-11, 185-pound speedster who has rushed for 376 yards in the first three games. Caper, however, sprained his ankle last week against Adrian and will probably not play against Benton Harbor.

"He was my hole offense," Central coach Jerry Saffel says of Caper. "Our defense is getting better each week, but we don't have the guy who can make the big play."

Central, in a rebuilding year, starts five sophomores and three juniors on defense and five juniors on offense.

Tailback Tony Craig, who has rushed for 180 yards this year, must carry the load for Central now that Caper is out. Craig was fifth in the state last year in the 100-yard dash.

Juniors Dave Ellis (6-2, 210) and Dave Younglove round out the backfield at fullback and quarterback, respectively.

A pair of sophomore defensive ends have sparked the Bearcat defense. Greg Bentley (6-2, 210) and Greg Phillips (6-1, 180) helped hold Adrian to only 218 yards last week.

The injuries continue to mount for Benton Harbor. The Tigers have lost end Ray Jones for at least three weeks and possibly for the season with a broken ankle suffered in last week's Fruitport game.

Defensive tackle Reggie Smith sustained a pinched nerve in his shoulder in that same game and saw no contact all week. He may see limited action Friday.

End Carl Allison and tailback Maverick Burton are still nursing leg injuries and are doubtful for the Battle Creek tilt.

"The kids are determined to go up and give Battle Creek a really good ballgame," Bergan says. "We're going to go out and just try not to make the mistakes we've been making."

"These are young kids and they have the ability to come back. We have to execute our offense better and we think we'll do that. If we keep healthy and stay as aggressive both offensively and defensively as we have been, we'll give them a great game."

Sophomore quarterback Andrew Hurst should almost be 100 per cent by Friday which could mean big things for the Tiger offense. Hurst, who played last Friday against Fruitport with a bruised thigh, rushed for 185 yards, including one 98-yard touchdown jaunt.

Hurst has rushed for 237 yards in 42 carries this year.

"Turnovers and penalties have killed us this year," Bergan says. "We think we're very, very close to being a really fine football team. We just have to quit making those mistakes."

James Williams led the defense against Fruitport with 18 tackles. Desmond Parker added 15 and Bill Schneck had 13.

Two Class C Grid Powers Collide Saturday Lakers, Indians — Who's Better?

Who's better, Lake Michigan Catholic or Hartford?

That question will be answered the only way it can be at St. Joseph's Dickinson stadium Saturday night when the two undefeated Class C powers go at it on the field of play.

In other Red Arrow conference games Friday night, Berrien Springs (2-0 in the conference) hosts Bridgman (1-1). New Buffalo (0-2) travels to Watervliet (1-1), and Galien (0-2) goes to Eau Claire (0-2).

Hartford, the state's No. 8 ranked Class C team, boasts a powerful ground attack featuring two of southwestern Michigan's top runners, full-back Phil Mireles and tailback Ken Lowe. Together they have rushed for 747 yards this season for per carry averages of 6.84 and 6.74 yards, respectively.

The Lakers of Coach Terry Rose, the state's 26th ranked team, counter with Gary Bartalone, the area's top rusher this season with 546 yards (8.5 yards per carry) and Bill "Galloping Greek" Couvelis, a junior with 204 yards (6.6 yards per carry).

Going into Saturday's contest, Hartford leads the area in total offense and defense averaging 380 yards on offense while limiting its opponents to 115.7 yards per game. Lake Michigan Catholic ranks third in offense and seventh on defense. Hartford has outscored its opponents 128 to 12 and the Lakers have outscored their opposition 94 to 20.

Passing? The Indians' ground game has been so devastating they haven't had to throw yet. In fact, Hartford has completed one pass in four attempts in three games. The Lakers, on the other hand have passed for an average of nearly 60 yards per game in complimenting their running attack.

"I like LMC," Dick Bartz, Berrien Springs mentor says in discussing Saturday's clash. "I must admit I haven't seen Hartford yet, but I know the Lakers can pass and Hartford hasn't shown if they can throw or not."

Watervliet coach Jerry Barchett says "It's going to be a heck of a ballgame, I'll be there." He feels the Lakers' quickness will have to offset Hartford's physicalness and experience. When asked to pick a winner he hesitated, then answered, "Lake Michigan Catholic."

However, Eau Claire coach Tom Ferry, whose Beavers have played both teams, losing to Lake Michigan Catholic 49-0 and Hartford 50-6 last week, gives the edge to Bob Teske's Indians.

"Hartford's line is awesome...they just blow open holes for those excellent backs." Although he said both have comparable defenses, he questioned Lake Michigan Catholic defensive line's ability to hold off Hartford's offensive line.

Hartford coach Teske says "practice has been very business-like so far this week...there hasn't been much yelling or screaming, but that's the way this group is. In a way it makes you nervous as a coach, not knowing if their up or down...but I get the feeling something's building up inside these seniors."

Physically, Teske said his team is in excellent shape, "as good as we've been in all year." Fred Knight, 5-10, 175 pounds, a pre-season starter at offensive guard has recovered from an early injury and will be ready to fill in as the need arises, Teske indicated.

"We have no excuses this year," Teske says. "The best team is going to win, it's as simple as that."

"One thing we're going to have to do is contain their (the Lakers) sweeps...we got blistered on them last year," when the Lakers won 34-12 at Hartford, Teske recalls.

The Lakers' Rose says his scouts feel Hartford has an awesome ground game, and "...we know they can pass if they have too."

"Their (Hartford's) line is quicker off the ball and defensively they react much quicker than we have this year," Rose says.

"If we can keep them honest with our passing, we may be able to control their defensive line up front," he says.

Rose indicated the Lakers would go with their ground game. "...but will go to the air to make them back off."

Rose says his Lakers are healthy and ready to go. Linebacker Paul Genovese, who received numerous stitches for a cut mouth injured in a freak gym accident earlier this week, has the doctor's okay to play.

Since 1969, the Lakers have won six of seven games from Hartford, including the last four in a row. The lone loss came in 1971, when the Lakers lost 4-0. In that game at Hartford, the Indians scored on safeties in the second and third quarter, when bad snaps from center went over Laker punter Kim Krieger's head. The first one he recovered and ran out of the back of the end zone and the second one he recovered behind the goal line. A lot more scoring is expected this Saturday night.

Shamrock coach Dick Bartz says his offense got untracked last week and he hopes to pass a little more Friday night against Bridgman. He indicated that halfback Bob White would miss the Bridgman game as he has reinjured his ankle. Bartz termed Bridgman's offense "dangerous and explosive."

Eau Claire's Coach Ferry indicated his Beavers plan to keep it on the ground "a little more" against Galien. "One thing for sure, someone's going to win," he says. Both teams are 0-3 on the season.

Watervliet's Barchett says his team still resembles the "walking wounded." Off and on during the young season, Barchett's Panthers have had nine of their 23 varsity players hurt or sick.

DH Challenged By Association

AL Pitchers May Still Bat In Series

By HANK LOWENKRON
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — American League pitchers may still come to bat in the World Series.

The Major League Players Association filed a grievance Wednesday to bar the use in the World Series of designated hitters, claiming the rule is a violation of a new agreement between the baseball players and the owners.

It's not that the players' group is against the designated hitter, according to Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association.

"We did not file the grievance on the merit of the designated hitter rule," Miller told The Associated Press Wednesday night. "But the settlement we reached with the owners states that any rule change must be negotiated with the players. This change was never even discussed with the players. Therefore, it's a contract violation."

National and American League owners have been unable to reach an agreement on the use of a designated hitter. The AL has been using the rule, which allows the manager to use a player exclusively as a hitter while the pitcher doesn't bat, since 1973. The league also has been unsuccessfully trying to have its use approved in the World Series.

When the leagues were unable to agree this summer, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn ruled the DH would be used in alternate World Series, beginning this year.

The grievance is expected to receive a quick hearing from the owners' Players Relations Committee, which consists of the two league presidents and representatives of six major league teams. If that group is unable to settle the issue, it will be sent to baseball's arbitrator, Alexander Porter.

At least one member of that committee, American League President Lee MacPhail, indicated Wednesday he didn't think the grievance was justified and that owners in his league were upset over the issue.

MacPhail said Wednesday that the designated hitter was officially a rule before the new contract became effective and therefore is not reviewable by the Players Association.

"The use of the designated hitter in the American League was official before the agreement," countered Miller, "but the use in a World Series was approved after the agreement and we thus feel we have a grievance."

A spokesman for Kuhn said the grievance "comes as a big surprise. Frankly, I don't know what's going to happen."

Tennessee's Jimmy Carter Big Tackle

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — While one Jimmy Carter is tackling issues, another is tackling football players.

The Democratic presidential candidate was preparing for a debate Wednesday with President Ford while the other Jimmy Carter, an offensive tackle for Tennessee State's football team, was working out in practice.

"All I can say is that I had the name before I ever heard about him (the former Georgia governor)," said Carter, a 6-foot-3, 245-pound Louisiana native.

"I've been thinking about just using my middle name, though," he added.

Carter, 19, has earned a starting position as Tennessee State's left tackle. Coaches say he is one of few freshman players in recent years to earn a starting spot.

Ali Now Remains Silent On Boxing Retirement

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — "Boxing was small time, I'm graduating to bigger things," Muhammad Ali says. But there are growing doubts he is serious about retiring and passing up a $10-million payday with George Foreman.

Ali said in Istanbul last Friday, three days after successfully defending his heavyweight title against Ken Norton, that he was retiring to devote himself to his religion — the Nation of Islam.

But when asked Wednesday about his retirement announcement, the usually loquacious Ali was suddenly silent. "I'm not talking," he said. "I'm not talking to nobody."

His manager, Herbert Muhammad, said earlier in the day that no retirement decision would be made until a film on Ali's life was completed.

"My manager and I will announce to world boxing officials, that's all," Ali, 34, said between takes of a film scene involving Ernest Borgnine and a look-alike young Cassius Clay.

"Any official announcement on my status has to be made by them (boxing officials) to be recognized," he added.

His retirement would have to be formally forwarded to the World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association for acceptance to become official.

Promoter Chris Dundee, who watched Ali's rise to stardom under brother Angelo Dundee's tutelage, said he believed the picture, "The Greatest," held the key to Ali's decision.

"If this picture is a success, I don't think he'll ever fight again," Dundee said. "But that's just my opinion."

There have been reports of a struggle within the Muslims between Herbert Muhammad and his brother, Nation of Islam leader Wallace Muhammad.

According to reports, Wallace Muhammad would like Ali to devote his time to the Islamic ministry.

"I do know that I will not sign Ali to any more fights until my brother, who is my master and teacher, tells me to do so," Herbert Muhammad said. "The only struggle we face is the struggle against lies and deception, the struggle to establish truth."

There have also been reports that Ali's finances are not sound.

Wallace Muhammad said Sunday that "it appears like so many great champions before him, Ali has squandered his vast winnings."

"I wouldn't call it that," said Herbert Muhammad, who gets a third of Ali's winnings. "He has made some bad investments. So have I."

An estimated $6 million Ali made for beating Norton and Ali's stocks and bonds have been ordered held by a Chicago judge until disposition of a divorce suit filed by Khalilah Ali, Ali's wife of nine years.

Hartford coach Teske says "practice has been very business-like so far this week...there hasn't been much yelling or screaming, but that's the way this group is. In a way it makes you nervous as a coach, not knowing if their up or down...but I get the feeling something's building up inside

Physically, Teske said his team is in excellent shape, "as good as we've been in all year." Fred Knight, 5-10, 175 pounds, a pre-season starter at offensive guard has recovered from an early injury and will be ready to fill in as the need arises, Teske indicated.

"We have no excuses this year," Teske says. "The best team is going to win, it's as simple as that."

"One thing we're going to have to do is contain their (the Lakers) sweeps...we got blistered on them last year," when the Lakers won 34-12 at Hartford, Teske recalls.

The Lakers' Rose says his scouts feel Hartford has an awesome ground game, and "...we know they can pass if they have too."

"Their (Hartford's) line is quicker off the ball and defensively they react much quicker than we have this year," Rose says.

"If we can keep them honest with our passing, we may be able to control their defensive line up front," he says.

Rose indicated the Lakers would go with their ground game, "...but will go to the air to make them back off."

Rose says his Lakers are healthy and ready to go. Linebacker Paul Genovese, who received numerous stitches for a cut mouth injured in a freak gym accident earlier this week, has the doctor's okay to play.

Since 1969, the Lakers have won six of seven games from Hartford, including the last four in a row. The lone loss came in 1971, when the Lakers lost 4-0. In that game at Hartford, the Indians scored on safeties in the second and third quarter, when bad snaps from center went over Laker punter Kim Krieger's head. The first one he recovered and ran out of the back of the end zone and the second one he recovered behind the goal line. A lot more scoring is expected this Saturday night.

Shamrock coach Dick Bartz says his offense got untracked last week and he hopes to pass a little more Friday night against Bridgman. He indicated that halfback Bob White would miss the Bridgman game as he has reinjured his ankle. Bartz termed Bridgman's offense "dangerous and explosive."

Eau Claire's Coach Ferry indicated his Beavers plan to keep it on the ground "a little more" against Galien. "One thing for sure, someone's going to win," he says. Both teams are 0-3 on the season.

Watervliet's Barchett says his team still resembles the "walking wounded." Off and on during the young season, Barchett's Panthers have had nine of their 23 varsity players hurt or sick.

DH Challenged By Association

AL Pitchers May Still Bat In Series

By HANK LOWENKRON
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — American League pitchers may still come to bat in the World Series.

The Major League Players Association filed a grievance Wednesday to bar the use in the World Series of designated hitters, claiming the rule is a violation of a new agreement between the baseball players and the owners.

It's not that the players' group is against the designated hitter, according to Marvin Miller, executive director of the Players Association.

"We did not file the grievance on the merit of the designated hitter rule," Miller told The Associated Press Wednesday night. "But the settlement we reached with the owners states that any rules change must be negotiated with the players. This change was never even discussed with the players. Therefore, it's a contract violation."

National and American League owners have been unable to reach an agreement on the use of a designated hitter. The AL has been using the rule, which allows the manager to use a player exclusively as a hitter while the pitcher doesn't bat, since 1973. The league also has been unsuccessfully trying to have its use approved in the World Series.

When the leagues were unable to agree this summer, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn ruled the DH would be used in alternate World Series, beginning this year.

The grievance is expected to receive a quick hearing from the owners' Players Relations Committee, which consists of the two league presidents and representatives of six major league teams. If that group is unable to settle the issue, it will be sent to baseball's arbitrator, Alexander Porter.

At least one member of that committee, American League President Lee MacPhail, indicated Wednesday he didn't think the grievance was justified and that owners in his league were upset over the issue.

MacPhail said Wednesday that the designated hitter was officially a rule before the new contract became effective and therefore is not reviewable by the Players Association.

"The use of the designated hitter in the American League was official before the agreement," countered Miller, "but the use in a World Series was approved after the agreement and we thus feel we have a grievance."

A spokesman for Kuhn said the grievance "comes as a big surprise. Frankly, I don't know what's going to happen."

Ali Now Remains Silent On Boxing Retirement

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — "Boxing was small time, I'm graduating to bigger things," Muhammad Ali says. But there are growing doubts he is serious about retiring and passing up a $10-million payday with George Foreman.

Ali said in Istanbul last Friday, three days after successfully defending his heavyweight title against Ken Norton, that he was retiring to devote himself to his religion — the Nation of Islam.

But when asked Wednesday about his retirement announcement, the usually loquacious Ali was suddenly silent. "I'm not talking," he said. "I'm not talking to nobody."

His manager, Herbert Muhammad, said earlier in the day that no retirement decision would be made until a film on Ali's life was completed.

"My manager and I will announce to world boxing officials, that's all," Ali, 34, said between takes of a film scene involving Ernest Borgnine and a look-alike young Cassius Clay.

"Any official announcement on my status has to be made by them (boxing officials) to be recognized," he added.

His retirement would have to be formally forwarded to the World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association for acceptance to become official.

Promoter Chris Dundee, who watched Ali's rise to stardom under brother Angelo Dundee's tutelage, said he believed the picture, "The Greatest," held the key to Ali's decision.

"If this picture is a success, I don't think he'll ever fight again," Dundee said. "But that's just my opinion."

There have been reports of a struggle within the Muslims between Herbert Muhammad and his brother, Nation of Islam leader Wallace Muhammad. According to reports, Wallace Muhammad would like Ali to devote his time to the Islamic ministry.

"I do know that I will not sign Ali to any more fights until my brother, who is my master and teacher, tells me to do so," Herbert Muhammad said. "The only struggle we face is the struggle against lies and deception, the struggle to establish truth."

There have also been reports that Ali's finances are not sound.

Wallace Muhammad said Sunday that "it appears like so many great champions before him, Ali has squandered his vast winnings."

"I wouldn't call it that," said Herbert Muhammad, who gets a third of Ali's winnings. "He has made some bad investments. So have I."

An estimated $6 million Ali made for beating Norton and Ali's stocks and bonds have been ordered held by a Chicago judge until disposition of a divorce suit filed by Khalilah Ali, Ali's wife of nine years.

Tennessee's Jimmy Carter Big Tackle

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — While one Jimmy Carter is tackling issues, another is tackling football players.

The Democratic presidential candidate was preparing for a debate Wednesday with President Ford while the other Jimmy Carter, an offensive tackle for Tennessee State's football team, was working out in practice.

"All I can say is that I had the name before I ever heard about him (the former Georgia governor)," said Carter, a 6-foot-3, 245-pound Louisiana native.

"I've been thinking about just using my middle name, though," he added.

Carter, 19, has earned a starting position as Tennessee State's left tackle. Coaches say he is one of few freshman players in recent years to earn a starting spot.

Blames Media Broadway Joe's Magic Is Fading

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
HEMPSTEAD, N.Y. (AP) — "Stupid. Stupid. The stupidest thing I ever heard."

Joe Namath, the New York Jets' million-dollar quarterback, reacted testily to the suggestion that his passing skills have become so eroded that besides being unable to scramble he no longer takes the step into the pocket before delivering a pass.

"I've been reading that stuff. It's ridiculous. How are you going to step if there is no place to step?" Namath said.

With the Jets 0-4 for the season and facing O.J. Simpson and the Buffalo Bills in New York's home opener Sunday at Shea Stadium, both Namath and rookie coach Lou Holtz are having to weather an increasing barrage of criticism.

"When is Holtz going to bench Namath?" was one of the most asked questions after the Jets lost their fourth straight game last Sunday, bowing to the San Francisco 49ers 17-6. It was a game in which Namath was sacked five times and was thwarted in attempts to initiate a touchdown for the third game.

Has Broadway Joe, 33, with fragile knees and carrying the pain of a pulled hamstring muscle, lost his old magic?

Joe doesn't think so, but the very mention of it almost sends him up the wall.

"I don't want to talk about it," he snapped while dressing for a workout Wednesday at the Jets' Hofstra College training complex.

"If you want to know how I am playing, look at the films. That's all I ask. Am I missing any reads? Am I doing anything differently than I did last year or the year before?"

"It's the media. I am sick and tired of it."

Namath stuck a wad of tobacco in his lower lip. He thumbed through a handful of mail. He kidded with his quarterback understudy, Richard Todd, occupying the adjacent stall, and swapped quips with other teammates.

But Broadway Joe doesn't see any humor in a line of questioning that casts a cloud on his ability to direct a pro football team.

"I feel fine," he replies tartly to questions of his health. "As good as I have in the last two or three years."

Does he think that advancing age and patched-up knees are tarnishing his ability as a frontline quarterback?

"I think I can throw the ball as well as ever," he said. "As for my knees, they aren't responsible for whatever immobility I have. The real reason is this torn hamstring muscle—I have had it for three years."

Namath refused to blame poor protection for his lackluster performance to date — 50 completions in 92 attempts for 484 yards — but not so Coach Holtz.

"It's difficult for a quarterback to throw out of a well or from a supine position," the coach said, adding that Namath's protection has broken down badly.

Playing the last year of a two-year, $900,000 contract with an option coming up in 1977, Namath declined to speculate on his future.

ABC To Use Cosell For Playoffs

By WICK TEMPLE
AP Sports Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — The familiar voice you hear on TV when the Yankees meet the ROYALS in THE American League baseball playoffs Saturday will be that of your old friend, Howard Cosell.

Cosell? On baseball? None other. ABC-TV Sports President Rooney Arledge is hauling out the big guns for the first year in which his network alternates on the playoffs and World Series with NBC.

But, you say, hasn't Cosell been one of baseball's most outspoken critics? True, yet he sees no inconsistency in his position as color man on the best-of-five playoffs.

"I'll be there as an objective reporter rather than a member of the baseball establishment," Cosell said. "The baseball playoffs and the World Series are special events, prime time attractions. In the face of the support ABC has shown me, if they assign me someplace, I'm there."

But Cosell says he has not changed his position on what he considers to be the restrictive structure of baseball.

"I'm unchanging in my objection to the anomaly we have at law in which baseball is exempt from the antitrust laws," he said. "I've testified six times before Senate and House committees on that. I'm unchanging in my opposition to the carpetbagging of franchises. My objection is to baseball operations when I think they are not in the public interest."

Cosell said his assignment came about after a skull session of producers and directors at ABC yielded the recommendation that he be on the playoff team. "Rooney and I were talking alone and he said, 'Howard, I want to talk to you about baseball.'"

"I know I'll get a lot of flak,"

he said. "I'm certain many owners will resent it, but not all of them will. I've maintained friends in baseball. At this stage of my life, the most important thing is how I feel about myself and my family."

One network source said "If he says anything good about what happens on the field, they'll call him a hypocrite."

"All I'm going to do is do my job," said Cosell.

Cosell will team with Keith Jackson and Reggie Jackson on the Yankees-Royals playoffs.

Bob Uecker will sub for Jackson on Saturday, when Jackson is committed to college football. What about the Monday night football game in Los Angeles between the Rams and the 49ers? "I really feel like I should do it, but I may not," Cosell said. It would mean a baseball game in Kansas City Sunday, a flight to Los Angeles Monday morning, the football game, and the red-eye special to

New York Tuesday for the Tuesday night baseball game. Best guess is that he'll do it. Monday night football got a 40 per cent share of all TV sets turned on last week — its highest rating in the seven years of the program's existence.

"I understand those who rever the game. I grew up lying on my belly looking under the center field fence at Ebbets Field. My heart was broken when O'Malley moved the Dodgers."

Lancers, SJ Split
Lakeshore and St. Joseph seventh and eighth graders split cross country meets at River-view park Wednesday.

St. Joe's eighth graders won 15-40, with the Bears' John Kozine winning the 1½ mile race in 8:42. Lakeshore captured the seventh grade meet 24-31 with the Lancers' Craig McCa winning the mile run in 5:33.

'New' Rangers Nip Minnesota

NEW YORK (AP) — New players, new uniforms, new numbers, a newly decorated dressing room — and most importantly, a new attitude.

Those were the new-look New York Rangers, and they opened their National Hockey League season with a 6-5 victory over the Minnesota North Stars Wednesday night.

In other NHL games, the Pittsburgh Penguins whipped the Vancouver Canucks 9-5, and the Los Angeles Kings and Cleveland Barons played to a 2-2 tie.

The Rangers finished in last place in the Patrick Division of the Campbell Conference last season, missing the playoffs for the first time in 10 years, and Coach-General Manager John Ferguson had promised some changes for this year.

He made them — in bunches. Most noticeable was the infusion of new players. Seven rookies and one other newcomer, veteran Ken Hodge, acquired from Boston, played against Minnesota. And their spirited play contributed greatly to the victory.

Phil Esposito, wearing the unconventional uniform No. 77 after sporting No. 12 last season, said, "I'm wearing 77 because Ferg asked me if I wanted to change things around and I said yes. Everything's been stagnant here for years. But these kids are not stagnant. We'll do pretty well with them."

"There's a tremendous enthusiasm here and things have been dead here for 50 years," said Hodge, whose No. 88 is the highest in the league. "I thought I played pretty well, but that kid (Don Murdoch) is really good."

Murdoch, one of the seven rookies, fired in two goals, including one in a decisive three-goal second period, when the Rangers broke loose from a 3-3 tie and took a 6-3 lead.

Dan Newnam, Walt Tkaczuk, Greg Polis and Wayne Dillon produced the other New York goals.

Tim Young tallied twice for the North Stars, and Doug Hicks, Bill Goldsworthy and Pierre Jarry had one goal apiece. Rookie Grant Eriksson collected four assists.

Rangers goalie Gilles Gratton, also a rookie, said, "I wanted to win badly. These kids were great. You'd have thought we won the Stanley Cup the way they mobbed me (after the game)."

Rick Kehoe scored three goals and Wayne Blanchin had two for Pittsburgh, offsetting a four-goal barrage by Vancouver's Rick Blight.

However, the victory was costly for the Penguins. Dennis Herron, their No. 1 goalie, suffered a fracture of the radius of the left arm and will be sidelined six to eight weeks.

Blight, who said it was the first time he had scored four goals, added, "It kind of makes it bitter instead of sweet when you score four goals and still lose the game."

Jamboree To Lancers

LAKESIDE — Lakeshore won the Blossomland conference's final golf jamboree of the season Wednesday at Chikaming Country club here by nipping host River Valley on the tie-breaker rule.

Both teams had tied at 161 strokes each after nine holes of play, but the Lancers were given credit for first place after a comparison of fifth-man scores. Lakeshore's fifth man, Mark Nidiffer, shot a 44 and River Valley's fifth man, Mark Magnuson, had a 45. The top four scores are used for team totals.

Team scores were: Lakeshore and River Valley 161, Coloma 162, Buchanan 166, Cassopolis 169, Dowagiac 171, Edwardsburg 178 and Brandywine 184.

Rick Hoffman of River Valley and Jun Steirle of Dowagiac tied for medalist honors with 36's. The remainder of the top ten finishers included: Dave Haslett, Lakeshore, 38; Chris Moulds, Buchanan, Jim Loupee, Cassopolis, Rick Friedman and Tim Kobetz, Coloma, Harry Gnodtke, Lakeshore, all 39's, and Fred Breeht and Jeff Haas, River Valley, 40's.

Coloma remains in first place, followed by Lakeshore and Buchanan, going into the conference match to be held Wednesday, Oct. 13, at Hampshire Country club, Dowagiac. The conference champ will be determined as follows: A combination of all seven jamboree scores will count 50 per cent, and the conference match 50 per cent.

Surgery For Stan Thomas

CLEVELAND (AP) — Relief pitcher Stan Thomas of the Cleveland Indians was scheduled to undergo surgery here Thursday morning for removal of deteriorating cartilage in his right knee, the American League baseball team reported Wednesday.

A spokesman said the condition apparently was cumulative and didn't stem from a specific incident.

The right-hander, obtained from the Texas Rangers last December, posted a 4-4 record in the past season with an earned-run average of 2.30.

He had similar surgery on his left knee some time ago.

But Cosell says he has not changed his position on what he considers to be the restrictive structure of baseball.

"I'm unchanging in my objection to the anomaly we have at law in which baseball is exempt from the antitrust laws," he said. "I've testified six times before Senate and House committees on that. I'm unchanging in my opposition to the carpetbagging of franchises. My objection is to baseball operations when I think they are not in the public interest."

Cosell said his assignment came about after a skull session of producers and directors at ABC yielded the recommendation that he be on the playoff team. "Roone and I were talking alone and he said, 'Howard, I want to talk to you about baseball.'"

"I know I'll get a lot of flak,"

he said. "I'm certain many owners will resent it, but not all of them will. I've maintained friends in baseball. At this stage of my life, the most important thing is how I feel about myself and my family."

One network source said "If he says anything good about what happens on the field, they'll call him a hypocrite." "All I'm going to do is do my job," said Cosell.

Cosell will team with Keith Jackson and Reggie Jackson on the Yankees-Royals playoffs. Bob Uecker will sub for Jackson on Saturday, when Jackson is committed to college football.

What about the Monday night football game in Los Angeles between the Rams and the 49ers? "I really feel like I should do it, but I may not," Cosell said. It would mean a baseball game in Kansas City Sunday, a flight to Los Angeles Monday morning, the football game, and the red-eye special to

New York Tuesday for the Tuesday night baseball game. Best guess is that he'll do it. Monday night football got a 40 per cent share of all TV sets turned on last week — its highest rating in the seven years of the program's existence.

"I understand those who revere the game. I grew up lying on my belly looking under the center field fence at Ebbets Field. My heart was broken when O'Malley moved the Dodgers."

MSU Clash Special For U-M's O'Neal

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's crumpling linebacker Calvin O'Neal has wounded feelings and it is likely Michigan State will pay dearly for them Saturday.

O'Neal, bulwark of the unbeaten, untied Wolverines' defense which is No. 1 in the country, recalled that when it came time for him to pick a college four years ago, he felt MSU did not do too well by him.

He said his choice always was between the two Michigan universities.

"I visited Michigan State and I really liked it but I felt they gave me the run-around and I felt offended," he recalled this week as he got set for the Mich-MSU showdown at Ann Arbor.

"Michigan offered me a full scholarship from the beginning but Michigan State kept saying they wanted to look at more game films of me," said O'Neal, senior co-captain of the Wolverines.

If the Spartans had a chance to see films of all four Michigan victories to date, they would have come away impressed. All O'Neal has to show this season are 30 solo tackles, assists on 21 others and a 29-yard touchdown run with an intercepted pass in the Navy game. It was his first college touchdown.

With O'Neal as a major cog, the Michigan defense has given up only 90 yards a game rushing, although it is a bit more generous to its opponents in passing. The Wolverines have yielded an average 161 yards passing and rank eighth in pass defense in the Big Ten.

The Wolverines, rated 42-7 winners against MSU in the AP weekly football picks, are impressive national leaders in rushing, scoring and total offense. But they have gotten only to the eighth spot in passing.

Of O'Neal, who had a team record 151 tackles last year, Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler made one of his customary understatement.

"Calvin is playing good steady ball," said the coach.

The intra-state showdown before an anticipated 104,000 fans got a big vote from O'Neal who said, "I like playing Michigan State. For me it is the biggest game, bigger than Ohio State, because I am from Michigan (Saginaw) ... I live in Michigan and I will still be in Michigan after I get through playing ball."

Giants To Name Manager Today

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants were to name a manager today to succeed Bill Rigney, who is slated for a front office job with the National League baseball club.

As of Wednesday night, it appeared the manager would be either Vern Rapp, 48, who managed the Denver Bears to the 1976 American Association pennant, or Joe Amalfitano, who coached at San Diego last season after four years as Giants' infield coach.

The announcement was scheduled at 3 p.m., PDT, news conference.

Rapp, a minor league manager for 12 years, disclosed that he was interviewed Wednesday in St. Louis as a possible replacement for Red Schoendienst, whom the Cardinals fired Tuesday. He said Cards' owner Augie Busch and General Manager Bing Devine "told me their decision would be made in 10-14 days."

Amalfitano, a resident of San Francisco and a Giants' player for three seasons in the early 1960s, coached with the Chicago Cubs under Leo Durocher and rejoined the Giants in 1972 to coach under Charlie Fox and later Wes Westrum.

Two other candidates on a list of eight whom the Giants said would be interviewed for the manager's job were eliminated this week. Dick Williams was hired Tuesday to manage at Montreal, and ex-Dodgers star Maury Wills signed Wednesday to return to the Los Angeles club as an instructor.

The other four on the original list are Jimmy Davenport and Bobby Winkles of the Giants' coaching staff; Rocky Bridges, manager of the Giants' Phoenix farm club in the Pacific Coast League, and former Oakland A's Manager Alvin Dark.

The San Francisco Chronicle said Dark, who managed the Giants to a pennant in 1962, had not been contacted by the Giants as of Wednesday.

Rigney resigned at the end of the season, his 16th as a major league manager, starting with the New York Giants in 1956. He took the job for one year only after his longtime friend Bob Lurie became co-owner of the club with Bud Herseth of Phoenix last March. The sale by Horace Stoneham averted a move of the franchise to Toronto.

But the attendance problem that led to the Giants' sale still remains. For the third year in a row San Francisco had the lowest home draw in the major leagues, 626,868, compared with 522,919 in 1975.

The Giants finished fourth in the West Division. They spent most of the season in last place but had an 18-11 record in September and moved up two notches in the standings, finishing 74-88.

Paterno Starting Fusina

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP) — In 1970, Penn State started out the football season on a losing note and a young sophomore quarterback turned the team around.

The Nittany Lions were 2-3 when Coach Joe Paterno gave the ball to John Hufnagel in 1970.

Hufnagel and the Lions knocked off Army that week, then finished the season with a 7-3 record.

It's 1976. The Lions have dropped three straight games, have a 1-3 mark, and, ironically, face Army this week.

This time, sophomore quarterback Chuck Fusina gets his first starting assignment. But Paterno did not demote anybody as he did in 1970.

Fusina replaces John Andress, who suffered a shoulder injury in last week's 22-6 loss to Kentucky. He's out for five or six weeks.

"I don't like the way I'm starting. John being hurt. He's a good friend," Fusina said in a telephone interview.

Fusina says there's no better way to learn than by playing, as he did when Andress was hurt early in the game.

"I learned from the game. Standing on the sidelines is one thing, you can see the mistakes, but it's not the same as playing. By playing you learn to think, where to look, what to look for, what to do with the ball," he said.

After spring practice this year, Paterno said of Fusina: "He probably has as much potential at quarterback as anyone we have had in all the years I've been around." Paterno has been around 26 years at Penn State.

Fusina is an only child and his father died when he was four, but his mother travels to each home game along with grandfather, his girl friend and his best friend.

Downs Tops In MIAA

From ASSOCIATED PRESS

Adrian quarterback Paul Downs has been named offensive player of the week by the Michigan Intercollegiate Athletic Association.

A sophomore from Livonia, Downs scored one touchdown and threw two touchdown passes during Saturday's 23-0 Adrian victory over Geneva. He completed nine of 23 passes for 141 yards.

The MIAA defensive player of the week is Albion defensive tackle Steve Spencer, a junior from Armada.

Spencer sacked the Alma quarterback four times Saturday and was credited with a total of 12 tackles as Albion defeated Alma 16-7.

Spencer was an all-league tackle last year as a sophomore.

Pistons Biggest Problem Is Making Roster Cuts

DETROIT (AP)—Coach Herb Brown had one major problem in the wake of his Detroit Pistons 108-87 triumph over the Chicago Bulls Wednesday night in a tuneup for the National Basketball Association season.

As he saw it, "Our biggest problem is that we have 17 good basketball players and have got to get down to 12 ... some good guys are going to have to be cut or traded away."

The Pistons, bringing their NBA exhibition standings to 1-1 before 4,814 Cobo Hall fans, got a game-clinching performance from Howard Porter who led a third period bombardment, hitting six baskets in less than six minutes.

Chicago, whose exhibition record dropped to 2-2, got 11 points from Bob Love but their new million-dollar acquisition, Artis Gilmore, netted only seven points. "I did not perform very well but I don't think I have a problem," said Gilmore. "I did not get as involved as much as I should have in the game while I was on the court."

Coach Brown summed up his team's home debut saying, "We were impressive in spots but the way to do it is to keep looking for each other and playing good defense."

"We have a long way to go and I thought we were a bit sluggish in the stretch against the Bulls," he added.

Gura Guns For Yanks

KC Hurler Has Score To Settle With Martin

By DOUG TUCKER
AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Larry Gura, an even-tempered man not easily ruffled, looked like he had just swallowed the sunshine.

"This will be the biggest, most emotional game of my life," said the 28-year-old lefthanded pitcher. "I don't have anything against the New York Yankee organization. But I do against Billy Martin."

It was Martin who traded Gura to the Kansas City Royals in May after, Gura feels, Martin lied to him and never gave him a chance to prove his worth.

And it will be Martin's Eastern Division champion Yankees he will battle Saturday in the opening game of the American League playoffs.

"I was hoping against hope I would get to start," he said Wednesday, moments after Manager Whitey Herzog gave him the word. "I'd like to pitch all three games."

Martin, Gura says, promised to give him plenty of work during spring training this year. He had virtually none.

"Then at the beginning of the year he told me he was going to use me for lung relief and spot starting," Gura said. "For five weeks he never even let me warm up in the bullpen."

"I got rid of him because I didn't think he was as good as our other four starters," Martin said Wednesday. "If I had him here now I'd get rid of him again."

After coming to the Royals in a trade for catcher Fran Healy, Gura went on the 21-day disabled list with a pulled groin muscle. He finished the year 4-0, including a four-hit shutout against Oakland on Sept. 23, the game that virtually locked up the Western Division championship.

He faced the Yankees once, in August, and surrendered only a bunt single to Graig Nettles in seven-plus innings of relief.

The nuances of Gura's anger were not lost on Martin, who is a master psychologist.

"He's going to try to prove something," said the Yankee manager. "I think it'll make him a worse pitcher. He's a nibbler, always going for the corners, and he's liable to blow it. I don't think my players appreciate the way he's been popping off, either."

Can Gura visualize himself overpowering Martin's Yankees Saturday?

"Yes," he answered. "And that's just exactly what I'm afraid I might try to do. I've got to make sure I don't throw the ball through the screen. It will just be a matter of concentration."

"Pressure, to me," he added, "is where you aren't sure you can do something. I'll just remind myself that deep down I feel sorry for Billy Martin because he's been that way his whole life."

Packers' Roller Practical Joker

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Teammates call Dave Roller "The Imperial Lizard."

That's because the round-faced defensive tackle is the Green Bay Packers' resident flake, a 262 pound funseeker who enjoys practical jokes almost as much as well, sacking the other team's quarterback.

His reputation as a cut-up has been long established. And after what he did to the Detroit Lions in the Packers' 24-11 National Football League victory last Sunday, his stock as a pass rusher never has been higher.

The Packers tackled Lions' quarterback Greg Landry and his backfield mates eight times for 61 yards in losses. Roller, credited with two sacks himself and assists on two others, showed amazing speed for his size as he tore through the Detroit offensive line. His hollering, arm-waving, flamboyant style, which included a post-game victory shuffle at mid-field, charged the Lambeau Field crowd to frenzy.

"Dave is a very excitable young man," Packer Coach Bart Starr said. "He's a reckless, rambunctious player. That's the way this game should be played."

Roller, whose 18 sacks for the Southern California Sun helped earn him World Football League defensive player of the year honors in 1974, put it another way.

"I'm sort of like (Packer receiver) Kenny Payne," he said. "A free spirit, free-wheeling. I get excited and emotional. I like to jump up and down and scream, and I like other guys to do it."

"When I played in the World League, everybody knew me out there," he said. "A bunch of people formed a group called 'Roller's Rooters.' They would go to our games, get drunker than hell, put up signs and just have a little fun. At the end of the year we had a little get-together and they gave me a trophy."

"I firmly believe in fans and players having fun," he said. "I'm not trying to be a hot dog, but that's what football is all about. Everybody in football is so uptight. You got to do this. You got to do that. Hell, all you got to do is win games. You should have fun doing it. If it means doing little dances on the field, I'm all for it."

Roller isn't above having harmless fun at teammates' expense.

"I remember one night in training camp," he said. "The dog days of camp. You know, two-a-days, and everybody's dragging. I set up this pay phone in the dorm and put shaving cream all over the receiver. Then I called the number at curfew. Guys would answer it and get all smeared."

"I tried to get (offensive line coach) Leon McLaughlin, too," he said. "Leon picked up the phone one time, but he wouldn't put it to his ear. He just kind of looked at it. I've done that with shoe polish, too."

Signed as a free agent when the NFL folded last fall, Roller weighed well over 270 when he joined the Packers in mid-season. Although his belly is testimony to his fondness for good times, he insists he reported to camp in shape this summer.

"I was down to 262 in camp," he said. "But then we had this party one night, eating and drinking pretty heavily. Overnight I gained eight or 10 pounds. It kind of shook the coaches up. Yeah, it was a hell of a party."

Roller, a former University of Kentucky player, was the New York Giants' 13th round draft choice in 1971. He was a reserve that season and cut the next, a move over which he is still bitter. Stints as a player in the Canadian League and as a labor relations assistant for a Canadian steel firm followed. He joined the Sun when the NFL was formed.

He had offers from several NFL teams after the NFL folded, but said he chose the Packers "because of Bart Starr. I guess. The man's been a winner 15 or 20 years. I think he'll turn it around here."

Whether Starr does or not, Roller is upholding the finest tradition of Paul Hornung and Max McGee, teammates of Starr during the Packer glory years of the 1960s and themselves legendary funseekers.

PITT PASSER: Pitt quarterback Matt Cavanaugh, shown here talking with coach John Majors, was been picked as the Associated Press back of the week. He passed for five touchdowns, a school record, and 339 yards in last Saturday's 44-31 win over Duke. (AP Wirephoto)

Pitt's Cavanaugh AP 'Back Of The Week'

PITTSBURGH (AP) — When Joe Namath was in town during the pro football exhibition season for a New York Jets game against the Steelers, he asked Pitt Coach John Majors about Matt Cavanaugh, a college quarterback Namath tutored during the summer at his camp.

If Namath would have asked this week, Majors would have said: "Matt was just fabulous. He played with a tremendous amount of poise."

Cavanaugh shares more with his teacher and childhood hero than just the No. 12 on his jersey.

The 6-foot-2, 209-pound junior put on a startling aerial show Saturday and led the Panthers, usually a rushing team, to a 43-31 triumph over Duke by completing 14 of 17 passes for 339 yards and a school-record five touchdowns.

He gained an additional 39 yards on the ground and led Pitt to a total 334 yards on offense to earn honors today as The Associated Press National Back of the Week, an honor Namath won as an Alabama player several times more than a decade ago.

"I'm elated," beamed Cavanaugh, who celebrated with a call home to Youngstown, Ohio. "It's the kind of thing you dream of."

Pitt, winning three straight and a No. 2 ranking primarily on the running of Heisman Trophy hopeful Tony Dorsett, won its fourth in a row on the strength of Cavanaugh's passing attack, dreamed up in a few days of practice to meet Duke's stop-Dorsett defense.

"It was a play action series that worked out pretty good," explained the soft-spoken, articulate liberal arts major. "I don't think we practiced it more than two or three days."

"Most of the defenses we face are centered around trying to stop Tony or Elliott (Walker). Our coaches saw that and made the adjustment in our offense."

Cavanaugh inherited the starting spot from Robert Haygood, who is out for the season with torn knee ligaments suffered against Georgia Tech in the season's second game.

Cavanaugh has connected on 29 of 45 passes this season for 573 yards and seven touchdowns. Only starting twice this season, he already has thrown for more yardage and has equalled the scoring of his four starts last year.

In winning Back of the Week honors, Cavanaugh beat out flanker Wesley Walker of California and running backs Scott Dierking of Purdue, Ric Enis of Indiana, Johnny "Lam" Jones of Texas and John Pagliaro of Yale.

Henry Happy At Southwestern

LAFAYETTE, La. (AP) — Quarterback Roy Henry is the one who didn't go back to Notre Dame. And he says he's glad he chose to switch.

Henry and five other Notre Dame players were suspended for a semester three seasons ago after being accused of taking a girl into one of the dormitory rooms.

The others sat out their suspensions and went back to Notre Dame. Henry went to Southwestern Louisiana.

Four of the five returnees are starters for the Irish — defensive ends Ross Browner and Willie Fry, halfback Al Hunter and cornerback Luther Bradley. Dan Knott is a reserve halfback.

Henry, in his second year as a starter at Southwestern, has completed 24 of 47 passes for 303 yards and three touchdowns after two games — good enough to earn him the No. 12 spot in the rankings of major college quarterbacks.

"Sometimes I think about Notre Dame," Henry said. "The big-time, small-time thing. But I know my choice was the right choice."

He said he chose Southwestern because it's only 150 miles from home, several of his high school teammates were at the school, he had a chance to get in on the ground floor of new Coach Augie Tannariello's rebuilding program and he knew he could play immediately.

"I have aspirations to be a professional quarterback," he said. "I'd like to play for a winner, but I'd also like to play close to home."

"I don't know what the situation will be with the draft in the next five months. I'll just go where I'm told and do what I can to earn a job."

"I'd like to go where there's an established quarterback who can really teach me something — like Dallas with Roger Staubach. There's a quarterback you can learn from."

But he said he's had enough of learning from adversity.

His high school team was ruled ineligible for championship honors when a 4-year-old error was discovered in one of his teammates' transcripts. He went to Notre Dame and wound up in "that mess," as he refers to it.

He played all last season with a thigh bruise and still gained 308 yards rushing.

And Southwestern had to forfeit its two season-opening victories this year when the school discovered it had inadvertently violated a conference transfer rule.

"I guess I'm a little stronger emotionally because of all of this. I guess — well, you know — it builds character."

Hartford Runs Past Beavers

HARTFORD — Dennis Frazier and Mark Manning finished one-two while leading Hartford to a 21-35 Red Arrow cross country victory over Eau Claire here Tuesday.

Hartford, now 5-2 on the season, also had Mike Buchholz in fourth, Joe Bunn fifth and Steve Buchholz ninth. Top Eau Claire runners were Roger Daugherty, third; Dan Newman, sixth; Bill Simaz, seventh, and Brian Dohm, eighth.

Two Small Players In Big Efforts

DETROIT (AP) — Two "small" players turned in big performances last weekend to earn Great Lakes Conference player of the week honors.

Ferris State's Charley Evans, a 5-foot-7, 170 pound junior halfback from Taylor Center, rushed for 217 yards in 27 carries, including a 68-yard touchdown, to lead the Bulldogs to a 20-12 upset win over GLAC rival Wayne State.

Evans' rushing set a WSU Stadium record. In his sophomore year, Evans set the conference rushing mark with a 284-yard performance.

Northwood Institute linebacker Brad Sheltrown, a 5-9½, 182 pound sophomore from Plainwell, earned defensive honors. Sheltrown blocked a punt in the fourth quarter against Georgetown, Ky., College, setting up a touchdown which gave Northwood a tie in the 14-14 contest.

Sheltrown also had several tackles and assists for the Northmen, deflected two Georgetown passes and sacked the quarterback twice.

'Best All Around Back'

Lytle No. 1 On Bo's List

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Billy Taylor, Ed Shuttlesworth, Gordon Bell, Chuck Heater — those are some of the standout running backs who have come and gone at the University of Michigan during Coach Bo Schembechler's eight seasons as head football coach.

Better overall than any of them, he says, is Rob Lytle.

Lytle, a senior who runs at both fullback and tailback, is Michigan's offensive "Champion of the Week" for his performance in last week's 31-0 triumph over Wake Forest. It is his second such team honor this year.

"I would say at this point he's the best all around back, considering blocking, running and receiving," said Schembechler, whose team is ranked No. 1 in the country.

"If that guy isn't an All-American I don't know who is."

Lytle has run mostly at fullback the last two seasons. Tailbacks usually get most of the publicity and most of the yardage, so Lytle hasn't received much national recognition.

"He's something," Schembechler said. "You gotta watch him every down. He does something on every snap."

If Lytle isn't running with both power and speed he's usually nailing someone with a fine block. He also fakes well and is a good pass receiver.

Against Wake Forest the 6-foot-1, 185-pounder from Fremont, Ohio, rushed for 110 yards in just 14 carries. He scored touchdowns on runs of nine and 25 yards. For the season he is second on the team behind tailback Harlan Huckleby in rushing with 339 yards in 59 attempts for a 5.7 average.

Lytle has scored five touchdowns and made many key blocks to help Huckleby gain much of his 456 yards rushing and five TDs.

Comparisons may be ambiguous because of the different eras, but Lytle moved past fabled Tom Harmon and into fifth place on the all-time Michigan rushing list Saturday. He has piled up 2,187 yards in his four-year career.

In the next few weeks Lytle could move past Shuttlesworth and Ron Johnson into third place in Michigan rushing annals.

He carried the ball only three times as a freshman. The next season he gained 807 yards at tailback. As both a fullback and tailback last year he totaled 1,055 yards.

"I think more of blocking because I'm not the biggest fullback around," Lytle said. "My running takes care of itself because our line always gives me a crease."

Lytle, who was once clocked in 9.6 seconds in the 100-yard dash, is a business major who plans to operate his family's clothing store in Fremont — if he doesn't first wind up as a professional football player.

"Football would be great," he said. "The publicity would help our business."

CHICAGO (AP) — A glance at the Big Ten statistics reveals why Michigan's Wolverines are ranked the No. 1 team in the nation.

Michigan tops six of the eight team categories listed. The Wolverines lead the league in rushing with an average of 390.7 yards a game, in total offense with an average of 481 yards and in scoring with 192 points.

Michigan also is first in rushing defense with a yield of 80.5 yards a game, in total defense with 251.7 yards and in scoring defense having allowed but 41 points.

Michigan State is the passing leader with an average of 228.7 yards a game and Illinois leads in pass defense having allowed but 69.7 yards a game.

Purdue's Scott Dierking is the individual rushing leader, averaging 137.7 yards a game. Jeff Logan of Ohio State is averaging 115.7 yards followed by Harlan Huckleby of Michigan at 114, Kent Kitzmann of Minnesota at 105.5 and James Coleman of Illinois at 101 yards a game.

Mike Carroll of Wisconsin leads the league in passing and total offense. Carroll has completed 54 passes for 724 yards and eight touchdowns. He is averaging 200.7 yards a game.

Northwestern's Scott Yelvington is the receiving leader with 16 catches but Kirk Gibson of Michigan State, although in fourth place, has 12 receptions for 360 yards or an average of 30 yards a catch.

Coleman is the scoring leader with 38 points, two more than Bob Wood of Michigan, Pete Johnson of Ohio State and Dierking. Wood has scored all of his points on kicks with 24 conversions and four field goals.

Russell Pope of Purdue is averaging 31.5 yards on kickoff returns and Jim Smith is the punt return leader with an average of 17.9 yards.

Dick Mlaager of Wisconsin continues to lead in punting with a 47.0 yard average. Tom Skladany of Ohio State is second at 43.6.

NINE FOR NINE

Lewis Flick, playing for Little Rock, Ark., in a Southern Association game in 1946, made nine hits in nine trips to the plate. The game went 19 innings.

SEASON'S OVER: Bill Madlock, the Chicago Cubs third baseman and the National League batting champ for the second year in a row, teaches his son, Stephen, 3, how to ride bike at their Barrington, Ill., home. Madlock finished with a .339 average. (AP Wirephoto)

'Mud' Jackson Likes To Stick

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Meet the man some call "Mud."

You get to call Robert Jackson "Mud" if you can break 4.6 in the 40 because that's what the Texas A&M middle linebacker runs. It means he can't catch you.

People aren't sure how he got that nickname but slow teammates just call him "Jack."

To get the 6-foot-2, 226-pound Jackson into something slower Aggie teammates don't try.

Jackson was mad last week at Illinois. Twenty-seven tackles by Jackson later, the Texas Aggies had defeated the Illini, 14-7. Nineteen of the tackles were solo efforts. The performance earned Jackson honors as The Associated Press National Lineman of the Week.

"It's like Bear Bryant used to say at Alabama about Lee Roy Jordan," said Aggie defensive coordinator Melvin Robertson. "If he stays in bounds, Lee Roy will get him. Well, if he stays in bounds, Jack will get him."

The slow-footed Robertson doesn't call Jackson "Mud," either.

"Robert has come on strong," said Robertson. "He didn't start until the fourth game last year because he came out of junior college and had a lot to learn. Now, I've had seven pro scouts tell me he will be a first-round draft choice and the first linebacker to go."

"Jack is the best I've coached in 25 years. We had two All-Americans last year in Ed Siminini and Garth Ten Napel. Jack is faster than Ed and stronger than both Ed and Garth."

Robertson said it's almost impossible to get Jackson off his feet "unless you hold him or trip him."

Jackson, a senior from Houston, is married and has two children. He stayed out of school a year and worked at manual labor.

"This kid has done it the hard way," said Robertson, who had the top defensive team in the nation in 1975. "He's got great ability and he's sharp. It just took him awhile to come around. Yeah, he'll make it in pro ball."

'Best All Around Back' Lytle No. 1 On Bo's List

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Billy Taylor, Ed Shuttlesworth, Gordon Bell, Chuck Heater — those are some of the standout running backs who have come and gone at the University of Michigan during Coach Bo Schembechler's eight seasons as head football coach.

Better overall than any of them, he says, is Rob Lytle.

Lytle, a senior who runs at both fullback and tailback, is Michigan's offensive "Champion of the Week" for his performance in last week's 31-0 triumph over Wake Forest. It is his second such team honor this year.

"I would say at this point he's the best all around back, considering blocking, running and receiving," said Schembechler, whose team is ranked No. 1 in the country.

"If that guy isn't an All-American I don't know who is."

Lytle has run mostly at fullback the last two seasons. Tailbacks usually get most of the publicity and most of the yardage, so Lytle hasn't received much national recognition.

"He's something," Schembechler said. "You gotta watch him every down. He does something on every snap."

If Lytle isn't running with both power and speed he's usually nailing someone with a fine block. He also fakes well and is a good pass receiver.

Against Wake Forest the 6-foot-1, 195-pounder from Fremont, Ohio, rushed for 110 yards in just 14 carries. He scored touchdowns on runs of nine and 25 yards. For the season he is second on the team behind tailback Harlan Huckleby in rushing with 339 yards in 59 attempts for a 5.7 average.

Lytle has scored five touchdowns and made many key blocks to help Huckleby gain much of his 456 yards rushing and five TDs.

Comparisons may be ambiguous because of the different eras, but Lytle moved past fabled Tom Harmon and into fifth-place on the all-time Michigan rushing list Saturday. He has piled up 2,187 yards in his four-year career.

In the next few weeks Lytle could move past Shuttlesworth and Ron Johnson into third place in Michigan rushing annals.

He carried the ball only three times as a freshman. The next season he gained 807 yards at tailback. As both a fullback and tailback last year he totalled 1,055 yards.

"I think more of blocking because I'm not the biggest fullback around," Lytle said. "My running takes care of itself because our line always gives me a crease."

Lytle, who was once clocked in 9.6 seconds in the 100-yard dash, is a business major who plans to operate his family's clothing store in Fremont — if he doesn't first wind up as a professional football player.

"No football would be great," he said. "The publicity would help our business."

Michigan Statistics Verify Top Ranking

CHICAGO (AP) — A glance at the Big Ten statistics reveals why Michigan's Wolverines are ranked the No. 1 team in the nation.

Michigan tops six of the eight team categories listed. The Wolverines lead the league in rushing with an average of 390.7 yards a game, in total offense with an average of 481 yards and in scoring with 192 points.

Michigan also is first in rushing defense with a yield of 50.5 yards a game, in total defense with 251.7 yards and in scoring defense having allowed but 41 points.

Michigan State is the passing leader with an average of 228.7 yards a game and Illinois leads in pass defense having allowed but 69.7 yards a game.

Purdue's Scott Dierking is the individual rushing leader, averaging 137.7 yards a game. Jeff Logan of Ohio State is averaging 115.7 yards followed by Harlan Huckleby of Michigan at 114, Kent Kitzmann of Minnesota at 105.5 and James Coleman of Illinois at 101 yards a game.

Mike Carroll of Wisconsin leads the league in passing and total offense. Carroll has completed 54 passes for 724 yards and eight touchdowns. He is averaging 200.7 yards a game.

Northwestern's Scott Yelvington is the receiving leader with 16 catches but Kirk Gibson of Michigan State, although in fourth place, has 12 receptions for 360 yards or an average of 30 yards a catch.

Coleman is the scoring leader with 38 points, two more than Bob Wood of Michigan, Pete Johnson of Ohio State and Dierking. Wood has scored all of his points on kicks with 24 conversions and four field goals.

Russell Pope of Purdue is averaging 31.5 yards on kickoff returns and Jim Smith is the punt return leader with an average of 17.9 yards.

Dick Milaeger of Wisconsin continues to lead in punting with a 47.0 yard average. Tom Skladany of Ohio State is second at 43.6.

NINE FOR NINE

Lewis Flick, playing for Little Rock, Ark., in a Southern Association game in 1946, made nine hits in nine trips to the plate. The game went 19 innings.

'Mud' Jackson Likes To Stick

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (AP) — Meet the man some call "Mud."

You get to call Robert Jackson "Mud" if you can break 4.6 in the 40 because that's what the Texas A&M middle linebacker runs. It means he can't catch you.

People aren't sure how he got that nickname but slow teammates just call him "Jack."

To get the 6-foot-2, 228-pound Jackson irate is something slower Aggie teammates don't try.

Jackson was mad last week at Illinois. Twenty-seven tackles by Jackson later, the Texas Aggies had defeated the Illini, 14-7. Nineteen of the tackles were solo efforts. The performance earned Jackson honors as The Associated Press National Lineman of the Week.

"It's like Bear Bryant used to say at Alabama about Lee Roy Jordan," said Aggie defensive coordinator Melvin Robertson. "If he stays in bounds, Lee Roy will get him. Well, if he stays in bounds, Jack will get him."

The slow-footed Robertson doesn't call Jackson "Mud," either. "Robert has come on strong," said Robertson. "He didn't start until the fourth game last year because he came out of junior college and had a lot to learn. Now, I've had seven pro scouts tell me he will be a first-round draft choice and the first linebacker to go."

"Jack is the best I've coached in 25 years. We had two All-Americans last year in Ed Simonini and Garth Ten Napel. Jack is faster than Ed and stronger than both Ed and Garth."

Robertson said it's almost impossible to get Jackson off his feet "unless you hold him or trip him."

Jackson, a senior from Houston, is married and has two children. He stayed out of school a year and worked at manual labor.

"This kid has done it the hard way," said Robertson, who had the top defensive team in the nation in 1975. "He's got great ability and he's sharp. It just took him awhile to come around. Yeah, he'll make it in pro ball."

Eau Claire Man Charged With Fruit Stand Holdup

CASSOPOLIS — An Eau Claire man was arraigned in Fourth District court here yesterday on a charge of armed robbery in connection with the alleged holdup Sept. 19 of the Totem Fruit stand west of Dowagiac.

Kevin Bailey, 22, Bailey road, Eau Claire, was charged with the holdup in which a lone gunman, armed with a sawed-off shotgun, took an estimated $2,500 to $3,000 from fruit stand owners Mr. and Mrs. Robert Froehlich of Berrien Center.

No one was hurt in the robbery. The arrest and arraignment yesterday by the Cass county sheriff's metro crime unit came after a tip led to the recovery of a sawed-off shotgun at the bottom of a private pond near Eau Claire, deputies said today.

Deputies said they are looking for another man believed involved as a get-away driver in the holdup.

The money allegedly taken in the robbery has not been recovered yet, deputies added.

In court yesterday, Bailey demanded a preliminary hearing and bond was set at $500. The fruit stand is located at the corner of M-62 and Indian Lake road, about three miles west of Dowagiac.

Cass sheriff's detectives said state police from the Benton Harbor post and South Bend police aided in the investigation.

Two Face No More Charges

PAW PAW — No further charges are to be filed against two men arrested last week after a police responded to a burglar alarm at a rural Bangor house, according to the Van Buren prosecutor's office.

Arrested on Sept. 30 were Wendel King, 30, 233 Main, Lawrence, on a charge of being drunk and disorderly and Teddy Swanner, 18, CR-376, Bangor, on a charge of reckless driving.

Both men pleaded guilty to the charges in Seventh District court. King was fined $30 by Judge William C. Buhl while Swanner's sentencing is scheduled for Oct. 25.

State police at Paw Paw said the men were arrested after police responded to a burglar alarm at the Eva Johnson residence on CR-681 near Bangor.

Officers said they observed a car driving away from the house and when the driver saw the patrol car, he turned east on 48th avenue at a high rate of speed.

The car was stopped a few minutes later and the two men were taken into custody, troopers said.

Police said a small bathroom window at the house had been broken, but it appeared nothing had been taken.

Bungled Holdup Charged

CASSOPOLIS — A South Bend, Ind., man was arrested on a charge of attempted armed robbery last night in connection with the reported bungled holdup of a Dowagiac-area bar in August, according to Cass county sheriff's deputies.

The sheriff's metro crime unit said Ronnie Lard, 25, was arrested in Berrien county after Cass sheriff's detectives got a tip on his whereabouts.

He was arrested in connection with the unsuccessful attempted holdup Aug. 5 of the Timberline bar on Indian lake.

Detectives said that on that night, a man armed with a pistol came in the back door about closing time, held the gun to a cook's head and demanded money.

The bar's owner, Charles Burger, and the cook then pummeled the holdup man and he left without any loot, detectives said.

Duane Harfert Appointed To Weesaw Zoning Post

NEW TROY — Duane Harfert was named to the Weesaw township zoning board by the township board last night to replace Fred Sommers.

Harfert, California road, New Troy, will serve on the board until Dec. 31, 1979. Sommers resigned from the zoning unit at the township board's September meeting because of poor health.

In other areas, the board denied a request by 15 River Valley high school students that a shelter be placed in the township hall parking lot, Glendora road, to protect them from the elements while waiting for school buses. John Payne, township clerk and transportation director for the school system, said buses will instead be rerouted to drive past the New Troy elementary school and pick up the high school students there.

A request by Craig Smith, fire chief, to purchase equipment totaling $75 was approved by the board.

Witham Bartholomew, building inspector, reported issuing seven building permits for the month of September, with an estimated total construction value of $76,262.

Lettuce Prices Soaring

DETROIT (AP) — Wholesale prices for iceberg lettuce reached record highs this week, and retail prices could soon rise as high as 78 cents a head, according to several wholesalers in Detroit's Union Produce Terminal. Heavy rains and flooding in California's Salinas Valley are blamed for the increase, which bumped wholesale prices up to $18 per 24-head case in Detroit and $24 per case in Grand Rapids. That's more than triple normal wholesale levels, officials said. Damage in the Salinas Valley fields is estimated in the millions of dollars. Other crops, including tomatoes, green peppers and some winter grapes, have also been hurt, said Rick Zerillo, vice president of N.J. Zerillo wholesale distributors. Since the flooding also damaged newly seeded lettuce fields slated for December harvest, supplies could be tight through the remainder of the year, Zerillo said.

JUDY: Finally fallen in love again.

ANN-MARGRET & ROGER: A twosome?

GAVIN: Somebody other than O'Neal.

Judy Collins Finally In Love...Again

Q: I think Judy Collins is one of the most beautiful singers in the world today but I never read much about her personal life. — L.U., Philadelphia.

A: A dedicated feminist and activist, Judy is always busy with her causes in addition to performing and song writing. After several broken love affairs, the most painful with actor Stacy Keach, Judy has finally fallen in love again — this time with New York film reviewer Jerry Oster and they're living a very simple existence.

Q: What does Gen. James Gavin think of the casting of Ryan O'Neal to play the general in that new movie, "A Bridge Too Far"? — P.I., Santa Barbara, Calif.

A: Although Gavin has willingly posed with O'Neal and is bringing back from Holland an autographed picture of Ryan for Mrs. Gavin, privately he's not so sure of the choice. Gavin would have preferred Robert Redford.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: Why is Ann-Margret's husband, Roger Smith, considering a return to acting? Producer Mort Guttentag, who personally has made about $5 million on the play "Same Time, Next Year," has offered the film role to Ann-Margret on one condition: She and Roger must agree to do the play on Broadway for a limited engagement first. Allan Carr, Ann-Margret's very smart agent, is considering the deal.

TRAGIC ENDING: A well-known television entertainer went ahead and had plastic surgery even though doctors advised against it because of a serious medical complication. As a result, she now has to live with the tragic consequences of her decision.

Q: Someone told me that Angie Dickinson and Bert Rockach, who separated recently, had a rather stormy marriage. True? Also, was either one married before? — A.A., New York City.

A: Despite all the reports about their being the ideal Hollywood marriage — which obviously took a drubbing when they separated — we've learned that their marriage was in fact tempestuous all along. Their separation, by the way, is a "trial" to see if they will make it permanent.

Q: Just finished Barbara Hewar's novel, "Making Ends Meet," and wondered whether she would like to marry a politician and live that Washington life again. — R.T., Hicksville, N.Y.

A: Barbara says there's no way she would ever consider marrying a politician. She told a British visitor recently that she didn't trust the polls and added,

PEOPLE

By Robin Adams Sloan

"I don't like the duplicity of their public life versus their private life."

Q: My favorite TV actress is Nancy Culp, who was a regular on the Beverly Hillsbillies and more recently on "Sanford and Son." Do you think she'll ever get a series of her own? — V.M., Tucson.

A: Nancy may say goodbye to show business soon. We hear she's planning to run for Congress from Pennsylvania.

Q: Actress Debbie Reynolds always seems to be working so hard. She was married to that millionaire show tycoon, so it can't be money, right? — S.W., Trenton.

A: Wrong. Not only didn't Debbie get a penny from shoe man Harry Karl, but she has spent the last five years paying off some $3 million of his debts and that took almost all she saved and earned. Karl's company went under while he and Debbie were still married, and under California's community property laws, husband and wife are responsible for each other's debts.

Going Back Today In History

By ASSOCIATED PRESS
Today is Thursday, October 7, the 281st day of 1976. There are 85 days left in the year.
Today's highlight in history:
On this date in 1765, the Stamp Act Congress convened in New York to draw up colonial grievances against England.
On this date:
In 1898, U.S. troops occupied the Cuban city of Havana during the Spanish-American War.
In 1908, the island of Crete proclaimed union with Greece.
In 1935, the League of Nations declared Italy an aggressor following its invasion of Ethiopia.
In 1940, German forces occupied Romania in World War II.
In 1950, the United Nations General Assembly approved an Allied advance north of the 38th Parallel in the Korean War.
In 1963, President John F. Kennedy signed the nuclear test-ban treaty with Britain and the Soviet Union.
Ten years ago: President Lyndon B. Johnson called on the Soviet Union for a mutual reduction of forces in Europe as a step to improve East-West relations.
Five years ago: U.S. B-52 bombers were pounding enemy positions in Laos and Cambodia as well as Vietnam.
One year ago: Congress overrode President Ford's veto of a 2.7 billion dollar school lunch and child nutrition program.

Today's birthdays: Actress June Allyson is 53. Writer Helen MacInnes is 69.
Thought for today: I tell you folks, all politics is apple sauce. — Will Rogers, American humorist, 1879-1935.

Bicentennial footnote: Two hundred years ago today, the newspaper, New York Mercury — in British hands — reported that Royal forces were in control of most of Manhattan and all of Staten Island and Long Island and surrounding waters.

Introducing the 1977 Dodge cars and trucks.

If Dodge hasn't got your new car, nobody has.

Your local Dodge Dealer has just raised the curtain on the new '77 models. And Dodge has never looked better. Whatever kind of new car you have in mind, Dodge has it. Spacious. Sporty. Even downright sexy. If Dodge hasn't got your new car, nobody has!

The unbelievable Aspen wagon.

Your Dodge Dealer invites you to come in and see the remarkable small wagon that's so roomy it doesn't seem small at all.

Charger, for night people.

Meet the car that was designed with the evening in mind. Charger, the sleek Dodge that takes over after dark.

Royal Monaco Brougham.

It's still a big country. There's still a big Dodge! For '77, Dodge still gives you a full-sized car with full-sized room and full-sized comfort.

Monaco. More room for the money.

Dodge introduces the luxurious car that's not too big outside, but has room for six inside.

Pickups that have got it where it counts.

As usual, Dodge brings you the pickups that have a lot to offer when it comes to price and payload.

Sportsman. Great for kids and cargo.

Whether you're planning on moving passengers or packages, Dodge Sportsman has the room you need.

Welcome to the new Dodge cars and trucks for 1977.

JUDY: Finally fallen in love again.

ANN-MARGARET & ROGER: A twosome?

GAVIN: Somebody other than O'Neal.

Judy Collins Finally In Love...Again

Q: I think Judy Collins is one of the most beautiful singers in the world today but I never read much about her personal life. — L.U., Philadelphia.

A: A dedicated feminist and activist, Judy is always busy with her causes in addition to performing and song writing. After several broken love affairs, the most painful with actor Stacy Keach, Judy has finally fallen in love again — this time with New York film reviewer Jerry Oster and they're living a very simple existence.

Q: What does Gen. James Gavin think of the casting of Ryan O'Neal to play the general in that new movie, "A Bridge Too Far"? — P.L., Santa Barbara, Calif.

A: Although Gavin has willingly posed with O'Neal and is bringing back from Holland an autographed picture of Ryan for Mrs. Gavin, privately he's not so sure of the choice. Gavin would have preferred Robert Redford.

QUESTION YOU NEVER ASKED: Why is Ann-Margret's husband, Roger Smith, considering a return to acting? Q: Someone told me that Angie Dickinson and Burt Bacharach, who separated recently, had a rather stormy marriage. True? Also, was either one married before? — A.A., New York City.

A: Despite all the reports about their being the ideal Hollywood marriage — which obviously took a drubbing when they separated — we've learned that their marriage was in fact tempestuous all along. Their separation, by the way, is a "trial" to see if they will make it permanent.

NEW BUILDING: Open house is planned for Saturday, Oct. 9, at new building of Gobles Alloy Steel Co., on M-40, two miles south of Gobles. New building is next to ruins of firm's plant which was struck by fire June 2. New structure cost $76,000 and is 80 by 120 feet. Standing near building are Glen Evans, left, and Elwin Weston, two of men who started firm in 1969. Other two are Gerald Sunlin and Joe Koziol. (Margaret Norman photo)

Ambulance Crews Get Pay Increase

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — Salary increases for full-time ambulance attendants employed by South Haven township were approved by the township board last night during its regular monthly meeting.

The board authorized a starting salary of $8,064 with a maximum to $8,400. The previous starting salary, in effect since December, 1974, was $7,680.

In related matters, the board abolished the position of ambulance administrator, saying they believed each of the service's five full-time employees should have an opportunity to supervise the program. Under the new policy each employee will be in charge for one month at a time. Previously, employee Joel Carpenter was designated administrator and received an additional $600 a year for the position. Under the new policy there is no extra pay.

In other matters, the board approved a new policy of paying elected and appointed officials after services have been rendered instead of in advance. Previously, these officials were paid at the beginning of the month for services to be performed.

The board awarded an unexpired contract for maintaining the township landfill to Rick Jensen of South Haven for $150 per month. The previous contractor, Land-Art company of South Haven, has gone out of business, according to township officials. The agreement with Jensen expires in January.

The board said it did not object if E-Jay Thermo Products, Inc., Blue Star Highway, sought permission from the city to tap its water and sewer lines.

The Van Buren Sheriff department was given permission to store boats and snowmobiles in the township hall.

Trustee Amelia Miller presented an opinion by the Michigan Township Association (MTA) that a current practice of the Community Recreation and Education council of assessing a surcharge to program participants who live outside the city of South Haven is illegal.

Mrs. Miller has questioned the pay of charging township residents an extra $2 for recreation programs because the township does not contribute. The program is co-sponsored by the city of South Haven and South Haven school board. Townships within the school district have declined requests to donate to the program.

Herbert Norton, deputy executive director of the MTA, said in his opinion that the practice is illegal since the township residents contribute indirectly to the program through the taxes they pay to the school.

Norton also expressed the opinion that the township could contract with the school to provide recreation programs for township residents as long as the township had representation on any board governing the program.

Sent To Prison

DETROIT (AP) — Dearborn Heights building contractor Eugene F. Ellefson, has been sentenced to six months in prison and fined $5,000 for federal income tax evasion in 1970.

Ellefson, 52, was indicted by a federal grand jury June 8 for evading $12,544 in income taxes for 1970, 1971 and 1972.

Two Women Are Top 4-H Leaders

Mrs. Harold Benedix of Benton township and Mrs. Ward Shuler of Baroda were named the Outstanding 4-H Leaders of Berrien county Tuesday night at the 26th annual 4-H leaders recognition banquet.

50 Acres Rezoned At Gobles

GOBLES — The Gobles city commission last night approved rezoning over 50 acres of land here at request of the owners of the Superior market.

Gordon Rumery, co-owner of the market, said the site was being considered as a relocation site for the market, but he said plans were still tentative. He said he expected to make a decision on relocation soon.

The property is located on the south edge of the city on the east side of M-40. The market is currently at M-40 and State street, about a quarter of a mile away.

Making the rezoning request was commission member David Rumery, son of Gordon, who abstained from voting on the matter and who left the room during council deliberations on the request to rezone the tract from agricultural to commercial use.

The council was told that Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Rumery and sons have an option to purchase the tract of land from Donald Stoneburner if rezoning was approved. David Rumery presented the council with a statement signed by all property owners within 400 feet of the land stating they had no objection to the rezoning.

In other areas, the council approved increasing its insurance coverage of city-owned buildings and contents from $45,000 to $90,000. The hike in coverage will mean an increase of $67 in the annual premium paid to Michigan Mutual Insurance Co., represented in Gobles by agent Don Lipp.

The council instructed its attorney to draft a new ordinance that will require property owners to cut unsightly weeds. The proposed ordinance will stipulate that property owners will first be requested to cut the weeds. If the request is not honored, city crews will cut the weeds and property owners will be billed for the costs in their tax bills.

The council authorized signs be painted on trash barrels in the city prohibiting the dumping of trash in the containers. Some city residents have been dumping garbage in the barrels, the council said, and after the signs are painted city police will be able to ticket offenders.

Two Are Honored For Papers

A Lake Michigan College sophomore and an LMC alumna have been awarded prizes by the Michigan Society of Radiologic Technologists for the excellence of their papers read at the society's recent state convention at Lansing.

Carrie Fiss, of Three Oaks, an LMC radiologic technology sophomore, was awarded a third place prize for a paper by a student technologist, "Emotional Stages of the Terminally Ill" was the title of her paper.

Cindy Wedel, of Niles, a 1976 LMC radiologic technology graduate, was awarded a first place prize for a paper by a radiologic technologist. Title of her paper was "Practical Application to Portable Radiography."

Both winners were awarded engraved trophy plaques, with the first place winner given a set of technical books. In addition, Approximately 300 radiologic technologists attended the two-day convention, Sept. 30 and Oct. 1, at Lansing.

The award is the highest honor a leader can receive at the county level and is sponsored by the St. Joseph Division of Whirlpool corporation.

Nearly 300 people jammed the Youth Memorial building in Berrien Springs Tuesday to honor the adult and teen leaders who provide to the more than 5,000 youth who participate in 4-H programs in Berrien county.

Mrs. Benedix has been a leader in the Lads & Lassies 4-H Club and has led hundreds of girls in home economics projects.

Mrs. Shuler has completed 16 years as a 4-H leader and has been involved in Spring Achievement, Girls Style shows, and a host of other areas.

Dr. Lois Lund, dean of the college of Human Ecology, Michigan State university, was the featured speaker for the event. She told those present of the importance of the home in educating children.

Other leaders recognized for their service with 4-H Clover Awards were Harry Blaisdell of Stevensville, 30 years; Virginia Radewald of Niles, Frances Blaisdell of Stevensville and Genevieve Bixby of Berrien Springs, all 25 years; Genevieve Rybicki of Sodus, Ina Woodrick of Benton Harbor, Shirley Busick and Doris Letcher of Buchanan and Earlene and Ward Shuler of Baroda, 20 years.

Transfer Request Denied

BY DENNIS COGSWELL
Paw Paw Bureau

LAWRENCE — A request by Ronald Novak that his property be transferred from the Bloomingdale to the Paw Paw school district was denied last night by the Van Buren intermediate school board.

Novak, who lives near School Section lake in Waverly township, said in his request that his two sons attended St. Mary's school in Paw Paw and wanted to stay with their classmates in the future at Paw Paw's Michigan Avenue middle school.

Board members ruled that staying in the Bloomingdale district would not place any undue hardship on the children.

In other areas, the board approved the hiring of Susan Bensinger of Kalamazoo as a school social worker at an annual salary of $12,053, and Shirley Drago of Grand Junction as an occupational therapist at a yearly salary of $14,316. Both salaries will be prorated over the remainder of the school year.

William Cutting, a certified public accountant, reviewed the annual audit of the district's finances. He recommended changes in accounting, purchasing, and investment procedures.

The board approved new policies dealing with property transfers and hearings on these transfers, purchasing, and disposal of school equipment and supplies.

Board members also passed a motion seeking approval from the state Municipal Finance commission to transfer $7,299 left over from the 1969 debt retirement fund to the 1976 debt retirement fund. The 1969 fund, which provided for construction of the intermediate district offices, has been paid off. The 1976 fund is for construction of a school for the handicapped.

The board changed its next regular meeting from Nov. 3 to Nov. 10 after two board members said they would be unable to attend on Nov. 3.

Concordia Picks New President

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The board of electors of Concordia College voted Wednesday to elect the Rev. Eugene Krentz of Ann Arbor, Mich., as the school's new president.

Krentz, 44, now a faculty member at Concordia Lutheran College in Ann Arbor, did not immediately accept or reject the new position.

He would succeed the Rev. Walter Stuenkel as president of the school, a junior college of the Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod.

Weed Harvest Set At Paw Paw Lake

COLOMA — The Paw Paw Lake Improvement board last night voted to undertake a one-year weed harvest program on Paw Paw Lake and to proceed with the preparation of a tentative assessment roll to pay for the program.

The board action followed a three-hour public hearing attended by 75 lake property owners, half of whom left the hearing prior to a voice vote by the remaining owners to undertake the project.

The program as outlined by John Matthews, board secretary, includes renting a weed harvesting machine and other equipment at a cost of $32,768, with the board's total expenses for the project tentatively pegged at $56,668. The total would be assessed to lakefront property owners.

The assessment roll, based on the costs for the project must be reviewed by Berrien Circuit Judge William S. White prior to the board's holding a public hearing on the assessments, based on a benefit basis.

The harvesting operation has been in use in Oakland county for four years, according to board members, and has proven to be successful in the removing of weeds. The state department of natural resources has endorsed the Oakland county program, according to board members.

Matthews said under proposed plans, at the end of the first year the lake board would hold a public hearing to determine if the program should be continued over a five-year time period.

If continued, the board then would decide if the equipment should be purchased for $82,000, with the first year's rental cost being applied toward the expense.

Board Chairman Robert Jackson said the equipment for the operation involved a harvester, transport barge, and shore conveyor to unload the weed growth into refuse containers.

Tentative date for the public hearing on the special assessment roll was given as Nov. 15. The program would be ready to start by April 1, but board members indicated a June 1, 1977 starting date is being considered.

During the public hearing, Dr. Gerald Snow, of Andrews university, Berrien Springs, outlined the results of his study on the lake which included seven recommendations for improving the lake.

In the 27-page report, costing $2,500, Dr. Snow's recommendations included a voluntary ban on all fertilizer use within 500 feet of the lake and any drains entering the lake; no new construction in the drainage basin area without a sewer connection; and investigating problems of nutrient and sediment inputs from the Branch and Derby drain into Paw Paw Lake.

Dr. Snow also recommended aquatic weed harvesting for the removal of weeds from the lake area and a control of the Paw Paw river branch by a flood control dam and the construction of a new controlled outlet at the southwest end of the lake, to decrease nutrient loading of the lake resulting with the weed growth.

Jackson said the recommendations will be taken under advisement by the lake board.

Bloomingdale Eyes 1946 Water System

BLOOMINGDALE — The Bloomingdale village council last night blew the dust off a 1946 water system plan and said it would seek federal funding of the long-standing proposed project.

The council announced that it will update the 30-year-old plan and seek funds under the federal public works act. The 1946 plans, still on file with Could Engineering, Flint, are to be updated and a cost estimate is to be obtained.

The plans were shelved originally because the village felt the estimated cost, $65,958 for a water tower, pump house and distribution system, was too high.

At the present time, the village has no water system.

In other areas, a quit claim deed was presented to the village by Stephen and Lila Dickerson giving about one acre of land to the village free of charge. The land, south of Haven creek, borders the Bloomingdale park and recreation area.

Purchase of two used typewriters, at a total cost of $40, for use by the village clerk and treasurer, was approved.

The council agreed to pay a $20 assessment to the Michigan Alliance of Small Communities at the group's meeting, Oct. 28, in Hart.

The next meeting of the council will be held on Nov. 10.

Sodus Open House Friday

SODUS — The Sodus township fire department will hold an open house Friday, Oct. 8, from 8:30 to 8 p.m., in connection with Fire Prevention week. The open house will be held at the fire station on Pipestone road, according to Fire Chief Cal Bennett.

GRAND OPENING: Larry Ballard, president of Berrien Springs Auto Parts, plans grand opening of business next Monday and Tuesday, from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. each day. Construction on 4,500 square foot building at 1900 St. Joseph road, north of Berrien Springs, was just recently completed. Business was formerly located at 107 East Ferry street in downtown Berrien Springs. (Staff photo)

NEW BUILDING: Open house is planned for Saturday, Oct. 9, at new building of Gobles Alloy Steel Co., on M-40, two miles south of Gobles. New building is next to ruins of firm's plant which was struck by fire June 2. New structure cost $76,000 and is 80 by 120 feet. Standing near building are Glen Evans, left, and Elwin Weston, two of men who started firm in 1969. Other two are Gerald Sunlin and Joe Koziol. (Margaret Norman photo)

Ambulance Crews Get Pay Increase

By TOM RENNER
South Haven Correspondent
SOUTH HAVEN — Salary increases for full-time ambulance attendants employed by South Haven township were approved by the township board last night during its regular monthly meeting.

The board authorized a starting salary of $8,064 with a maximum to $8,400. The previous starting salary, in effect since December, 1974, was $7,680.

In related matters, the board abolished the position of ambulance administrator, saying they believed each of the service's five full-time employees should have an opportunity to supervise the program. Under the new policy each employee will be in charge for one month at a time. Previously, employee Joel Carpenter was designated administrator and received an additional $600 a year for the position. Under the new policy there is no extra pay.

In other matters, the board approved a new policy of paying elected and appointed officials after services have been rendered instead of in advance. Previously, these officials were paid at the beginning of the month for services to be performed.

The board awarded an unexpired contract for maintaining the township landfill to Rick Jensen of South Haven for $150 per month. The previous contractor, Land-Art company of South Haven, has gone out of business, according to township officials. The agreement with Jensen expires in January.

The board said it did not object if E-Jay Thermo Products, Inc., Blue Star Highway, sought permission from the city to tap to its water and sewer lines.

The Van Buren Sheriff department was given permission to store boats and snowmobiles in the township hall.

Trustee Amelia Miller presented an opinion by the Michigan Township association (MTA) that a current practice of the Community Recreation and Education council of assessing a surcharge to program participants who live outside the city of South Haven is illegal.

Mrs. Miller has questioned the pvy of charging township residents an extra $2 for recreation programs because the township does not contribute. The program is co-sponsored by the city of South Haven and South Haven school board. Townships within the school district have declined requests to donate to the program.

Herbert Norton, deputy executive director of the MTA, said in his opinion that the practice is illegal since the township residents contribute indirectly to the program through the taxes they pay to the school.

Norton also expressed the opinion that the township could contract with the school to provide recreation programs for township residents as long as the township had representation on any board governing the program.

Sent To Prison

DETROIT (AP) — Dearborn Heights building contractor Eugene F. Ellefson, has been sentenced to six months in prison and fined $5,000 for federal income tax evasion in 1970, 1971 and 1972.

Ellefson, 52, was indicted by a federal grand jury June 8 for evading $12,544 in income taxes for 1970, 1971 and 1972.

50 Acres Rezoned At Gobles

GOBLES — The Gobles city commission last night approved rezoning over 50 acres of land here at request of the owners of the Superior market.

Gordon Rumery, co-owner of the market, said the site was being considered as a relocation site for the market, but he said plans were still tentative. He said he expected to make a decision on relocation soon.

The property is located on the south edge of the city on the east side of M-40. The market is currently at M-40 and State street, about a quarter of a mile away.

Making the rezoning request was commission member David Rumery, son of Gordon, who abstained from voting on the matter and who left the room during council deliberations on the request to rezone the tract from agricultural to commercial use.

Tabor Hill PACA License Suspended

Tabor Hill Vineyard and Winecellar, Inc., of Buchanan, cannot buy grapes in interstate commerce until a Washington state grower who shipped grapes to Tabor Hill last fall is paid, according to the United States Department of Agriculture.

The USDA announced today that Tabor Hill's Perishable Agricultural Commodities Act (PACA) license has been suspended. The act requires that interstate traders in fruit and vegetables be licensed to insure that payment is made for all items shipped.

According to John Clark, of the Chicago USDA office, Tabor Hill failed to satisfy a reparation award set by USDA in favor of the Washington grower in the amount of $10,964. "Until they pay the money (and they have taken some steps to do it by paying about $4,000) they can't purchase grapes in interstate commerce," said Clark.

House Nixes State Dog Racing

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House has rejected the latest attempt to legalize dog racing in Michigan, despite one lawmaker's plea that it was time to

"stop discriminating against the dog."

The House voted 32-62 Wednesday against a bill that would have set up an office of greyhound sports racing and let it issue licenses for up to 10 tracks in Michigan.

Supporters said greyhound racing was a better way to raise money for state and local governments than increasing property, sales or income taxes.

But opponents warned the Michigan gambling dollar could stretch only so far, and tempting that dollar with greyhound racing could break the entire industry. Harness and thoroughbred racing industries opposed the bill for fear their own clienteles would shrink if dog racing was legalized.

Others, like Rep. Morris Hood of Detroit, warned that legalized dog racing would be just another step toward dubbing Michigan "the Las Vegas of the North." Besides harness and thoroughbred racing, the state already has legalized bingo and a lottery, and bills are pending that would approve off-track betting and casino gambling in Detroit.

Estimates were that eight greyhound racing tracks in Michigan could raise $20 million to $25 million annually for the state. Local governments in communities where the tracks were located would have received 15 per cent of the revenue from pari-mutuel betting.

House Taxation Committee Chairman Rep. George Montgomery, who sponsored the unsuccessful bill, told lawmakers that horses and dogs are considered the two animals most beneficial to human beings.

"I think the time has arrived when we should stop discriminating against the dog," he said. He also urged passage of the bill, one of several to come before the House in the past few years, to show that "we are willing to have free enterprise as part of our gambling system."

Montgomery, a Detroit Democrat, and other supporters, said dog racing entrepreneurs would not be so foolish as to build tracks too near horse racing tracks and ruin their own chances of financial success.

Five states have legalized dog racing co-existing with legalized harness and thoroughbred racing.

No Big Fallout In Michigan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Radiation fallout in Michigan since the Sept. 26 atomic explosion in China has shown "no significant increase," says state Health Director Dr. Maurice Reizen. Reizen said Wednesday that air samplings registered between two and five "picocuries" of radiation between last Thursday and Tuesday. He said that range of radiation was not much higher than the annual average of two-to-three picocuries recorded in Michigan during the the moratorium on nuclear testing in 1966-69. During the early years of the nationwide network which began sampling in 1956, annual average levels in Michigan were in the range of 10 to 12 picocuries with peaks occasionally as high as the 90's. Reizen confirmed statements from health officials across the U. S. that the slightly increased fallout from the Chinese atomic explosion poses no health threat.

15,500 Jobs Would Go With Car Ferry

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Abandonment of railroad-car ferry service across Lake Michigan could cost 11,230 jobs in Wisconsin and 3,315 jobs in Michigan, a consultant said Wednesday.

Estimates of the economic impact are based on ferry operations in 1973 when service had already deteriorated, and the statistics would be even more disturbing if based on more productive previous years, spokesmen said.

The estimates by Transportation and Economic Research Associates Inc. of Arlington, Va., were submitted to a Michigan-Wisconsin study committee which is to file recommendations in January.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is being asked by Ann Arbor Railroad and the Chesapeake & Ohio for permission to end ferry service between Milwaukee, Manitowoc and Kewaunee, and Frankfort, Mich., and Ludington, Mich.

Asil Gezen, president of the research firm, said the economic impact would be hardest on Wisconsin.

Based on ferry business in 1973, the last year for which full statistics are available, Gezen said, Wisconsin could lose:

—About $4.41 million annually in transportation and shipping savings, $172.3 million annually in industrial earnings and $17.56 million annually in state taxes.

Michigan, he said, could lose annually:

—About $4.65 million in shipping savings, $57.7 million in industrial earnings and $4.53 million in taxes.

The figures reflect businessmen's arguments that cargo costs would soar if grain, manufactured goods and other items now crossing the lake on ferried railroad cars had to travel by rail or truck around the southern end of the lake.

The study committee chairman, Milwaukee milling company president Charles Krause, said the statistics are bad enough without wondering how much worse they would be were they based on busier years prior to 1973.

Gas Price Holding Stead

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The price of regular gasoline in the state remained at an average 62.8 cents a gallon for the third consecutive week, according to the Auto Club of Michigan. The club's weekly survey of 300 stations along major tourist routes found this week's regular price two-tenths of a cent below the all-time high recorded in mid-September. The prices for regular fuel ranged from 53.9 cents to 68.9 cents a gallon, the club said. At self-serve stations, regular fuel averaged 58.9 cents a gallon.

Mental Patient Rights

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state attorney general has ruled that people transferred to mental health facilities from prisons or criminal courts are entitled to the same rights as other patients and cannot automatically be segregated. But Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley also said more stringent security measures may be used with patients transferred from prison, found incompetent to stand trial or those found not guilty by reason of insanity, if needed to protect other patients. Kelley, responding to queries from state mental health and corrections officials, said rules governing treatment of mental health patients cover people charged with crimes and transferred to mental health facilities. The queries came from Donald Smith, director of the Department of Mental Health, and Perry Johnson, director of the Department of Corrections. Kelley said those rights can be limited only to keep other patients safe.

THE RCA ColorTrak CHALLENGE

House Nixes State Dog Racing

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The House has rejected the latest attempt to legalize dog racing in Michigan, despite one lawmaker's plea that it was time to

"stop discriminating against the dog."

The House voted 32-62 Wednesday against a bill that would have set up an office of greyhound sports racing and let it issue licenses for up to 10 tracks in Michigan.

Supporters said greyhound racing was a better way to raise money for state and local governments than increasing property, sales or income taxes.

But opponents warned the Michigan gambling dollar could stretch only so far, and tempting that dollar with greyhound racing could break the entire industry.

Harness and thoroughbred racing industries opposed the bill for fear their own clientele would shrink if dog racing was legalized.

Others, like Rep. Morris Hood of Detroit, warned that legalized dog racing would be just another step toward dubbing Michigan "the Las Vegas of the North." Besides harness and thoroughbred racing, the state already has legalized bingo and a lottery, and bills are pending that would approve off-track betting and casino gambling in Detroit.

Estimates were that eight greyhound racing tracks in Michigan could raise $20 million to $25 million annually for the state. Local governments in communities where the tracks were located would have received 15 per cent of the revenue from pari-mutuel betting.

House Taxation Committee Chairman Rep. George Montgomery, who sponsored the unsuccessful bill, told lawmakers that horses and dogs are considered the two animals most beneficial to human beings.

"I think the time has arrived when we should stop discriminating against the dog," he said. He also urged passage of the bill, one of several to come before the House in the past few years, to show that "we are willing to have free enterprise as part of our gambling system."

Montgomery, a Detroit Democrat, and other supporters, said dog racing entrepreneurs would not be so foolish as to build tracks too near horse racing tracks and ruin their own chances of financial success.

Five states have legalized dog racing co-existing with legalized harness and thoroughbred racing.

No Big Fallout In Michigan

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Radiation fallout in Michigan since the Sept. 26 atomic explosion in China has shown "no significant increase," says state Health Director Dr. Maurice Reizen. Reizen said Wednesday that air samplings registered between two and five "picocuries" of radiation between last Thursday and Tuesday. He said that range of radiation was not much higher than the annual average of two-to-three picocuries recorded in Michigan during the the moratorium on nuclear testing in 1966-69. During the early years of the nationwide network which began sampling in 1956, annual average levels in Michigan were in the range of 10 to 12 picocuries with peaks occasionally as high as the 90's. Reizen confirmed statements from health officials across the U. S. that the slightly increased fallout from the Chinese atomic explosion poses no health threat.

DIES: Movie and television actress Barbara Nichols died Tuesday night in a Hollywood hospital where she had been in a coma, her family said Wednesday. She appeared in 28 films, including "Sweet Smell of Success" and "Pal Joey." (AP Wirephoto)

15,500 Jobs Would Go With Car Ferry

MILWAUKEE (AP) — Abandonment of railroad-car ferry service across Lake Michigan could cost 11,230 jobs in Wisconsin and 3,315 jobs in Michigan, a consultant said Wednesday.

Estimates of the economic impact are based on ferry operations in 1973 when service had already deteriorated, and the statistics would be even more disturbing if based on more productive previous years, spokesmen said.

The estimates by Transportation and Economic Research Associates Inc. of Arlington, Va., were submitted to a Michigan-Wisconsin study committee which is to file recommendations in January.

The Interstate Commerce Commission is being asked by Ann Arbor Railroad and the Chesapeake & Ohio for permission to end ferry service between Milwaukee, Manitowoc and Kewaunee, and Frankfort, Mich., and Ludington, Mich.

Asil Gezen, president of the research firm, said the economic impact would be hardest on Wisconsin.

Based on ferry business in 1973, the last year for which full statistics are available, Gezen said, Wisconsin could lose:

—About $4.41 million annually in transportation and shipping savings, $172.3 million annually in industrial earnings and $17.56 million annually in state taxes.

Michigan, he said, could lose annually:

—About $4.65 million in shipping savings, $57.7 million in industrial earnings and $4.53 million in taxes.

The figures reflect businessmen's arguments that cargo costs would soar if grain, manufactured goods and other items now crossing the lake on ferried railroad cars had to travel by rail or truck around the southern end of the lake.

The study committee chairman, Milwaukee milling company president Charles Krause, said the statistics are bad enough without wondering how much worse they would be were they based on busier years prior to 1973.

FURNITURE BUSINESS: New one-man business called Rivendale Furniture Works recently opened in St. Joseph township. Proprietor Tim Cook said he specializes in antique restoration, refinishing done to order and touch-up work on fine furniture. Work can be done at his shop at 2755 Niles road or on the spot in some cases. Cook, 26, said business started from hobby of his. He has been working on furniture for 2½ years. He was formerly in janitorial maintenance business. (Staff photo)

Covey Is Bailiff In Black's Court

JAMES COVEY
New District Court Bailiff

James Covey, 40, recently began a new job as bailiff to Fifth District court Chief Judge Hugh Black, replacing Victor Stover who has since become a hospital guard.

Covey, a deputy with the sheriff's department, transferred from Berrien General hospital where he had worked as a guard for more than two years.

He has served on the South Haven auxiliary police department for seven years, has spent 21 years in the National Guard and has been a member of the Benton Harbor army reserve unit for the past three years.

Before becoming a deputy, Covey worked as a computer operator. He lives with his wife and two stepdaughters in St. Joseph.

AT BH CENTER

WMU Will Offer Minority Guidance

Western Michigan university's Office of Minority Services will begin offering counseling and guidance services to minorities at Western's regional center in Benton Harbor.

Shirley Wiggins, a graduate assistant for minority student services said she will be working at Western's regional center at 777 Riverview drive to offer counseling and guidance service to blacks, native Americans, chicanos and orientals who might want to enroll at Western or students already taking classes. She said she will be at the office from 6:30 to 9 p.m. on Thursdays and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Fridays. Anyone wanting guidance or counseling during that time should call for an appointment, she said.

A native of Benton Harbor, Miss Wiggins is the daughter of Ms. Dorothy Wiggins, 301 South McCord street. She is a former teacher in the Benton Harbor school system and is currently residing in Kalamazoo while completing her master's degree at Western.

Western's regional center in Benton Harbor offers many academic as well as career courses such as art, communication, economics, English, geography, history, physical education for men and women and teacher education courses.

Gas Price Holding Stead

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The price of regular gasoline in the state remained at an average 62.8 cents a gallon for the third consecutive week, according to the Auto Club of Michigan. The club's weekly survey of 300 stations along major tourist routes found this week's regular price two-tenths of a cent below the all-time high recorded in mid-September. The prices for regular fuel ranged from 53.9 cents to 68.9 cents a gallon, the club said. At self-serve stations, regular fuel averaged 58.9 cents a gallon.

Mental Patient Rights

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The state attorney general has ruled that people transferred to mental health facilities from prisons or criminal courts are entitled to the same rights as other patients and cannot automatically be segregated. But Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley also said more stringent security measures may be used with patients transferred from prison, found incompetent to stand trial or those found not guilty by reason of insanity, if needed to protect other patients. Kelley, responding to queries from state mental health and corrections officials, said rules governing treatment of mental health patients cover people charged with crimes and transferred to mental health facilities. The queries came from Donald Smith, director of the Department of Mental Health, and Perry Johnson, director of the Department of Corrections. Kelley said those rights can be limited only to keep other patients safe.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Pushes Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead today in a continuation of Wednesday's late technical upturn.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose about a point in the early going. Gainers took a 2-1 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was brisk. Brokers noted a carryover of buy orders from the last half hour Wednesday, when the market recovered part of a sharp earlier loss.

But they pointed out that Wall Street had to contend this morning with the government's report of a larger-than-expected 0.8 per cent rise in its wholesale price index last month.

Today's early volume leader was Ward Foods, unchanged at 6 in a 173,700-share block trade. On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.07 to a four-month low of 859.89. That extended the average's loss for the past seven trading days to 53.41 points.

Declines outnumbered advances by a 2-1 margin at the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index lost 16 to 55.04.

Big Board volume totaled 20.87 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped .63 to 99.53.

Consumers Bond Issue Announced

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Consumers Power Company has announced a $90 million bond issue which will be used to finance power plant construction and repay short-term loans.

The Jackson-based utility on Wednesday also declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share on its common stock.

The dividend is payable Nov. 20 to shareholders of record Oct. 22, 1976.

Consumers awarded an underwriting group the $90 million in first mortgage bonds, which come due Oct. 1, 2006.

The group, headed by Blyth Eastman Dillon & Co. Inc., Bache Halsey Stuart Inc., The First Boston Corp., Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., Salomon Bros. and White, Weld & Co. Inc., submitted a successful bid of 98.52 per cent to Consumers at nine per cent interest, or a cost basis of 9.1444 per cent.

Two Men Accused Of Break-In

BUCHANAN — Berrien sheriff's officers said two men were arrested Tuesday and Wednesday on charges of breaking and entering the Brookfield Golf course clubhouse, Buchanan township, Sept. 30.

Sheriff's Det. Gary Methling and Deputy Larry Casto said a television, stereo amplifier radio, and several bottles of liquor reported stolen from the clubhouse, Buchanan township, Sept. 30.

The officers said Robert L. Roderick, 20, was arrested Tuesday and demanded examination yesterday when arraigned in Berrien Fifth District court. He was freed on a $2,500 personal recognizance bond. Arrested yesterday and booked at the Berrien jail was David Dewey, 18. Officers reported both reside at 3125 Chamberlain, Buchanan.

'PROJECTS WITH INDUSTRY'

IBM is training men and women severely disabled by spinal cord injuries for jobs in data processing and computer technology. Trainees are selected with the assistance of state vocational rehabilitation departments and private rehabilitation organizations — and in some cases home bound facilities are used as training sites.

DuPont, one of the nation's 10th largest employers, is enthusiastic about the rehabilitation of the disabled. Industry benefits too by gaining a highly motivated employee with skills matched to a particular job and with a superior record on safety, loyalty, absenteeism, etc.

As for costs vs. return, in 1975 roughly 2,000 disabled workers in the programs out of about 2,500 were placed. They earned more than $10 million, paid about $2 million in federal taxes alone. The cost per placement amounts to about $1,000 — so, the programs actually pay for themselves.

In 1974, about 75 per cent of the participants in the programs found jobs, and last year nearly three out of four in the programs were placed. The job retention rate is high because, in addition to specialized training, the programs provide for a period of trial employment and adjustment.

In spite of the name "Projects With Industry," other non-profit and profit-oriented organizations, labor unions or community trade associations or training-rehabilitation facilities may participate if they have the capacity to arrange or conduct training-employment programs in a realistic work setting.

One illustration of a particularly successful project is the Human Resource Center, a private, non-profit organization in Albertson, Long Island. Its efforts are directed at placing the severely disabled in white collar jobs in the local business community. It worked with a business advisory group to select and develop specialized training equipment and a technical skills program to match closely each company's own on-the-job training program.

In four years, the Center has served 300 handicapped individuals ranging from age 18 to 64 — including paraplegics, quadriplegics, those suffering from cerebral palsy, cancer and blindness. Of these 300, 220 have been placed in jobs.

None of these workers depends on welfare, none is a drain on the economy. Their salaries range from $5,000 to $10,000 a year and they pay their own way with taxes, just as you and I.

The advantages of Projects With Industry are many. The handicapped person receives training for a particular job which industry needs filled. He is given access to a large variety of major companies and thus has more opportunities for career development and advancement. He's exposed to advanced technology that enables him to demonstrate he has the

AMC Prices Up 4.8%

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp., trying to dig out from under a lengthy sales slump, has raised suggested retail base prices on its new passenger cars an average 4.8 per cent, or $167, over 1975 levels, the auto maker announced Wednesday.

The increase is the smallest of any U.S. carmaker. Option prices on both passenger cars and Jeep vehicles at AMC went up an average 5.4 per cent.

Increases in AMC passenger car prices for 1977 range from $122 on the Pacer Sedan to $268 on the Matador four-door station wagon.

The company said suggested retail prices on its Jeep vehicles have been increased 5.7 per cent, or $276, over levels of the last model year.

AMC, the smallest of the major domestic auto companies is the only one of the four U.S. auto makers which has been losing money in recent months.

General Motors Corp. announced a $388 or 5.9 per cent average boost in base prices and options. Chrysler Corp. announced a 5.8 per cent increase, $251 in base prices and $75 for options.

Here are some AMC prices and 1975 comparisons:

The new 2-door Gremlin custom sedan costs $3,248 while a comparably-equipped Gremlin cost $3,082 in 1975.

The suggested retail price of the new 2-door Hornet sedan is $3,399, compared to $3,211 last year.

The 2-door Pacer sedan costs $3,649, compared to $3,327 last year.

The 2-door Matador coupe lists for $4,498, compared to $4,331 last year.

The 2-door Jeep Cherokee wagon lists for $5,636, compared to $5,258 last year.

Chessie Reports Big Gain

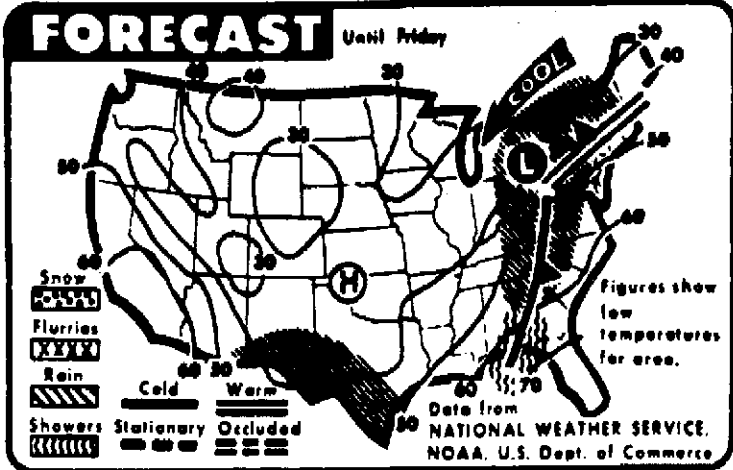

CLEVELAND — Chessie System, Inc. has reported third-quarter earnings of $22.2 million, equal to $1.17 a share. They were the second highest for any July-September period in the company's history and 106 per cent above the year-ago period's $10.8 million, or 58 cents a share.

For the nine months ending September 30, earnings were $65.3 million, equal to $3.44 a share. This was a 28 per cent rise over the earnings of $50.9 million, or $2.75 a share, in 1975's first nine months.

Third-quarter operating revenues for the Chessie System railroads — the Chesapeake and Ohio, Baltimore and Ohio, Western Maryland and their subsidiaries — were $350.8 million, a 15 per cent rise over the $304.2 million reported a year ago. In the nine months, they totaled $1,050.6 million, up from $948.6 million in the 1975 period.

Suit Claims Unjust Credit 'Blackball'

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON
Staff Writer

A Berrien county fruit and vegetable broker has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court against a national credit rating service, claiming the agency "blackballed" him.

The plaintiff, Ted Hellenga, seeks damages in any amount over $10,000 which the court or a jury may award. Hellenga was a produce broker for 40 years until he retired in 1966, and operated out of Benton Harbor, Three Oaks, and Milwaukee, Wis.

Hellenga charges he was "blackballed" when he attempted to come out of retirement and re-enter business.

Named defendant in the suit was Produce Reporter Co., of Wheaton, Ill., which provides credit ratings to the produce industry.

The suit claims Hellenga, before retiring, had the highest possible credit rating in the company's publication plus an entry which indicated he made payment on all accounts within five to ten days.

The suit says Hellenga in 1966 incorporated his business under the name Michigan Produce, Inc., and received an equally good rating in the Produce Reporter's "Blue Book." Upon retirement, Hellenga turned over the operation of his company to others, the suit notes, and the reporting service then dropped his personal listing and used only the Michigan Produce listing.

The suit says the financial condition of Michigan Produce deteriorated until it closed in 1973, but the Blue Book failed to change the credit rating. Five suppliers incurred losses totalling some $63,628, according to the suit, and Hellenga lost about the same amount after advancing money to the failing company.

Hellenga contends he made arrangements to purchase a Milwaukee fruit and produce company in 1974 to re-enter the market and recoup his and the suppliers' losses, and requested his former credit rating. But the suit charges the reporting service said if Hellenga re-entered the industry, his rating would be lowered, the firm would not re-instate his trading membership, and would warn subscribers that Hellenga had been the president of a firm that closed without meeting its obligations.

The suit alleges that because of the firm's threats Hellenga "has been effectively denied the opportunity to re-enter the industry and recoup his own and creditor losses."

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Pushes Upward

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pushed ahead today in a continuation of Wednesday's late technical upturn.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose about a point in the early going. Gainers took a 2-1 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Trading was brisk.

Brokers noted a carryover of buy orders from the last half hour Wednesday, when the market recovered part of a sharp earlier loss.

But they pointed out that Wall Street had to contend this morning with the government's report of a larger-than-expected 0.9 per cent rise in its wholesale price index last month.

Today's early volume leader was Ward Foods, unchanged at 6 in a 173,700-share block trade.

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average fell 7.07 to a four-month low of 959.69. That extended the average's loss for the past seven trading days to 53.44 points.

Declines outnumbered advances by a 2-1 margin at the NYSE, and the exchange's composite index lost .16 to 55.04.

Big Board volume totaled 20.87 million shares.

At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index dropped .63 to 99.93.

Consumers Bond Issue Announced

JACKSON, Mich. (AP) — Consumers Power Company has announced a $80 million bond issue which will be used to finance power plant construction and repay short-term loans.

The Jackson-based utility on Wednesday also declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share on its common stock.

The dividend is payable Nov. 20 to shareholders of record Oct. 22, 1976.

Consumers awarded an underwriting group the $80 million in first mortgage bonds, which come due Oct. 1, 2006.

The group, headed by Blyth Eastman Dillon & Co. Inc., Bache Halsey Stuart Inc., The First Boston Corp., Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith Inc., Salomon Bros. and White, Weld & Co. Inc., submitted a successful bid of 98.52 per cent to Consumers at a nine per cent interest, or a cost basis of 9.1446 per cent.

Two Men Accused Of Break-In

BUCHANAN — Berrien sheriff's officers said two men were arrested Tuesday and Wednesday on charges of breaking and entering the Brookfield Golf course clubhouse, Buchanan township, Sept. 30.

Sheriff's Det. Gary Methling and Deputy Larry Casto said a television, stereo amplifier radio, and several bottles of liquor reported stolen from the clubhouse, 1339 Ryeanson road, and valued at $600, were seized.

The officers said Robert L. Roderick, 20, was arrested Tuesday and demanded examination yesterday when arraigned in Berrien Fifth District court. He was freed on a $2,500 personal recognizance bond. Arrested yesterday and booked at the Berrien jail was David Dewey, 18. Officers reported both reside at 3125 Chamberlain, Buchanan.

'PROJECTS WITH INDUSTRY'

IBM is training men and women severely disabled by spinal cord injuries for jobs in data processing and computer technology. Trainees are selected with the assistance of state vocational rehabilitation departments and private rehabilitation organizations — and in some cases home bound facilities are used as training sites.

DuPont, our nation's 16th largest employer, is enthusiastic about the rehabilitated handicapped it employs. Its own studies show that, on safety, 96 per cent of its handicapped employees rate average-or-better on and off the job; on job performance, 91 per cent rate average or better; on job stability, it's 93 per cent; on attendance, it's 79 per cent. Moreover, the disabled neither want nor need special privileges; necessitate little or no special work arrangements; involve no increase in compensation costs, or in lost-time injuries.

The Florida Restaurant Assn., a private organization representing 20,000 eating places in the state, is working with the emotionally and mentally disturbed to place them in hotel and restaurant related jobs. Arkansas Enterprise for the Blind, a private, non-profit agency, is training the blind as information specialists for the Civil Service Commission and other agencies.

And the Vocational Guidance & Rehabilitation Services of Cleveland, a non-profit agency, is instructing the handicapped to become optical technicians with the National Cole Co., the firm which serves the optical departments of Sears Roebuck.

This is only a sampling of projects in which about 500 industries are helping to place the disabled in all types of jobs.

Increasing numbers of self-enlightened corporations are finding that the handicapped turn into superior employees, are informing vocational rehabilitation organizations of their specific work needs and are providing equipment-training assistance. HEW helps with the financing, but only because it is mandated to do so by Congress in its legislation and appropriations.

The advantages of Projects With Industry are many. The handicapped person receives training for a particular job which industry needs filled. He is given access to a large variety of major companies and thus has more opportunities for career development and advancement. He's exposed to advanced technology that enables him to demonstrate he has the

AMC Prices Up 4.8%

DETROIT (AP) — American Motors Corp., trying to dig out from under a lengthy sales slump, has raised suggested retail base prices on its new passenger cars an average 4.8 per cent, or $167, over 1976 levels, the auto maker announced Wednesday.

The increase is the smallest of any U.S. carmaker. Option prices on both passenger cars and Jeep vehicles at AMC went up an average 5.4 per cent.

Increases in AMC passenger car prices for 1977 range from $122 on the Pacer Sedan to $269 on the Matador four-door station wagon.

The company said suggested retail prices on its Jeep vehicles have been increased 5.7 per cent, or $276, over levels of the last model year.

AMC, the smallest of the major domestic auto companies is the only one of the four U.S. auto makers which has been losing money in recent months.

General Motors Corp. announced a $338 or 5.9 per cent average boost in base prices and options. Ford Motor Co. announced a $310 or 5.1 per cent increase in base prices and options. Chrysler Corp. announced a 5.9 per cent increase, $251 in base prices and $75 for options.

Here are some AMC prices and 1976 comparisons:

The new 2-door Gremlin custom sedan costs $3,248 while a comparably-equipped Gremlin cost $3,082 in 1976.

The suggested retail price of the new 2-door Hornet sedan is $3,399, compared to $3,211 last year.

The 2-door Pacer sedan costs $3,649, compared to $3,527 last year.

The 2-door Matador coupe lists for $4,499, compared to $4,331 last year.

The 2-door Jeep Cherokee wagon lists for $5,636, compared to $5,258 last year.

Chessie Reports Big Gain

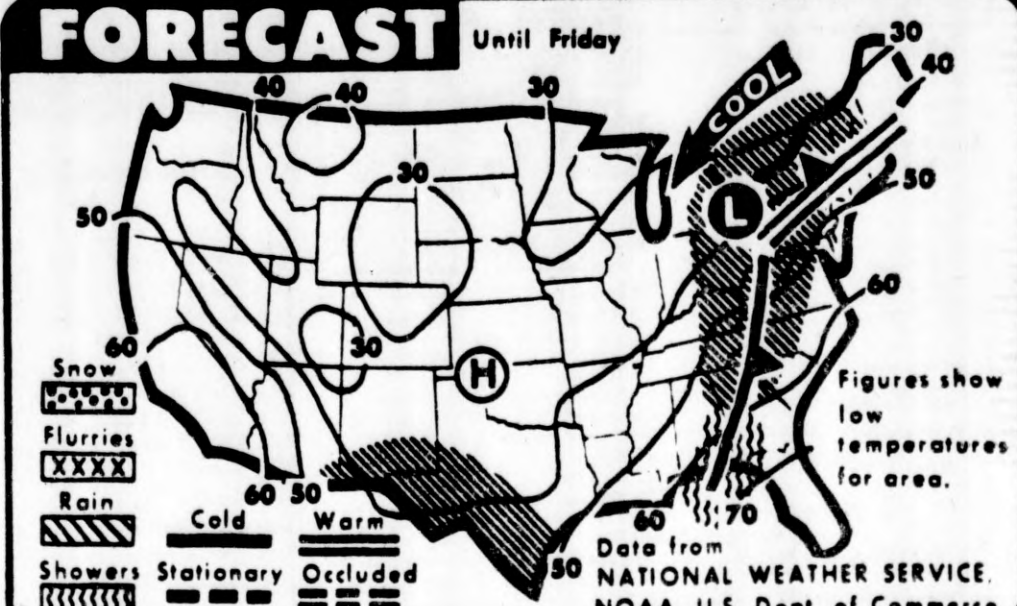

CLEVELAND — Chessie System, Inc. has reported third-quarter earnings of $22.2 million, equal to $1.17 a share. They were the second highest for any July-September period in the company's history and 106 per cent above the year-ago period's $10.8 million, or 58 cents a share.

For the nine months ending September 30, earnings were $65.3 million, equal to $3.44 a share. This was a 28 per cent rise over the earnings of $50.9 million, or $2.75 a share, in 1975's first nine months.

Third-quarter operating revenues for the Chessie System railroads — the Chesapeake and Ohio, Baltimore and Ohio, Western Maryland and their subsidiaries — were $350.8 million, a 15 per cent rise over the $304.2 million reported a year ago. In the nine months, they totaled $1,050.6 million, up from $948.6 million in the 1975 period.

To Defy Ban Again

ROME (AP) — Rebel French Bishop Marcel Lefebvre again will defy a papal ban by celebrating a public Mass in Latin, according to one of his West German followers.

TODAY'S WEATHER MAP: Rain and showers are forecast today for much of the East. Rain is also expected for southern parts of Texas and New Mexico. Mild weather is expected for both coasts but inland areas will be cooler. (AP Wirephoto Map)

SEEKS OVER $10,000 Suit Claims Unjust Credit 'Blackball'

By SCOTT WILLIAMSON Staff Writer

A Berrien county fruit and vegetable broker has filed suit in Berrien Circuit court against a national credit rating service, claiming the agency "blackballed" him.

The plaintiff, Ted Hellenga, seeks damages in any amount over $10,000 which the court or a jury may award. Hellenga was a produce broker for 40 years until he retired in 1969, and operated out of Benton Harbor, Three Oaks, and Milwaukee, Wis.

Hellenga charges he was "blackballed" when he attempted to come out of retirement and re-enter business.

Named defendant in the suit was Produce Reporter Co., of Wheaton, Ill., which provides credit ratings to the produce industry.

The suit claims Hellenga, before retiring, had the highest possible credit rating in the company's publication plus an entry which indicated he made payment on all accounts within five to ten days.

The suit says Hellenga in 1966 incorporated his business under the name Michigan Produce, Inc., and received an equally good rating in the Produce Reporter's "Blue Book." Upon retirement, Hellenga turned over the operation of his company to others, the suit notes, and the reporting service then dropped his personal listing and used only the Michigan Produce listing.

The suit says the financial condition of Michigan Produce deteriorated until it closed in 1973, but the Blue Book failed to change the credit rating. Five suppliers incurred losses to the suit, and Hellenga lost about the same amount after advancing money to the failing company.

Hellenga contends he made arrangements to purchase a Milwaukee fruit and produce company in 1974 to re-enter the market and recoup his and the suppliers' losses, and requested his former credit rating. But the suit charges the reporting service said if Hellenga re-entered the industry, his rating would be lowered, the firm would not re-instate his trading membership, and would warn subscribers that Hellenga had been the president of a firm that closed without meeting its obligations.

The suit alleges that because of the firm's threats Hellenga "has been effectively denied the opportunity to re-enter the industry and recoup his own and creditor losses."

BACKS BUTZ: James E. Bostick Jr., 29, deputy assistant agriculture secretary, defended Earl L. Butz saying that as a Southern black "I know my racism. . . and Earl Butz is no racist. . . He was just one of the nicest men I ever met." Bostick, who grew up in Bennettsville, S.C., is shown in his Washington office. (AP Wirephoto)

Three Persons Demand Felony Charge Hearings

Three people demanded examinations, one was bound over to circuit court and 10 others were sentenced yesterday in Berrien Fifth District court.

Demanding examinations were:

Timothy John Hanover, 20, of Warren Woods road, New Troy, on a charge of breaking and entering and attempting to destroy a safe at the Bridgman Country Club Sept. 7. Bond was set at $15,000.

Richard D. Vandenburg, 28, of 2107 Kathryn, Niles, on a charge of uttering and publishing a $500 forged check Oct. 5 in St. Joseph township. Bond was set at $5,000.

Bobby Lee Austin, 19, of 151 Catalpa avenue, Benton Harbor, on a charge of larceny from a person, Gayle Bolin, July 10 in Benton Harbor. Bond was set at $1,000.

John D. Kelly, 31, no address listed, was bound over to circuit court on a charge of common gross fraud, cashing seven checks totaling over $200 knowing there wasn't sufficient funds, August, 1973 in the Twin Cities area.

Sentenced yesterday were: Jeffery K. Hess, 22, of Box 327, California road, New Troy, $50 for use of marijuana Oct. 5 in Weesaw township.

Timothy A. Gondeck, 30, of 7733 Riverside road, Benton township, 12 days in jail with credit for time served for tampering with a motor vehicle, reduced from larceny from a motor vehicle Sept. 23 in Lincoln township.

Gary Carlson, 27, of Kalamazoo, $50 or 10 days in jail for possession of marijuana Oct. 6 in Benton Heights and $32 or five days in jail for transporting open intoxicants in a motor vehicle the same day.

Edward R. Menkhous, 19, of 2708 Lakeview Estates, St. Joseph, $75 for receiving and concealing stolen property under $100 in St. Joseph May 30 and 31, 1976, and $50 for use of marijuana Oct. 5 in St. Joseph.

Driving under the influence of intoxicants — Jane L. Hillegas, 45, of 1696 North Riveria drive, Stevensville, $100; and Shirley Renkema, 38, of Route 2, Cleveland avenue, Buchanan, $152.

Impaired driving — Peggy L. Jarmy, 53, of 2909 Lake Shore drive, St. Joseph, $152; and Michael P. Chester, 49, 2800 Wildwood, Stevensville, $102.

FLU SHOTS: Dr. Delano Meriwether, director of National Influenza Immunization Program, said in Indianapolis, Ind., yesterday that the decision of whether to provide swine flu shots for all children would be decided later this month. The free inoculations that began last Friday included high risk children under 18 but no normal children due to side effects. (AP Wirephoto)

POLICE ROUNDUP

Couple Robbed Him Of $190, Man Says

A 61-year-old Benton Harbor man told city police Wednesday he was robbed of $190 in cash by a man and woman who forced him to drive his car to Vineyard street where they fled on foot.

Willard Shubert, 288 Pleasant street, who was unhurt, said the pair accosted him as he was getting into his car parked in the 1000 block of Milton street about 7:45 p.m. He said the man held "something hard" and believed to have been a knife at the back of his neck. Shubert said the robbers told him to drive into a driveway on Vineyard where it deadends near Cedar street, took his wallet containing the cash and fled.

Benton township police said Ed Schoenfeld reported seven fishing rods and reels were stolen from his garage by thieves who also cut out a section of his garden hose and used it to siphon gasoline from his car. Schoenfeld, 4081 East Napier avenue, said the fishing gear is valued at about $170.

Another theft reported to township police Wednesday was a $125 CB radio from the car of Belinda Waggle, 2012 Taylor street, Benton Heights, parked at the Berrien social services office, 1134 South Crystal avenue.

State police of the Benton Harbor post said Sharyn Jackson, 1884 Zoschke road, Benton township, reported two televisions, two vacuum cleaners, a stereo and a 30.06 caliber rifle, all valued at $900 were stolen from her home Wednesday.

Berrien sheriff's deputies said Wednesday someone was apparently frightened away while siphoning gasoline from buses at the St. Joseph public schools bus garage, 600 West Glenford road, Lincoln township. Deputies said a full five gallon can of gasoline and a length of garden hose were found by one bus and two full one-gallon gas cans were found by another bus Wednesday morning.

Benton township police said Elmore Davis, 780 East High street, Benton Harbor, was arrested and booked at the Berrien county jail early today on a warrant charging receiving and concealing stolen property.

The warrant alleges the property was a television, valued at more than $100, reported stolen from the Claremont Nursing home, 1385 East Empire avenue, Sept. 6.

Blasts Johnson
HOUSTON (AP) — Retired Gen. William C. Westmoreland says the late President Lyndon B. Johnson treated the Vietnam war as "a sideshow ... and did not level with the American people."

Baking Soda Snuffs Out Home Fire

Benton township firemen said Ann Jenkins, Hull's Terra apartments, used baking soda to extinguish a fire at her apartment before firemen arrived Wednesday. Firemen said the 6:48 p.m. fire at 1946 East Britain avenue started in a pan on the stove and spread to the stove's vent hood. No damage estimate was given and no one was hurt, firemen reported.

Marijuana Possession Is Charged

NEW BUFFALO — A Dolton, Ill. man was arrested on charges of carrying a concealed weapon and possession of marijuana early this morning after his auto was stopped near New Buffalo.

Berrien sheriff's deputies from the Galien substation said Thomas A. Lewis Jr., 32, was arrested after his auto was stopped for alleged speeding on I-94 in New Buffalo township. Deputies said they confiscated a loaded .357 magnum revolver, brass knuckles and a small amount of suspected marijuana at 1:14 a.m. today.

South Haven Hospital

SOUTH HAVEN — Patients admitted to South Haven Community hospital yesterday included Mrs. Alice Bell, Donald Johnston, Robert Pindexter, Mrs. Ronald Springgett, all South Haven; Mrs. Helen Czuj, Mrs. Theresa Schilk, Bangor; Mrs. Barbara Moore, Covert; Mrs. Henry Schultz, Grand Junction.

CELEBRATING 100TH BIRTHDAY

U-M Pharmacy School Pioneer

ANN ARBOR — The University of Michigan College of Pharmacy — first in the nation to offer a full-time university program in pharmacy — is celebrating its 100th birthday.

This leadership role, adopted in 1876, represents a landmark in pharmacy education which started the transformation of a medicinal trade into a respected profession.

This century of progress is being saluted by the College and hundreds of its alumni this week during a Centennial Weekend on the U-M campus. It will include a two-day professional symposium today and Friday, an academic convocation and banquet on Friday, and attendance at the Michigan-Michigan State football game on Saturday.

The majority of these pharmacists are no longer involved in the preparation, packaging or compounding of drugs. Their professional role now more often concerns the distribution and control of medicinal agents. There is increasing concern with clinical pharmacy — advising patients, physicians and other health care professionals on the complex actions and interactions of the many powerful medications now available. This modern role represents an extraordinary upgrading from 100 years ago when the U-M College was founded and when American pharmacists, then commonly called apothecaries or druggists, were generally deplored for their ignorance by the scientific community.

The first classes in pharmacy were given in the U-M Chemistry Department in 1890. Nine years later, in 1899, degrees in pharmaceutical chemistry, the first in the nation, were granted to 23 students, 13 of whom were medical students.

The Regents set up a separate School of Pharmacy in 1876. (Its name was changed to the College of Pharmacy in 1915). Albert Prescott was appointed its first dean and was to serve as such for 29 years. Prescott was both physician and chemist and became widely known for his textbook, "Qualitative Chemical Analysis," written together with Prof. Silas Douglass, his predecessor as head of chemistry.

One of the distinctions of the new school was its chemical laboratory, a one-story structure constructed in 1855 under the direction of Prof. Douglass. It was the first chemistry laboratory in a state university. Victor Vaughan, dean of the U-M Medical School from 1891 to 1921, described it in his memoirs as "the largest and best equipped chemical laboratory in the United States, and with but one in the world to compare with it — the laboratory of Fresenius at Wiesbaden."

The example of the U-M spread to other universities. In 1883 the University of Wisconsin established a department of pharmacy. Indiana, Ohio, Illinois and others joined in swift succession. Opposition to the academically oriented curriculum remained, however. In 1895, the U-M School successfully braved ridicule and opposition by introducing a four-year bachelor of science degree program to supplement the two-year program, thus bringing pharmacy on a par with other University programs.

MODERN FACILITIES: The University of Michigan's present College of Pharmacy is housed in this modern building on the central campus in Ann Arbor.

is now partially preserved as the Economics building on the center campus "diag" near the graduate library.

Threat Of Socialization Reducing Hospital Stays

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The threat of socialized medicine appears to be forcing the health care industry into efficiencies that might eventually slow the rise in patients' medical bills.

The threat, which has been a sword over the industry's head, may be one of the main reasons why during the past five years the length of inpatient stay at hospitals has been cut by almost a full day, from 8.4 to 7.5 days.

While that reduces the average stay to about where it was in 1962 — the figure rose sharply when Medicare was introduced in 1966 — it represents a genuine decline from the 9.1 day figure of 1946.

Alexander McMahon, president of the American Hospital Association, now foresees the possibility that the figure might be reduced even more, cutting billions of dollars from the nation's health care bill.

The pressure from possible government action in the health care field has, among other things, forced hospitals to screen patients before admitting, to develop one-day surgery stays, to utilize home care, to reduce convalescent periods.

What it views as a threat also has led to more cooperation between health insurers and hospitals, and may even lead to a universal claim form accepted by most insurers and hospitals.

A test of the new form in California indicated that state alone would save $8 million a year, said McMahon, leading him to suggest a national saving of about $80 million.

Such a development also would reduce a level of confusion that is probably unmatched in American industry, involving patient, doctor, hospital, insurer and regulator in an incoherent babble and shuffling of papers.

McMahon concedes that some of the efficiencies being introduced result from adverse public opinion and possible government action. In that sense, he said, "competition is good."

At the same time, McMahon maintains that a good deal of the change is internally motivated by staffs who recognize that the role of the hospital is changing and that they must respond to newer demands.

Years ago, he points out, "All a doctor could do was sit and hold the patient's hand and wait for mother nature's healing process. And in the earliest days, a patient went to the hospital to die rather than get well."

By contrast, today's hospital, with its expensive technology and high operating costs, is seen as a facility that must be used intensively, not as a rest home or even as a recuperative facility.

McMahon maintains that hospitals today are better audited medically and financially, that doctors often fail to get their patients admitted if the work can be done elsewhere, that insurers are refusing to pay for unnecessary care, and that follow-up checks by accreditation agencies and others keep hospital personnel on their toes.

McMahon, of course, is fighting a battle to keep the health care industry beyond the long arm of government control, and so can be expected to emphasize the positive response to complaints.

From this position he insists the battle is being won. "We're responding," he said. "It suggests to Congress and others that lots of positive activity is going on to control costs and that we may bring it off without additional regulation."

He feels also that people today are less likely to rely on regulation, having learned that it sometimes doesn't solve the problem, and may in itself by a factor in rising costs.

But, he was asked, what happens if the pressure relaxes? McMahon insists that efficiencies would continue.

"Overutilization of hospitals and other health care facilities tend to be one of the major causes of higher costs," he said, and that means cuts must be made everywhere, from front office to operating room.
